The Smartest Fashions of Well-Dressed Folk

THE AFTERNOON TEA

MY DEAR ELEANOR:

I must tell you about the afternoon tea that Maud Coleman gave a few days ago. Oh! so many styles were exploited and such delightful renewal of old friendships and such delicious tea were ours that we stayed very much longer than our allotted time, and some of us forgot to leave cards.

Two decided features of the new styles came in and held our attention for quite a few minutes. I sat in my comfortable corner talking with Elizabeth Manton, and we took a few notes on the well-dressed women who exemplified the new durbar and the revived directoire fashions.

Let me begin at the top of the eastern princess. Around her head was an oriental turban of folded blue silk, with a fantasie of feathers at the top and sides. Her gown had a heavy lace yoke that extended over the shoulder. From the edge a gathered bodice of green chiffon fell down to a wide girdle of blue silk, caught with a huge pink rose. The green tunic was gathered into a band of shirring, under which fell the blue silk underskirt. Long chiffon sleeves had puffed upper portions ending in ruffles at the elbows.

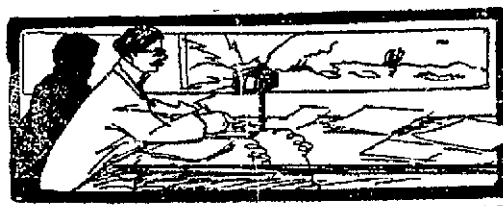

The jaunty directoire lady had a deep purple hat of satin, with a huge purple aigrette caught under a jet ornament. Her suit was of purple cotton ratine, with a cutaway jacket trimmed with black satin revers, a folded belt and deep cuffs.

The skirt showed the drapery which is surely making itself felt in our costumes. A side, trimmed with a row of satin-covered but-narrow strip of material extended down the left tons. The front width of the skirt was draped and caught under this band. A suggestion of a black satin underskirt showed under the purple skirt. Her snowy frill of shadow lace and her high parasol completed the "chic" of the costume.

How different are the modes from the scanty lines of last year. And how philosophically we accept changes in fashions! But aren't we attractive anyhow?

Yours,

MADGE.

WORLD TURNS EYES ON WEST

Commissioner De Young Tells of Interest in Panama-Pacific Fair.

Merchants to Send Displays Even if Nations Fall by the Wayside.

(By PAUL PIERRE RIGNAUX.)

PARIS, April 27.—M. H. DeYoung, the vice-president of the Panama-Pacific exposition and commissioner of the enterprise, Orient in the interest of the enterprise, has arrived in Paris on his journey around the world to interest the nations of the earth in the mighty exposition San Francisco is going to open to the people of the world in 1915. Mr. De Young is accompanied by his wife and the Misses De Young and they are brimful of enthusiasm over the trip. In speaking of his expedition Mr. De Young said:

"I have been exploiting the exposition in the Oriental countries and have found the deepest interest in it, not only among the officials but also among business men."

"Viscount Uchida and Baron Mekino, the Japanese ministers of foreign affairs and commerce, respectively, gave me every assurance that their country will take a prominent part in celebrating the opening of the Panama canal to the trade of the world."

"The two ministers were surprised and delighted with the large amount subscribed by San Francisco citizens and by the city itself, by the State of California, and to be subscribed by every state of the union, as well as an appropriation by Congress. I reminded the ministers that the United States had appropriated $11,200,000 for the Tokyo exposition in 1917. They replied that Japan would reciprocate."

PROMISE SUPPORT.

"From Tokyo I went to Yokohama, where the merchants, the manufacturers and other businessmen assured me they would send a great exhibit whether the government participated or not. They pointed out that no foreign country could derive more benefit from the Panama canal than Japan. The canal connects Japan in the cheapest way, namely, by water, with Brazil, Argentina and the east coast of the United States, with France, England, etc."

"A dinner given me under the auspices of the Japanese businessmen of Yokohama, all assured me the best products would be sent to San Francisco. They agreed with me that there is nothing in war for any great nation but there is much in peaceful competition."

"At Shanghai the leading Chinese business men assured me that all their big cities will combine to make an imposing display of Chinese ingenuity and handicraft at the great world's fair. Once the business interests have taken hold the official and can be easily arranged when the trouble in China is over. There is plenty of time for the government to take official action."

"The Chinese Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai assured me that in spite of trouble between the budding republic and the Manchu dynasty business men would see to it that China's exhibit would be thoroughly represented. I received similar assurances from business men in Singapore. The Chinese appreciate the canal as the greatest physical wonder of the twentieth century. When I told them that $50,000,000 will be expended on the San Francisco international exposition they began to realize that the show would be worthy of the event it meant to celebrate."

VISITED CEYLON.

"I visited Ceylon in the interests of the exposition and was delighted at the magnificent commerce at the port of Colombo. In one morning twelve large ships came into the great harbor. The Panama canal will make Colombo a port of trade with the other end of the world. Ceylon will send suitable and large exhibits."

"The Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines and every country visited is red hot for the exposition. Even Egypt, from which country I have just returned, will avail itself of the international exposition to make itself known as a winter resort."

"On reaching Rome I had a long and favorable interview with the Italian government officials through the courtesy of Ambassador O'Brien. The Count San Martino, president of the recent Italian exhibition and head of the Italian exposition exploitation, went into the matter fully. The Count and the Minister of Foreign Affairs strongly favor Italy taking a prominent part in the exposition. The Count urged me to talk the matter over with the King but the pressure of business compelled me to reluctantly come to Paris."

"California will be ready to receive the ships of all nations, which will assemble in Hampton roads, sail down the Atlantic, pass through the Panama canal for the first time and proceed to San Francisco."

RICH FINDS MADE IN STREET OF ABUNDANCE

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

NAPLES, April 27.—The new excavations in Pompeii have brought to light about eight houses of the Street of Abundance leading towards the amphitheatre. The first house to the left is a very fine and the angle of the newly excavated street, with a narrower street still buried.

This house has a wide door, above which is a fresco some six feet long, in which are depicted a rejoicing crowd, playing round a throne on which is seated a divinity. Many of the figures are playing chess, and a woman stretches out her arms inviting them to contribute gifts, while two other female figures hold baskets in which to receive them. A wreath of flowers and foliage forms a border to the whole.

On the wall above, separated from each other by large red squares, are the figures of Jupiter, Mercury and Apollo, while a fourth figure is not yet identified. The features of Jupiter are rude with a cruel expression. The color of the fresco is very vivid and the proportions of the figures are just.

PRINCE AND WIFE LEAVE TABLE OF COUNTRESS

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, April 28.—The Prince and Princess Pierre de Chimay, of the family into which Clara Ward of Detroit married some twenty-two years ago, left the dinner table of the Countess de Kindt in high dudgeon last evening because precedence over them was given an official and his wife.

The de Chimays are well known in Paris and are one of the first families in Belgium. They belong to the court set and are present at all court functions. The same may be said of Countess de Kindt in Brussels. Last night the Countess placed on her right Baron Bayens and his wife, who was formerly Miss Uppenheim. As the baron is in actual office, he being one of King Albert's ministers, the countess believed that she was doing right in giving him and his wife places of honor. But the de Chimays, who sat at the left, did not see the matter in the same light; they held that a Prince should have precedence over a mere baron and barones. Hence at the conclusion of the dinner the prince, in a cold metallic voice, said:

"Will Madame the Countess kindly have my carriage ordered?"

The Prince and Princess then withdrew without a word of explanation.

BRANDS CHARGES OF INHUMANITY AS FALSE

(By RICHARD PAGOT.)

LONDON, April 27.—Imagine that there are few people in England who have not by this time realized the charges of inhumanity and savage blood-thirstiness brought against Italian soldiers fighting for their country in Tripoli were false charges.

The complete ignorance of the English public as to the existence of any genuine reasons for Italy's declaration of war, was immediately seized up by the agents of the Young Turk party as a favorable ground for the sowing of the seeds of those calumnies against Italian humanity which in a very short time, sprang to maturity. The energetic suppression of the Arab revolt at Tripoli no doubt afforded a splendid opportunity of casting the crop so easily sown.

The conflict between Italy and Turkey, which would appear to have broken out unexpectedly, is in reality, only the episode to a long series of annoyances and injuries not always apparent on the surface of things, directed against Italy and the Italians by the Ottoman government. For a considerable period innumerable complaints have been received by the King's government from all parts of the Turkish Empire, seeking protection against constant exactions of the absolute tyranny to which they were exposed, all redress for which things were invariably refused. Here follows a list of instances:

Numerous other complaints, and an infinity of contrivances of greater or less gravity exist, such as for instance, insults and aggressions committed against Italians belonging to the Italian Consulates in various portions of the Empire, the massacres at Adana in 1909, and the sackings of the towns of the Italian General Steam Navigation Company at Santi Quaranta. These acts of aggression were such as to demonstrate that for some time Italians were surrounded by a hostile atmosphere, in which the latest sensation at the house in Hilltop-crescent which was the scene of the historic Crippen murder, was a safe-guard against any further violence.

After having taken possession of the premises for about 36 hours.

The house as at present occupied by Sande McNab, a Scottish comedian, who recently returned from South Africa with a 15-foot python as a souvenir of his visit. In the early hours of Saturday the household was rudely awakened by the noise of falling crockery, and when Mr. McNab went to the kitchen to investigate the mystery he was met by the sight of a candle, his python at liberty. It darted hissing about the room and showed its fangs whenever an attempt was made to touch it.

A press representative who called found the household in a state of alarm and excitement. "Oh goodness, ladies, we've had an awful night," said the comedian, as he wearily wiped his brow. "I'm not used to stay in this house, but I'm telling you, it's a real python."

The huge reptile, which was coiled up on the warm kitchen boiler, occasionally reared its head and spat out its fangs when anyone entered the room, but after the exciting experience of the early hours it was decided to leave it alone. During the night it swished McNab's neck black and white, and the next morning it was found it for the time. Mr. McNab endeavored to seize it in the afternoon, but the python would not allow him to get near it. He was eventually forced back into his cage. During the two months it has been in Mr. McNab's possession the python has refused to eat anything, and it is feared upon the kitchen, such delicate as rats and guinea-pigs having failed to tempt its appetite.

OSCAR WILL BE HONORED BY RULERS

Hammerstein's Opera House to Have Visit From King and Queen.

His Headgear to Be in Custody of Treasurer While He Bows.

BY CHESTER OVERTON.

LONDON, April 27.—King George and Queen Mary will attend Oscar Hammerstein's London opera house for the first time on Monday afternoon. The occasion is a benefit performance to aid the League of Nations and King George is sovereign of that order.

Herr Oscar will be presented to the King and Queen by Prince Alexander of Teck, the presentation will take place in the foyer of the opera house just before their majesties enter the royal box.

One of the most important details to be arranged in advance of the presentation concerned the disposition of Oscar's famous milk hat and the inevitable cigar. Hammerstein finally promised to hand the hat and cigar into the custody of the treasurer of his theatre, Lyle Andrews, when the announcement is made that the royal procession is approaching the opera house and to leave them with Mr. Andrews until the ceremony is over.

The chief feature of the benefit performance will be the garden scene from "Faust," in which the principals are to be four American singers, Orville Harold, the Indian tenor; Felice Lyne, the Missouri soprano; Harry Wilson, the Maryland-based and Lydia Locks, the Colorado contralto.

FALL OF WOLSEY.

Other features of the performance are the fall of Wolsey, scene from Henry VIII, given by Sir Herbert Tree and Arthur Roucher, a minuet arranged by Lady Maitland, to be danced by twenty-four sons and daughters of first songs by Clara Butt and Stella Carol and several members by the London opera house orchestra under the direction of M. de Mores. The program has been arranged by the Countess of Chesterfield, and the versatile Hammerstein.

It is the Countess who is to give Hammerstein the first step that will gain him his presentation to the King. She will receive the King and Queen and other members of the royal party. The Countess will first present Oscar to the Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck, who, in turn, will present him to the King and Queen. Oscar will then show the way to the royal box.

Oscar admits it will be something of an effort to refrain from attempting to dispose of a few season subscriptions under so favorable circumstances.

FIRST REAL CLASH.

Hammerstein's first real clash with the Covent Garden company came Monday night when his summer season of opera was opened with a performance of Romeo and Juliet, this being the bill at the Garden. To say the least Hammerstein's season opened very quietly but that was partly accounted for by the blight of Titanic disaster put on everything. The house was filled and there was a large number of Americans in the stalls. But the boxes and the balcony were empty, being conspicuously chiefly by its absence.

Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid were present and the Hon. John Ward was a guest. Mrs. Reid wore a gray chiffon over silver tulle. She wore a pearl necklace and pearl hair ornaments.

Lady Alexander wore a gown of dark blue and gold brocade and wore diamond hair ornaments and a diamond collar.

The Countess of Harwood wore a gown of satin, with a large diamond necklace and a large diamond brooch.

Mrs. Doris of Boston was in an orange satin gown and wore a pearl necklace. Mrs. John H. H. was in a blue gown and wore a large diamond necklace and a large diamond brooch.

Those present were given a splendid performance. Mrs. John H. H. in the principal roles getting a great reception. The other Americans who created great enthusiasm were every one by the name of the role of Friar Lawrence.

He is a son of Admiral Hughes of the United States navy.

HUNT FOR PYTHON IS SENSATIONAL

Reptile Captured After Being in Possession of House for 36 Hours.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

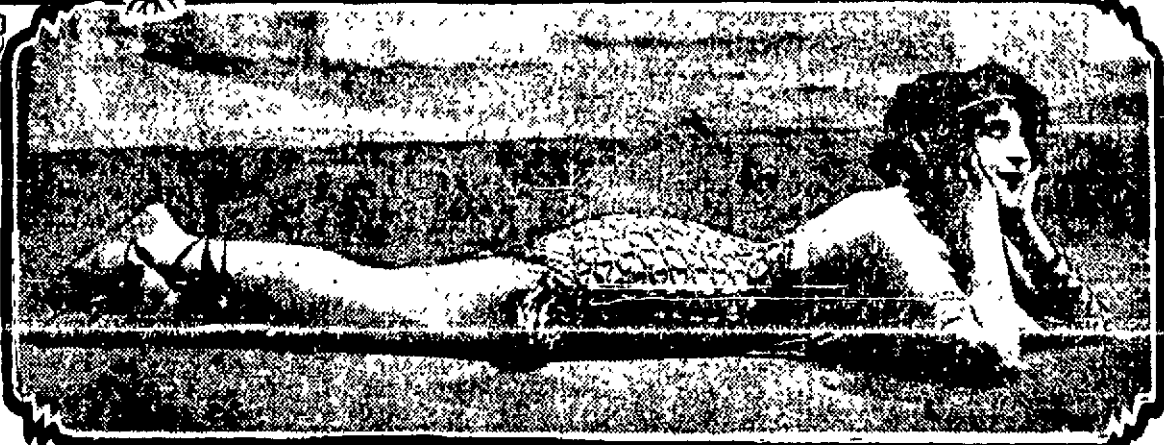

LONDON, April 27.—A python hunt has been the latest sensation at the house in Hilltop-crescent which was the scene of the historic Crippen murder, and it was a safe-guard against any further violence.

FEMINE IS BRAND ON U. S. MEN

German Critic Declares American Husband Is Mere Money Earner.

Claims Women Are Masculine and Taught to Be Superior.

BERLIN, April 27.—According to an article by Henry F. Urban, who is recognized in Germany as a keen, good natured, social critic, freedom of action by American society women, especially in New York, is possible because American society men are feminine and the women masculine.

"A smart New York woman," Herr Urban says, "is not merely a complete ascetic, but she has something queerly in her disposition, and at the same time is far more natural and unaffected than her European sisters."

"The explanation is that from youth onward she is taught to consider herself a sort of higher species before whom mere man must bow the knee. She expects her male relations, including her grandfather, and all other men must find her charming."

"She takes the greatest care of her person. She is pious; she is devoted to sport. The result of her education is a slim, healthy, amiable, highly independent, exacting, well informed young woman. All American women, Herr Urban contends, have one passion in common—love of shopping—which is undertaken without any intent to purchase but solely as a pastime."

"For the American society husband, he, according to Herr Urban, 'is a mere money earner, who must accustom himself to smile obligingly, talk nothing, and look like a gentleman.'"

KILLS SELF OVER HIS SWEETHEART'S BODY

BERLIN, April 27.—The last act of a love tragedy was played in the church of the St. Elizabeth's cemetery, Berlin. Many hundreds of persons had assembled to witness the funeral of Marina Stachowicz, a young girl who had poisoned herself because she was unable to marry the man to whom she was betrothed. She was a beautiful, well educated, and in spite of her humble position, her gentleness and beauty made her many friends.

The clergyman was half way through the burial service when a young man, who proved to be the faithless lover, was observed to be pushing his way through the crowd standing in the aisle until he reached the coffin.

"Here is my place; by her will I die!" he cried. "The sound of a revolver shot rang through the church and the lover fell dead on the coffin."

AGED MAN PUTS FIRE OUT BY WIELDING A BROOM

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—Arthur L. Pierce, 72 years old, a professional acrobat, when his neighbor, Mrs. Michael Hart, 2616 A Sheridan avenue, informed him the roof of her residence was on fire.

Pierce seized a broom, mounted to the roof of his own home, 2612 Sheridan avenue, and stepped across to the roof of the Hart home, where he saw shingles had been set afire by a defective flue. Wielding the broom vigorously, he kept the fire from spreading until the fire department responded to an alarm turned in by Mrs. Hart.

Firemen who climbed to the roof started in amazement when they saw Pierce, his long, white beard waving to and fro as he swung his broom up and down. The amateur fire fighter stopped and smiled at the professionals.

"I think I could put it out in time, but I'm glad you came," he told them.

The firemen took a few shingles and the fire was out.

BEAR LEAPS FROM STAGE, PANIC IN THE AUDIENCE

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—Attendees at a moving picture show at 4257 Jefferson avenue, got more entertainment than they were looking for when a muzzled wrestling bear leaped over the footlights and started down the main aisle for the door.

The audience jumped up on the seats. Women screamed and ran away from the main aisle massing at the sides of the building while the bear with the man he had been wrestling with clinging to his back trotted through the house. The man who owned the bear ran on the stage and called to the wrestler to "hang on to him," then jumped over the footlights and followed him.

The piano player played the "Grizzly Bear" and helped to stop the panic.

MAN RUN OVER BY AUTO WHEN CRANKING MOTOR

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 27.—John Worthington, proprietor of the Hotel Worthington, had a narrow escape from being killed by being run over by his own automobile as he attempted to crank it. Worthington was in the high gear clutch set after he had stopped the machine. Later, when he cranked the engine started, and to save himself being dragged under the machine he grasped the radiator cap and pulled himself up on the hood. He was trying to climb into the machine to shut off the power when it struck a grocery wagon, smashed and crashed into a garage. He is feared Worthington is internally injured.

The upset often finishes on the down side.

The Crown Princess of Greece entertained a party of Americans at Piraeus on the 22d. They were excursionists aboard the "Cincinnati" of the Hamburg American line. The Princess who is very gracious of manner and very democratic as well, went aboard the ship and mingled with the passengers. Then she went ashore with a party of them and took the regular shore excursion in their company.

When news of the attack on King Manuel reached the people, they swarmed to the Quirinal Palace, shouting "Long Live the King," and parties marched through the streets cheering for the King and Queen. These are the first pictures received from Italy. They are sent by the Rome correspondent of the Bain News Service.

Mrs. James B. Duke is the wife of the American tobacco millionaire who is now attracting attention in social London by her beauty. She was recently presented at court. She is the aunt of Miss Mary Duke, who is engaged to Prince Pignatelli d'Aragona of Spain.

In view of the prospect that those suffering penalties for other people's panes will ultimately be proclaimed martyrs, the London Times suggests that a stained glass window suitably inscribed, something like the above, would be the most effective memorial.

Sponges in Pelvis After Operation

NEW YORK, April 27.—A suit like that brought a few weeks ago by a woman against a physician for leaving a towel in her abdomen after an operation, has been brought by Dr. Otto Killian of 77 West 4th street, and Dr. Herman Fischer of 1010 Lexington avenue.

The San Geronimo hospital, which is located in his abdomen two sponges following an operation at the German hospital.

Dr. Killian alleged that he performed the operation. He went to the hospital on Jan. 11, 1911, and was discharged as cured on Jan. 12, 1911, and was discharged as cured on Jan. 12, 1911, and was discharged as cured on Jan. 12, 1911.

By the time the suit was filed, the Countess had no idea of taking into account a wife when the left Naples two weeks ago, on the Italian liner San Geronimo.

But when the vessel arrived here he was head over heels in love with a young girl of the steerage, and went to Ellis Island with her when he found she would have to pass through the immigration channels with all other second class and steerage aliens.

The Countess had only a handful of saloon passengers, and the count grew weary before reaching mid-Atlantic. One day, according to one of the men on board, she came to the main deck and there she was head over heels in love with the Countess.

By the time the Countess made up his mind that Signorina Pignatelli would surely become the Countess, he asked permission to have her receive the free of the saloon deck, and thereafter the Countess and her mother were much in the Countess's company.

The Countess, who is 22 years old, said he had come here to study American business methods, and would be with company at No. 10 Broadway. It is said he will meet his fiancée on her return from Ellis Island and the marriage will be celebrated.

Count Finds Love in the Steerage

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Countess had no idea of taking into account a wife when the left Naples two weeks ago, on the Italian liner San Geronimo.

But when the vessel arrived here he was head over heels in love with a young girl of the steerage, and went to Ellis Island with her when he found she would have to pass through the immigration channels with all other second class and steerage aliens.

The Countess had only a handful of saloon passengers, and the count grew weary before reaching mid-Atlantic. One day, according to one of the men on board, she came to the main deck and there she was head over heels in love with the Countess.

By the time the Countess made up his mind that Signorina Pignatelli would surely become the Countess, he asked permission to have her receive the free of the saloon deck, and thereafter the Countess and her mother were much in the Countess's company.

The Countess, who is 22 years old, said he had come here to study American business methods, and would be with company at No. 10 Broadway. It is said he will meet his fiancée on her return from Ellis Island and the marriage will be celebrated.

MRS. JOHN E. POND, a bride of the fortnight.

Some Things We Don't Do Right, as Suzette Sees Them

AN Englishwoman of note traveling in America complains of our lack of well-established conventions. She remarks that in the English smart set everyone knows exactly what is expected of him—exactly what to do. Here there is such a broad margin. For instance, in England no one ever leaves a home before the guest of honor. She goes first, of course. While here, if one waited for the guest of honor to go first after a luncheon, one would probably wait the entire afternoon.

In England, after a dinner, unless there is to be bridge, guests wait twenty minutes and then take their departure. In America it is embarrassing, that no one knows just at what time to order one's carriage.

"How many times," exclaims the Englishwoman, "have the host and hostess forgotten utterly to calculate the length of the dinner, and no hour for the carriages to return has been stated to the carriage man in attendance." And the Englishwoman goes on, laying bare a grievance with which most of us can sympathize:

"How many times the miserable guests have waited in the dressing rooms while the clock ticked round to the moment when they had estimated would be the one to leave, and for which the carriage or motor has been ordered. But more miserable still is the wholly informal affair, for which the invitation carried no hint for the moment of one's expected departure, and the guests hopefully wait for some sign to be given, and so often wait in vain. Carelessness is the usual error at the foundation of these unfortunate conditions."

In fact, carelessness is our besetting sin. We have been so busy along so many strenuous lines that social observances have not seemed of the greatest importance, and so replies to invitations are very tardy in arriving. It is much to be regretted, because a prompt reply, bringing an enforced regret, often allows the hostess to ask someone to fill the place. The same thing is true of wedding invitations.

In England one finds well-equipped writing desks everywhere, and part of an Englishwoman's morning is always spent in answering her mail. While here a hostess often sends out an invitation, and then she has to follow it up with a telephone message to ask if her invitation has been received.

A well-known society woman of New York has written the following paragraph, and one wonders if it is true:

"In this country we have no inner circle. There is no group that can impose its manners and customs. And if there were, there would be no unanimity within the group. One hostess would allow what another forbade. The fact that Mrs. A permitted her daughter to do the 'bunny-hug' must be entirely offset by the knowledge that Mrs. B does not."

However, Americans do so many things well that they can be trusted to play the social game as well as it is done in Europe. In the near future, for we are evolving "smart sets" in many of our cities that are very definitely worth while.

AND HERE'S A BIT OF STREET CAR ETIQUETTE.

Along these lines it is interesting to know that there is an etiquette of carfare, and it is, indeed, true that the woman who understands the etiquette of carfare is an oasis in a social desert.

A suggestion to the car companies which at least would receive the approval of the conductor would be to placard each car with: "The rule of etiquette infallibly decrees that of two women it is the married woman who pays the carfare. If neither is married the older one of any two." This rule bears a straining in that the wealthier of two women usually pays. Herein the rule of kindness away.

NOVELTY IS FEATURE OF ENGLISH SOCIAL LIFE.

The smart sets of England are always planning social affairs that are so unique and original that social life is a joy instead of becoming a round of deadliness in its monotony.

Members of the smart set in London are planning an "Old-Time Ball," or "One Hundred Years Ago Ball," and all London is taking the greatest interest in it. The king and queen have given it their patronage, and the Princess Christian is president of the society, and all sorts of novel effects are being planned. Dresses of the period will be worn and quadrilles are being specially grouped and dressed.

A quaint and pretty quadrille will be the "Cries of London," arranged by the Duchess of Rutland. There is to be an art quadrille, and the Countess of Minto is arranging an Indian quadrille in which will be worn the beautiful Rance costumes given to the countess and her daughters during their stay in India. There is to be a wonderful naval quadrille, and one reads that the Duchess of Marlborough, the Duchess of Westminster and the Marchioness of Crewe have promised their assistance to Lady Paget, wife of General Sir Arthur Paget, who is to be responsible for the Waterloo quadrille at the "Old-Time Ball" in June, in which will be found characters representing Napoleon and the Empress Marie Louise, the Duke of Wellington, the Prince of Orange, and other notabilities of the period. Lady Crossley, wife of Sir Saville Crossley, will arrange a government quadrille, in which members of the cabinet of 1812 will be represented.

One wishes that our local smart set might evolve something equally clever. We have so many fair women who could so well portray the period.

Among the very last people in the famous old Campanile before it collapsed were Mrs. William G. Henshaw and Miss Alice Grimes, and they were considered to have had a most remarkable escape.

Mrs. Hays and Mrs. Norris, with Jack and Eliza McMullin, are in Rome, as is also Loring Pickering.

A cable from Italy brings the following news of their party:

"Loring Pickering is in Rome, where he will stay for some time. He arrived not long ago in Naples, intending to see all there was to see there, but was called at once to Rome by the illness of his friend, Mr. Norris, also of California. Mr. Norris had eaten oysters in Naples, and, coming on to the Eternal City, was stricken with typhoid fever and very nearly succumbed. Mr. Pickering passed some anxious days, but now has the satisfaction of seeing his friend convalescent."

"Mrs. Norris joined her son on hearing of his illness, and incidentally broke the record for fast traveling, as she accomplished her journey from San Francisco to Rome in nine days. It sounds impossible; all the same, she did it with the help of special trains. On arriving here she had the glad tidings that her son was on the mend."

The "Mr. Norris" of the story is John McMullin. His mother, who is now Mrs. Norris, was formerly Mrs. John McMullin.

MANY CALIFORNIANS SPEND SPRING IN ITALY.

Many Californians are in Italy this spring, and one hears that Venice has been very gay during the past week with the celebration of the unveiling of the new Campanile, built to replace the old one which collapsed a few years ago. Among the Americans who went to Venice for the historical event were Miss Elizabeth McNear and Miss Viva Nicholson.

Among the very last people in the famous old Campanile before it collapsed were Mrs. William G. Henshaw and Miss Alice Grimes, and they were considered to have had a most remarkable escape.

time to the Metropolitan Putnam Griswold, an American, who deserves the distinction of being one of the greatest of the Wagnerian interpreters that America has given the stage, and it is due Mr. Griswold to go further and say that he is one of the greatest Wagnerian singers."

One reads also:

"The Metropolitan Opera Company will make a very short tour, including a week in Atlanta. From there, Putnam Griswold, accompanied by Mrs. Griswold, will go directly to San Francisco, Mr. Griswold's old home, where he will give the only recital in America this season, although he has had offers from many cities. Mr. Griswold is a very great artist of whom, not only America, but the musical world may be proud."

Putnam Griswold is not from San Francisco; he is from Oakland; and already many of his friends here are planning for him a round of social entertainments by way of a cordial welcome home.

Among the well-known hostesses who have planned "music" as a way of entertaining their guests are Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Frank C. Havens. Mrs. Hearst is giving two musical days. It sounds impossible; all the same, she did it with the help of special trains. On arriving here she had the glad tidings that her son was on the mend."

SOCIETY AND MUSIC ARE ONE IN EAST.

Music is a favorite form of amusement in the smart sets of the East and Europe. And there are always the grand opera singers to draw from for any special program.

President and Mrs. Taft are going to Cincinnati to attend the May musical festival. Both the President and Mrs. Taft have been closely identified with music in Cincinnati, and Mrs. Taft was at one time a member of the May festival chorus, under Mr. Thomas. A number of prominent women were asked recently what each would do if she were suddenly obliged to earn her own living. Mrs. Taft replied that she would be a music teacher, and she would earn a very good living, she knew.

Appropos of music we read:

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Victoria: No soap of no kind or in any form should be used as a shampoo. All soap contains "free" alkali, which is too strong for the hair. It makes the hair split, become brittle, dull, harsh and "straw." A perfect and very simple shampoo prepared by dissolving a teaspoonful of castor oil in a cup of hot water will cleanse your hair and scalp thoroughly, and leave it ever so soft, bright and fluffy. This shampoo removes dandruff and stops scalp irritation instantly, makes the hair dry quickly and evenly without streaking and gives to it a most delightful glossy sheen.

A. B. C.: The electric needle is too painful. Mix a little powdered talcum with water, then spread this paste on the hair and rub it in. After two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hair will have vanished. This treatment leaves the skin soft and free from blemish.

Maudie: Your pimply, sallow skin is due to impure blood. You should correct this condition before warm weather comes and so avoid worse troubles. To quickly purify your blood, try this home-made tonic: Dissolve 1/2 cupful sugar and 1 ounce karoine in 1/2 pint alcohol, then add hot water to make a quart. A tablespoonful of this splendid tonic taken before meals will quickly clear your blood, and your pimples and sallowness will give way to a rosy, healthy complexion. This is the finest tonic I have ever found for purifying the blood, giving one energy and building up a run-down condition of the body. You are sure to get splendid results from its use.

Emma S.: To make your eyes clear and sparkling, try this simple eye tonic: Dissolve an ounce of crystals in a pint of water and put a few drops in each eye twice a day. This tonic is very soothing and strengthening and will rid your eyes of all weakness and inflammation, and make them strong and beautiful. A prominent oculist informed me that he uses this tonic with remarkable success in treating eye troubles generally. It is excellent for granulated lids.

Lily: To have a smooth, rosy complexion that does not look artificial, you must not use face powder. Use instead this lotion: Dissolve in 1/2 pint witch-hazel (or hot water) 4 ounces apricot, then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This lotion will remove that shiny, yellow look and give to your skin a clean, clear, wholesome look. It does not show or rub off like powder and is unequalled as a skin-whitener and complexion-beautifier. I find this lotion fine for cold sores and preventing chapping.

Trixie E.: I would not advise you to try any of those obesity cures you mention. At least part of them are nothing but snake-oil. If you want a safe fat-reducer that will give splendid results, dissolve 4 ounces of paraffin in 1/2 pint hot water and take a tablespoonful before meals. This remedy removes excess fat rapidly without dieting or fatiguing exercises, and is absolutely harmless and inexpensive. It leaves the skin smooth and unlined.

Hattie: The formula for that popular hair-grower you speak of is as follows: Mix together 1/2 pint alcohol, 1/2 pint cold water and 1 ounce quinine. (Make it yourself, as stale hair-tonics are worthless). Rub this into the scalp twice a week and you will soon notice your hair getting thicker, longer and more silky and lustrous. This splendid tonic is an unfailing remedy for dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp. It is good for both light and dark hair.

Miss Jennie: A splendid beauty cream that will not grow hair or make the skin shiny can be easily prepared by stirring into 1/2 pint cold water 1 ounce almond oil and two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Use this night and morning and your skin will not chap, but always be just as smooth, clear and soft as you could wish it. It is fine for removing dirt from the pores, preventing blackheads and reducing enlarged pores. You are sure to find this a grand complexion-cream.

Fraternal News of Alameda County

Two surprises were sprung last night at the meeting of the committee in charge of the Red Men's carnival and baby show of Pohnonah Tribe on May 27 and 28. The greatest excitement was over the winning of the prize offered by Past Sachem Joseph Valente of Sonoma Tribe for the apartment to be built on the site of the old Pohnonah building, the contest for the week ending last night at 10 p. m. Having received 1320 votes, the award was presented to Ada Tunison, first councillor of Mohican Council.

The results of the leading queen contestants in the balloting, which closes May 13, are as follows:

Ethel Sherwood, Wenonah of Calumet Council, 45,400; Ada Tunison, councillor of Mohican Council, 35,320; Elsie Le Strange, Pohnonah of Willoughby Council, 34,806; Ada Dow, of Alachua Council, 34,400; Josephine Lewis, Wenonah of Alachua Council, 18,870; Kate Overdick, Pohnonah of Miantonomah Council, 3600.

The other feature last night was the announcement that the program, originally intended for May 28, had been elaborated so as to include May 27. On May 27 Great Sachem H. C. Hubbard will be the honorary president, while many of the other great chiefs of the Improved Order of Red Men and the Degree of Pohnonah will act as honorary vice-presidents. Dr. A. S. Mussett, chairman of the committee of arrangements, will preside and deliver the address of welcome and Mayor James Rolph Jr., or his honor's secretary, Edward Rainey, will crown the queen-elect. The crowned sovereign will respond in accepting the sash. The coronation ball will conclude the ceremonies on the 27th. On May 28 Great Pohnonah Kate Adams will be the honorary president and prominent great chiefs of the companion orders interested will act as honorary vice-presidents. Louis Kuttiner, keeper of wampum of Pohnonah Tribe, as private minister to her majesty, will preside and the program will be animated by the baby show, in which contests for the most popular baby, twins and triplets will occur; athletic games for children. There will also be a costume ball.

EASTERN STAR.

Oakland Chapter No. 140, E. S., will present the clever farce, "Facing the Music," on next Thursday evening, May 2 at Masonic Temple, Twelfth and Washington streets. This play was given last year and will be repeated by the same cast. The characters will be as follows: Rev. John Smith, Chan. Wood John Smith, John Pierberling, Dick Desmond, P. Frank Bradhoff, Col. Duncan Smith, Alfred Moulton, Sergeant Duffell, Miss Charlotte Towle, Mabel, Miss Charlotte Towle, Nora, Miss Charlotte Towle, Miss Edna Harris, Miss Edna Harris, Miss Edna Harris.

Oakland Lodge, No. 324, Loyal Order of Moose, held its weekly meeting in Moose hall on last Friday evening. Thirty-five candidates were initiated and more than fifty applications for membership were referred to the membership committee.

Dictator J. Treager, recently elected president of the lodge, appointed all the standing committees to serve for the ensuing term.

The baseball team having been organized some weeks ago continues to achieve its weekly quota of victories, and during the summer it is planned to take trips to various cities in order to play other Moose teams.

The recent memorial exercises held by the lodge was well attended by the members and their friends. Impressive addresses were delivered by Rev. E. P. Dempsey, Judge Geo. Samuels and W. H. L. Hyman.

The entertainment committee is planning a series of weekly entertainments to be held in the hall for the members and their friends. In addition to the program there will be a number of athletic events, which will appeal to the lovers of sport.

LADIES OF MACCABEES.

Regular review of Ladies of the Maccabees was held Thursday evening. The regular form of business was transacted.

A lively contest is in progress as to who will receive the largest number of new members. Sides have been chosen, red and white, and white and red. This is a contest of the Ladies of the Maccabees of the world. The contest will meet next Wednesday at Mrs. Bell's residence, 1327 Tenth avenue, Berkeley.

NATIONAL UNION.

Oakland Council No. 978, National Union, held an enthusiastic meeting Wednesday evening, April 24 in Lincoln Hall, 409 Thirteenth street. There was a large attendance of members and visitors from Alameda County and San Francisco. Considerable interest was manifested by the members of Oakland Council in the grand officers of the national union. The officers of the national union were elected by the members of Oakland Council in their efforts to make the class initiation a success.

A committee composed of Past President R. S. McKelvey, Secretary J. S. McKelvey and Recording Secretary J. S. McKelvey was appointed to assist the publicity committee in the class initiation.

After the business of the meeting was concluded District Deputy A. S. Kales presented treasurer, R. L. Furey, with a case of the new "Pop" Wilson, a new Superintendent "Pop" Wilson, procuring the largest number of candidates who have been initiated during the past six months. The Temple will be the donors. After congratulations by the Council, the meeting adjourned to the local cafe to enjoy the hospitality of R. L. Furey.

Prizes will be awarded to the members of Oakland Council who receive the largest number of candidates for initiation.

AMERICAN NO. 2. The American, in conducting meetings in Loring Hall, Eleventh and Clay streets, much enthusiasm has been aroused in the neighborhood. The assembly making the greatest percentage gain in the number of the prizes. Applications are in for a large class initiation to be held Wednesday evening, May 1, at the general business in transacted, card playing and dancing will be followed by a banquet. Mrs. M. A. Winchester has charge of the organization for Oakland No. 2, and that the assembly will win the banner is the prediction. Owing to the removal of Glen E. Johnson to Colorado, the vacancy was filled by O. McCracken, who was elected to the office to complete the unexpired term.

ODD FELLOWS.

Oakland Lodge conferred the initiatory degree at its last meeting. Next Tuesday evening the third degree will be one of the features of the session. The entertainment committee will furnish refreshments.

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

Last Tuesday evening Calantha Temple gave a whist tournament. The affair was a success. The next evening, April 30, there will be initiation, after which refreshments will be served by the committee. The drill team will put on the floor work. The Temple will convene promptly at 8 o'clock.

The following members were appointed on the entertainment committee for the month of May: Chairman, Kirk, Brown, Stein, Salada, Ney and Streikhofer.

MACCABEES.

Last Monday night Oakland Tent No. 17 met in regular session. After the closing of the regular order of business, eleven candidates were initiated in the first degree. Nine applications were filed with the record keeper, and at the present rate of increase the tent will soon be in the 100th class.

There were three of three rounds each, furnished amusement for the review.

afternoon at the Hacienda, and Mrs. Frank C. Havens made musical numbers a successful feature of the perfectly planned programs for her recent entertainments at Wildwood.

PERSONNEL OF BRIDGE CLUBS IS CONSIDERED.

The personnel of the bridge clubs for the coming year is being carefully considered on both sides of the bay. When people are going away, or find that they have too many social duties, there are resignations from bridge clubs, and it is exceedingly hard to fill these vacancies. For a woman may be a good bridge player and not be congenial to the members of the club in any other way. Most clubs find it best to have a list of substitutes from which to draw in case a member finds it impossible to be present at a bridge afternoon. The substitutes are made up of good players, of women who do not care to belong to a club, but who like to keep in practice by means of an occasional afternoon at bridge.

Among our leading clubs are the Cosmos, the Wheelock, the Monday Club and the Thursday Club, and most of them have adopted "auction." The people who still play old-fashioned bridge are rather hopeless; they have not the true bridge spirit which leads one to master the game even to its deepest intricacies. For one hears not only of "auction" now, but of "new auction."

A clever writer on bridge says: "I feel there is still a class of players who open the bidding with bids of two. Believe me, such bids are as antiquated as a winter before last last on Easter Sunday."

"Now here is the most important thing in 'new auction.' Beguile the adversary into a bid that he cannot make. The thing you want to do is to make the most that is possible on a hand; not necessarily to bid the most, but to make the most. There is one situation, and one only, where an opening bid of two is right. When you are perfectly sure of making it, and when making it will put you rubber—not game, but rubber."

A fine phase of bridge lies in the fact that men are playing it now; they are playing "new auction," and a very good game they are playing, at that. Some of the men of the Linda Vista Card Club play specially well, and among the good players of that club may be mentioned Mr. and Mrs. Eby, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Heron and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walsh.

But with all our good playing we still do not equal the English, who play a very fascinating game of "auction" and who find time to play it much more frequently than we in America play it, for leisure is not yet a thing of which our country may boast.

PRIZE EVER SURE

Apocryphal of bridge, it has been definitely demonstrated that people do prefer to play for prizes. In spite of what they may say to the contrary. For nearly all the hostesses who entertained at tables at the Ebell card afternoon brought a prize, for which their guests played with a great deal of interest. No matter how small the prize—a pack of cards, a bit of cut glass—the interest is there just the same.

It is interesting to note the evolution of prizes. At one time there was a "booby prize," and no woman could really feel flattered at receiving it. Neither does she feel specially complimented at being given a prize for "the lowest score." The consolation prize is free to everyone to win, and that is a much better way of adjusting things. During one season almost every hostess gave her guests silk stockings as a prize, and one hostess bestowed upon the fortunate prize-winner an artistic robe de nuit, a dream in lace.

One remembers with pleasure the beautiful cups, elaborately chased in silver, which were Mrs. Wickham Havens' bridge prizes last winter, and among the loveliest prizes of last winter were the fascinating opera bags which Mrs. Frank L. Brown brought from New York for her friends. Bags of all kinds have been given as prizes for prowess in bridge this winter, and among the most artistic have been the bags given by Mrs. Henry Rosenfeld and Mrs. James Shepherd Jenks.

Beautiful Florentine hand-mirrors were the prizes given at a card party by Mrs. Spring and her daughter, Mrs. Newell, and there are still talked about the beautiful Japanese kimono which Mrs. Joseph Chansor gave to her guests across the bay.

To win something as a hostage from Dame Fortune is everyone's aim, and it might perhaps as well come by way of bridge as any other way.

And favors, which are very like prizes, are now being given at dinner.

They are of the kind told in this story from New York:

"A debutante sitting beside me at the theater the other evening held in her hand an exquisite cluster of pink roses tied with a heavy silk cord.

Suddenly she pulled at the center, when the roses parted, and a lovely fan in Dresden silk appeared to view. I overheard her explaining to her escort that it was a favor she had received at a recent dinner, and she remembered that all of them were lovely. There were bouquets of roses, lilies of the valley and violets, and the fans were of Dresden or Pompadour silks, in shades harmonizing with the flowers."

Some hostesses plan three elaborate prizes, and then there is progressive bridge. But it seems wiser to have a prize for each table and to allow the players to formulate their own rules and to play either straight bridge or new auction, as they may choose to do.

NEWS OF BETROTHAL AND OF BROKEN ONE.

News of a new engagement and of a broken one reaches us from the East. Miss Jennie Crocker is home, but before she arrived her engagement to Mr. Whitman was announced by her aunt, Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, who was formerly Hattie Crocker.

The Charles Alexanders have a beautiful country place in Tuxedo and a fine home on Fifth avenue, and they are very influential in the smart set of New York. It is not the set of the Vanderbilts, which includes Mrs. Oelrichs and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish. It is rather the set of the Pierpont Morgans and of those people who have long ancestry and that culture which is essential to the most exclusive smart set of any city.

Mr. Alexander's relatives are the McCooks, well-known people of New York, and his niece, Janet McCook, married Mr. Whitman, the Alexander girls and Jennie Crocker being of the wedding party. The young Mrs. Whitman lived but a few months.

Mr. Whitman is a Harvard man and a well-known lawyer of New York. Miss Crocker announces that she will spend part of the year in California, but Easterners never do that. They make all their plans for a sojourn here each year, but Europe is more alluring and their visits to "the coast" grow beautifully less as the years go by.

Everyone is sorry that Miss Jennie Crocker is to make her permanent home elsewhere. She is so simple, so unspoiled, so unaffected, that she is much loved by many friends. She is a splendid woman, not because of her money, but in spite of it.

The other announcement that comes from the East brings the news of the broken engagement of Mr. Hickox and Miss Martha Calhoun. It is a great surprise, of course; since the wedding was not to have been long delayed, and Miss Calhoun's most intimate friends in San Francisco had been asked to officiate as bridesmaids. The Calhouns have a magnificent home in Cleveland—a palace, indeed—and they have been much entertained since going there to live. The breaking of the engagement is the main theme of conversation, and letters from Cleveland in the near future will probably bring the reason for the broken engagement.

The Hickox family is one of the wealthiest in Cleveland and Wilson Hickox is one of its best-known young men and his marriage to Miss Calhoun was to have been a June date.

News also reached the coast on Tuesday of the passing in Cleveland of Charles G. Hickox, an uncle of Wilson Hickox. Mrs. Hickox was formerly Mrs. Alice Crystal Havens, a sister-in-law of Frank C. and Al Havens.

After the death of her husband she went for a tour of the world and later married the rich Mr. Hickox of Cleveland. Her niece, Mrs. Paul Dinmore (Marjette Havens) spent some time with her in her beautiful Cleveland home. Her sisters are Mrs. Crystal Harrison and Mrs. Charles Shields, both of San Francisco.

SOCIETY TAKES LEAD IN CIVIC CENTER WORK.

One of the great movements of the age in which the smart set is so definitely concerned and is taking the lead is in the Civic Center work. It is immensely popular across the bay, where women assemble at luncheons at the Palace or the St. Francis. There have been many luncheons at which there have been 500 guests, and the luncheons have been specially brilliant affairs. For able speakers lead the way, and distinguished people, passing through San Francisco, bring the latest word along the line of advance.

The Civic Center is non-sectarian, of course, and it is also non-partisan. The Taft League, the Roosevelt League, the Socialists, have all been given a chance. They have been asked to send their best speakers, and if the women of today are not educated along political lines it will not be the fault of the Civic Center League.

The Oakland Civic Center is very proud, indeed, of its first two life members in Mrs. Frank C. Havens and Mrs. Wallace Alexander. Mrs. Havens has consistently led the way for the better education-politically of women. And she has done her work with wisdom and tact, and with the refinement which has been ever characteristic of the truly cultured woman.

Mrs. Alexander has been of immense assistance in the present Y. W. C. A. campaign. She is most generous, and she has given not only money, but of her time and strength and magnetism.

It is planned to give Oakland women the best of much that is going on across the bay, and Mrs. Havens has planned for them in an admirable way. By paying a small amount of dues Oakland women are made members of the San Francisco society also, and they may enjoy the meetings that have been so extraordinarily successful across the bay.

And apropos of large luncheons, how greatly we are needing our big new hotel! One can only have luncheons with hundreds of guests in a hotel, and we want ours sadly. The patronesses of the Junior Assembly and the Friday Night clubs hope to hold their dances in the new hotel, and the whole social world on this side of the bay needs it for the coming winter. After they have finished with the Y. W. C. A. campaign, couldn't the club women furnish the hotel? We might begin to think about it.

SOCIETY TO ENTERTAIN SECRETARY AND WIFE.

Secretary and Mrs. Knox are expected to arrive here on Tuesday, May 7, coming in a private car from the South. Plans are being made for a worthy reception to so prominent an official of our government. The women of the Panama-Pacific exposition committee will no doubt entertain at an elaborate luncheon for Mrs. Knox. Mrs. Hearst is the president, and she is usually the leading hostess when the club entertain.

Mrs. Frank L. Brown is so very bright, so very clever, that she is an admirable member of any receiving party. A large reception to which many Oakland people will be asked is being arranged for Secretary of State Philander Knox.

ELABORATE SOCIAL EVENTS GIVEN.

Two elaborate social events were given on Friday, the first of which was for Miss Alice Earl, who was entertained by Mrs. Charles J. Wilder at her Berkeley home. The engagement of Miss Earl and Beverly Wilder was announced some weeks ago and since then the popular bride-elect has received many compliments. She is leaving for the East and Europe with her other Mrs. Guy C. Earl, and her trousseau will be chosen in Paris.

The decorations were very lovely in Mrs. Wilder's home on Friday and they were planned along vivid color tones of yellow and red.

There were great sprays of yellow bankia roses and quantities of splendid red tulips were used, making the drawing-room a bower of bloom. Nearly 200 guests were in attendance at the tea, which was a brilliant social affair.

Mrs. Harold Martin also was hostess at a large card party on Friday, entertaining seventy-five guests at bridge. Iris and beautiful tulips were used in the decorations and the hostess was assisted in receiving her guests by her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Shepherd Jenks (Vibella Martin).

MRS. WICKHAM HAVENS IS DANCE HOSTESS.

Last night Mrs. Wickham Havens gave a dance at her Piedmont home, the evening being planned along very informal lines. There were nearly a hundred guests, who came in fancy dress, and some of the costumes created much merriment. One can always depend upon a fancy dress affair to create an evening representing a genuine jolly good time, and Mrs. Havens' evening was most successful.

MACDONOUGH

"Little Miss Fix-It" with Alice Lloyd, the popular English singing comedienne, is the attraction at the Macdonough theater for three days beginning tomorrow, with a matinee Wednesday, May 1. This engagement marks Miss Lloyd's debut in the west as a musical comedy star, her former appearances having been made only as a vaudeville headliner. On these earlier visits Alice Lloyd made herself immensely popular and gathered together a larger following than perhaps any other English comedienne to be seen here. Much interest has been evinced in her engagement here. "Little Miss Fix-It" is said to be an extremely amusing farce and has already enjoyed a run of four months at the Globe theater in New York and also has to its credit an all-summer's engagement at the Chicago opera house during one of the hottest summer seasons in that city.

The book is the work of William J. Hurlbut, Harry B. Smith and George V. Hobart. During the course of the comedy Miss Lloyd introduces her most recent songs, "Have You Ever Loved Any Other Little Girl?" "Cupid," "The Hobbie Promenade," "I'll Build an Eden For You," and "Excuse Me, Mr. Moon." In addition to Miss Lloyd's own songs there are "There is a Happy Land," "Staying Out Late," "Disguising," and "My Word." A feature of the second act is the now famous dance number "The Newport Turkey Trot," said to be quite the most fascinating of the now numerous terepicocean oddities.

Woven throughout "Little Miss Fix-It" there is a most amusing and appealing story dealing with the joys and trials of Della Wendell, a young woman who loves her husband so devotedly that she exercises a woman's prerogative and quarrels with him over a foolish trifle. She then determines to forget her sorrows by making those about her happy. So she starts a wholesale match-making campaign and attempts to "fix it" for everybody who is in love or who, she thinks, ought to be. Such a campaign necessitates material for numerous amusing situations and supplies Miss Lloyd with ample opportunity to display all those delightful talents for fun-making which have made her so immensely popular in New York, after bringing happiness in varying degrees and after many complications to others. Della finally finds her own happiness where she started, with her youthful husband.

Meets Werba and Luescher, under whose management Miss Lloyd is presented, and who are also the producers of "The Spring Maid," "Miss Dudesnok" and "The Rose Maid," have surrounded the comedienne with a most distinguished supporting company including Lionel Walsh, Fredrick Stanley, Frank Shannon, James C. Lane, Grace Field, Nellie Malcom, Annie Buckley, and Grace Brown. The scenic equipment is an extremely attractive and tasteful one, the first act occurring in the grounds of a pretentious country house, on fashionable Long Island, and the second act in the living room of the same attractive establishment.

"OVER NIGHT." One of the most amusing comedies that was produced in New York last season was "Over Night," a three-act play by Philip H. Bartholomew, and which received its premier at the Hackett theater, running there for a long time, afterwards being transferred to "The Playhouse," "Over Night" is one of the attractions controlled by William A. Brady, and is also one of the most popular under his direction. It has but recently finished engagements in the large eastern cities, and is now booked for a tour of the Pacific Coast. "Over Night" was praised by all the New York critics, and it ran for nine months in that city, while a three months run in Chicago has only just been completed. Coming May 5 to 8, Matinee on May 8.

MAUDE BEATTY AT THE COLUMBIA

With every act on the coming week's bill at the Orpheum a new one, history at the local theater on Twelfth street, will receive a new turn. Not since the opening of the theater has there been a bill with not a single "hold-over" act, and in presenting this new bill the theater management feels that it has reached that perfection of performance, on entirely new each week.

It will be headed by Miss Katherine Grey, the Oakland actress, who, as Kittie Best, has appeared here many times in both amateur and professional performances. Miss Grey, in appearing this season in vaudeville in a dramatic cameo adapted from the French by the veteran actor, McKee Rankin, and called "Above the Law," it gives Miss Grey an excellent opportunity to display her talent and insures a pleasurable bit of work to discriminating playgoers.

In Lucy Weston, the English comedienne, Oaklanders will see one of the most popular and pleasing of visiting artists. Miss Weston will sing a number of the latest ballads and with her charming appearance in a galaxy of gowns, will present a singularly attractive number.

"The Lad of Largymore" will be another of the interesting new acts. It is presented by the Seumas McManus players who take their name from the Seumas McManus so well known as a champion of Irish literature, art and drama. The little play is one of McManus' own dramatic efforts, and in the form of farce, which is said to be exceptionally brilliant, a picture of Irish life is presented that is typical of the Emerald Isle.

A sextette of dancers will appear when the Stewart Sisters and their escorts take the stage. Combined with their dances, including the state dance, "The War of the Roses," there will be given a comedy pantomime, "A Cracker Jack Poker Game" that furnish the requisite comedy.

Animals will have their share of the program in V. E. Woodwood's canine and monkey act. Ernest Thompson Seton, the noted naturalist, is authority for the statement that a finer example of animal training than that shown by Professor Woodwood has seldom been seen, and the number is replete with the keenest interest.

Gorgeousness marked the production made by the Mankichi company, Japanese who startle with their exhibition of equilibristic and risqué.

Another act of the same character will be given by the Three Gladdenbecks. Holland gymnasts who have just finished a successful English tour, and are now appearing in this country for the first time. Miss Gladdenbeck, known in England as "Lady Sandown," will perform and other unusual feats will be introduced.

Orothy Kenton has now returned to this country for her fifth American tour over the Orpheum circuit. Known as the Girl with the Banjo, Miss Kenton this season dances and sings in addition to playing the banjo, and at times accomplishes all three simultaneously.

The customary excellent moving pictures and orchestral concert will complete the program.

BELL

Every one loves the horse—the most lovable, the most tractable, the most docile of man's friends in the brute world. And we have no more beautiful horse than Dewey, a coal black beauty named Dewey, whose owner places a value upon him of $100,000. Dewey is a prize winner a hundred times over—he has blue ribbons enough from the big arena world to entirely cover his shining black coat.

The tricks and feats that Dewey does on the stage are remarkable. As a horse of horses (and their name is legion) should crowd the Bell this week and see Dewey go through his paces.

Then the Bell offers one of the most popular musical team turns in vaudeville, Waterbury Brothers and Tenny, who have "played" all the big time in the east and were featured with Cohen and Harria's big minstrels. Tenny is the comedian of the act, and as a burnt cork funnyman every move he makes brings laughter. Aside from the comedy element, the act is high grade with regard to music.

Direct from the Tivoli theater, London, comes Anita Barling, a dashing young woman who made a big hit "across the pond." She is a clever juggler and ballerina, showing some new ideas and novelties.

Joie Flynn, a character comedienne in blackface, will be heard in songs, dances and other features that are sure to hit "across the pond." She is a clever juggler and ballerina, showing some new ideas and novelties.

"The Pol De Rol Girls," of which there are four, will offer a combination singing, dancing and piano playing act, which has been making more than good in the eastern houses of the circuit.

Miss Lupita Perea, an aerial gymnast, who comes from abroad, will present some clever and daring gymnastic stunts.

IDORA PARK

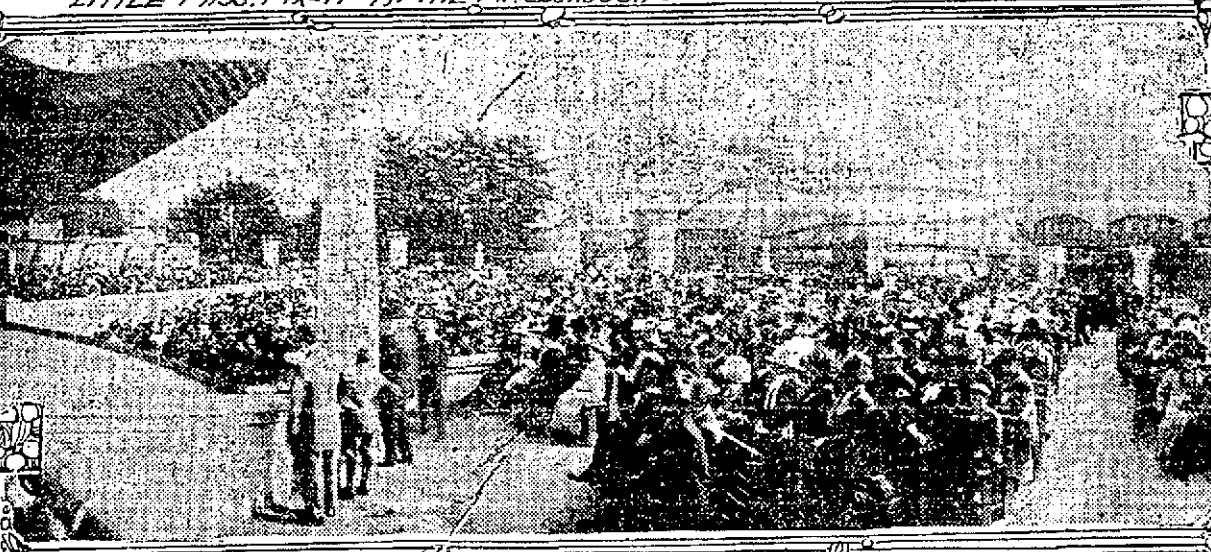

Musical lovers will be delighted with the information that Idora Park will inaugurate a series of Symphony Concerts on Tuesday afternoon of each week during the balance of the season.

Another feature that is sure to prove popular will be the holding of the evening band concerts in the theater building.

The news that the evening concerts will be held in the theater building is certain to meet with a hearty response from the great numbers who have attended each of the evening concerts.

of the contest so dear to Spanish hearts, the bull fight, Romero, a clever young torreador, is entered in the contest against two famous bull fighters from Santa Clara. Romero is in love with Carita, a bewitching Spanish beauty, who is the wife of a Hebrew from America. Romero's attentions and determines to Marietta. Carita's rival is jealous of prevent his entering the ring on the day of the contest.

Romero's opponents failing to appear at the appointed time, the spectators look about in desperation for some one to take their places.

Mike and Ike, journeying through the town on the lookout for Ike's mischievous wife, are arrested as spies. They are promised their liberty if they will enter the bull ring as torreadors. They accept and the fun ball commences to roll. Their explanations to one another regarding the safest way to tackle the bull, are the funniest scenes in the play.

Ben Dillon and Will King will be as much at home in their respective parts this week as they have been in their previous efforts. As amateur bull fighters they promise to supply you with laughs aplenty. Charlie Kelly has an excellent role in Romero, the torreador, while Maude Beatty will be seen to excellent advantage as Carita. Frank Donner will have the important character of Garcia, the chief of police, to portray, while the remaining members of the company will be seen in congenial parts.

Musically speaking, the forthcoming production should surpass anything Dillon and King have yet attempted. The opening number called, "The Flower Girl," contains a solo by Charlie Kelly and a charming duet by Maude Beatty and Will King. "I Never Took a Lesson in My Life," and Maude Beatty will double team with her many friends with "My Forsaker." Dillon and King have a treat in store for the lovers of music in their latest song hit entitled, "Dillon and King's Idea of an Opera." "Where You Goin'," "San

COAST MAY BE SCENE OF COMING WAR IN BIG VAUDEVILLE WORLD

Keith Buys Site in South and Will Explore Here
News From Theatrical Circles Here and Elsewhere

By LEO LEVY.

NEWS that B. F. Keith is to enter the Los Angeles vaudeville field comes as interesting news on heels of recent events in New York. Keith's invasion of the western field, long controlled by the Orpheum circuit, may precipitate a predicted vaudeville war, despite the denial of Martin Beck. Rumor has it that Keith is looking over the bay cities for sites and that he will spend some time exploring in the west.

Mrs. Kohl, widow of the Chicago theatrical man, recently threw her influence and millions into the New York field, joining forces with Keith. With the Williams chain of theaters, said to have passed to Mrs. Kohl, Keith has an added hold on the metropolis. This will have a tendency to offset Beck's plans in Gotham. The Orpheum people, not long ago, agreed to another twenty-year territorial contract, provided New York be made a neutral ground. Keith objected, how strenuously is shown in the light of more recent events.

Beck has lost his hold on the majestic theater, in Chicago, the property of Mrs. Kohl. He was prepared for that emergency, however, and with his new Palace will be able to hold out against comers.

When Beck was in Oakland he talked of the expired Keith contract, but intimated there would be nothing in the line of desperate conflict.

"There's room for both of us," he explained. "Talk of war is foolish."

And then he wound up:

"They were watching me, but not close enough."

Which may give a hint as to the future.

Proof that Anna Held holds the record for press-agenting, was again furnished during the week, when the actress, so-called, sailed for France. In dispatches, the press-agent asked her if she'd marry again. The rest follows:

"Who knows. Perhaps it will be poor Florenz again. He looks so solemn yet I may get him another chance. But my sorrow for Florenz is divided with zat for my poor doggie, ze General Marceau. He see dead, you know."

"Zee poor little General Marceau, he swallow one bag too balloon and then he eet one British lion and he swell oop and ze glass eyes of zee British lion and ze plus will eat all luck in him an zee sawdust eet all make him very weak."

Anna Held's theatrical life was manufactured out of a real skin coat and a pair of eyes. With husband's money liberally advanced, the man behind the pen went to work and in less than a season had made a celebrity out of a woman who lacked talent, and did not measure up to any standard of beauty. In other words the pen is mightier than the ability of theatergoers to think for themselves.

Take the legs, the lace and the smut out of Anna Held's show and it 'ud be a disastrous season for Ziegfeld.

It is 20 years ago, on April 23, 1892, that this advertisement appeared in Oakland papers, showing one more that even then producers claimed everything in the world for their stars:

The Monarch of Fun
GUS WILLIAMS

The Hilarious and Original
Supported by the best company obtainable under the direction of George W. Lederer and John W. Hamilton, in a simple home comedy, but one of infinitely comical possibilities. Madame KEEPLER'S FORTUNES!

It moves to tears, but they are tears of laughter. They have struck the theatergoers of the entire continent like a cyclone. Remember there is but one GUS WILLIAMS

And he is the sole legitimate German dialect comedian on the stage.

Despite the sorrow with which producers regard the coming season and the effects of a presidential year, they have a deal to smile over when past performances are recalled.

The season of 1911-12 has some sort of a record to its credit. First-nature: More plays have been produced. More genuine successes scored. The first stiff blow has been launched at the star system.

Vaudeville has made fearful inroads in the ranks of the legitimate.

The oriental play has come into its own, offering a vent to the producer's craze for sumptuousness.

Unknown playwrights have been given a chance.

Threats to elevate the drama have not materialized.

Weber and Fields have reached a working agreement.

The thunder of a vaudeville storm has been heard.

The United States has become theater-mad.

No one has halted the march of the "movies."

It looks as if we've ridden the coast of a few things, at any rate. Musical comedy companies visiting the bay cities during the season have mastered the intricacies of the grizzly bear, Texas

Tommy, bunny hug, turkey trot and tango and have taken them East. Which will be lovely and all that—if they keep 'em there.

Woman is about to take another hold on things theatrical.

Mrs. Mary Moncure Parker is making plans for a woman's theater for Chicago, which will be owned and operated solely by women. Mrs. Parker is now negotiating for a playhouse in which to launch the project.

A woman will manage the new theater, and according to the plans there will be a woman ticket seller, a woman stage manager, a woman press agent, women scene shifters, women ushers, and an orchestra composed of women. The new theater will cater to women, having daily matinees.

Martin Beck's entry into the legitimate house, with Anspacher's "The Glass House," serves to present a new line of epigrams. Here are a few from the play:

A lie is only a lie to a person entitled to know the truth.

The law gives high protective moral tariff to the woman. A man must pay for his contraband luxuries.

"You don't understand me"—that's what every woman says to the man that understands her too well.

Any woman is a fool who doesn't keep up her courage by looking pretty in bed.

All men want to be deceived.

You are wrong—all men NEED to be deceived.

If you want to make a man perfectly happy never tell him the truth. He'll think it isn't womanly and treat you like a man.

People in society are never what they really are.

Footlight Flashes

Augustus Thomas is so completely satisfied with the success of his newest comedy, "When It Comes Home," now in its second week at the Illinois Theater, Chicago, that he has already returned to New York, after witnessing the premiere and has plunged into work upon the second comedy he has contracted to deliver Charles Frohman.

The Viennese operetta, "The Doll Girl," the production of which Charles Frohman had to postpone this season because of illness, will be one of two musical pieces simultaneously brought out by Frohman next season, the other being "The Sunshine Girl." Both musical comedies will be produced in the manner of "The Siren" and "The Dollar Princess."

Maude Adams has called Charles Frohman, now in London, another request that she be permitted to perform "Chantelec" throughout the south for the first half of next season, or until the time comes for her to succeed John Drew at the Empire Theater, New York. Miss Adams is especially wishful that the south, which she has not visited since "Peter Pan" and where "L'Aiglon" drew such enormous audiences, shall see what is now generally recognized as Edmund Rostand's masterpiece.

Blanche Walsh, who is now appearing at the Orpheum in San Francisco, and who will be in Oakland within the next fortnight, appeared in this city at the old Oakland theater just twenty years ago, at that time she was not yet a star but "supported" Marie Walworth in

"Amy Robson" and "London Assurance," two stage classics. In the former play she enacted the role of "Queen Elizabeth," and in the latter "Amy." William Ingersoll's "Earl of Leicester," Barton Hill's "Varny" and E. Y. Bacon's "Tony Foster." The company appeared at the Macdonough for two performances April 27 and 28, 1892.

"St. Elmo," the play in which the company at the Liberty will appear this coming week, is the famous old story of the late Augustus Evans dramatized. Although the story is one of the most popular of American fiction, its presentation in dramatic form was never achieved until within the past two years.

Ada Overton Walker, the negro comedienne who appeared with her husband, the late Tom Walker, and Billy Williams in all their negro musical comedies, is now a headliner on the Orpheum circuit and has just finished an engagement in Portland while on her way down the coast.

"The Commuters," James Forbes' farce, which will be played at the Liberty next week, was seen here at the Macdonough recently. Its leading woman at that time was Florence Malone, whose successful performance of the character led to her appearance in the title role of "The Talker." Marion Fairfax's new success in New York.

Mary Madden, an aunt of Mrs. Fiske, who was Minnie Madden before her marriage, is dead at her home in New York. Mrs. Madden was a member of her

Martin Beck has added Florence Roberts to the rapidly growing list of distinguished players who will appear exclusively in the vaudeville theaters controlled by him. Miss Roberts will begin a tour of the circuit almost immediately and will be seen in a one-act play by James H. Morrison called "The Mirror." In her supporting company will be Charles Wingate, Walter Green, J. H. Morrison and Ethel Merritt. This will be Miss Roberts' initial vaudeville appearance.

"When two actors have an important dialogue," says Channing Pollock in his new book, "The Footlights—Fore and Aft," "each wants to stand 'up stage'—which is to say further from the footlights—than the other, because the person further up stage is the most likely to dominate the scene. It's no use, I once heard William A. Brady say to a veteran who was rehearsing with a young woman star, 'he knows the tricks as well as you do, and she'll back through the wall of the theater before she'll give you the scene.'"

"Madame Butterfly" having been successfully disposed of, David Belasco has turned his attention to "The Drums of Oude," the second of the one-act plays he is to produce by arrangement with Zedl. "The Drums of Oude" is by Austin Strong, and has to do with an incident of the Sepoy Mutiny, in 1857. The cast includes E. J. Radcliffe, Jack Standish, Harry Koss, John Hobson, William Phillips and Eleanor L. Estelle, and the production will be of the usual Belascolian sort.

May Irwin is in quite a state of mind over the cheap theaters that are springing up throughout the country. "They are," she says, "intrenched in our social life as deeply as the saloon. They can become as great an evil, or greater. They can be made a greater force for good than the modern newspaper or the old forum. But they cannot be uprooted and destroyed, and they will not wither and die as so many persons concerned in the theater seem to think."

Frank Curzon and Marie Tempest will soon take charge of the Prince of Wales Theatre in London. They will begin operations with "The Barn," a new play by Anthony Wharton.

Willard Holcomb has made a dramatization of Lorna Doone.

TOLERANT AUDIENCES

(By ROSWELL DAQUE.)

WHAT peculiar absurdities our public seems to tolerate behind the footlights of a theater. Even more than tolerate, it seems to accept with no thought of question as part of the dramatic scheme of things means an audacious utterance as part of life, which the stage is supposed to portray. Let "The Pink Lady," which Oaklanders saw at the Macdonough this past week, serve as an illustration of one of these absurdities.

It is a common one, this particular case in point, the portrayal of characters of one strongly marked nationality by actors of another race so widely different that all possible illusion is destroyed. In the play in question, a clever musical attraction which could and has succeeded abroad as a play without music, the locale is Paris and its environs. This is even aggressively impressed upon the auditor, so much so that it would seem impossible for any other setting to be given the character of vivacious and daring avonts. Naturally in such a translation it cannot be expected that all the Gallic flavor should be brought over, in fact a translation means an adaptation from one language into the understanding of those who speak another tongue. Yet surely it is not too much to expect that the general effect of the piece shall be foreign, French and to a certain degree unimpaired by the characteristics of the temperamental nation.

BOTTOMLY ENGLISH.

Instead, what did one find? It is enough to take two examples of lack of uniformity to indicate the general result. First there was Roland Bottomly, who played the vivacious and pleasure-loving young Frenchman whose peccadilloes caused all the complications. At least, that was the character conceived by the author, but the result was Bottomly in the role was of an Englishman as English as any who ever walked down Bond street or strolled along the Strand. And there was in addition John E. Young, comedian, "Monsieur Donquixote," the old French collector of antiques, as frankly American as Bottomly was English.

If a theater is nothing else, it is a house of illusions. Its performances are all make-believe stories and studies of humanity, tolerable so long as they seem real, but intolerable, "stale, flat and unprofitable" once they lose their semblance of naturalness. There is no theatergoer, whether "tired business man" or not, who does not demand that the play shall seem fairly real. This is the law which distinguishes the amateur from the professional, the superiority of the actor increasing as he seems more and more the character he portrays. It is true in every phase of acting, from the plays of Shakespeare to the low comedy. No actor can escape it. Every actor will admit it.

"TRUE TO LIFE?"

The entire production of a play, then, resolves itself into an effort to achieve the true-to-life in greater or less degree, and every possible effect which can contribute to the final result of naturalness.

Why, then, will managers overlook one of the first requisites of production, the selection of actors fitted by nature in so far as possible to the parts which they will portray? Why will the popularize the success of their productions from the very first by miscasting, oftentimes in such a way that the very first appearance of the actor impresses the audience as well-nigh ridiculous? Why will the public accept this mis-casting, for such it is, without comment? Or is it true that it does so without objection?

"The Pink Lady" was not an unqualified success on its western tour. The critics praised its music and its general scheme, but condemned its company. The audiences which saw the piece came away whistling and humming its songs, but they did not speak enthusiastically of the general performance to their friends. The whole trouble was laid to the company, yet after all they were an aggregation of fairly and more than fairly clever people poorly cast.

MUSICAL COMEDY STARS.

Take Bottomly, for example. He failed to make good in any particular degree. Yet he is unquestionably a good musical comedy man, with an exceptionally good voice for such work. As an Englishman of the better class he would be capital; as a debonaire Frenchman he was only adequate. The same was true in lesser degree of Young. He has the crispness, the brittle method of the French. Yet he has the breezy wholesomeness of an American of the type of "Happy Hickey" in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," in which he was successfully seen here some four years ago.

Our American audiences are less demonstrative than the English when they are displeased. The English hiss; we remain silent and withhold our approval. This action is, perhaps, not the indifference to absurdities or their tolerance, but it is commonly supposed, so much as silent disapproval. It is rather too much to ask, perhaps, that audiences express their disapproval in noisy fashion, but it is to be deeply regretted that some method of disapprobation can not be devised to free us from the European accusation of being uncritical, inartistic and ready to stand anything good or bad. "The managers give the public just what it wants," is an often heard retort. Then let the public show that it does not want absurdities in mis-casting if it wants improvement of the actual performances and increased enjoyment.

This, too, frightens even the daring poet from the theater, that the mob, greater in numbers, though less in wit, untalented, stolid, ready to hoot down the gentry if they venture to differ, demand between the lyrics either a dancing bear or a boxing match, for in these the pit finds its chief pleasure. But for that matter, the upper classes have nowhere lost their ear for good poetry, and have turned to praise vain glories and the delights of the eye.

TRANSLATING PLAYS

Just outside of London lives Miss Gladys Unger, the American girl who some years ago successfully invaded London's colony of playwrights. As everybody who ever looks at a program knows, Miss Unger has made extraordinary progress. Her original work, and particularly a manuscript of adapting and translating that she does for Charles Frohman each season must have advanced her within touching distance of a snug private fortune. It was Miss Unger who adapted "The Marlowes," "Madame Xanxizoma's" play this season. Her earlier work was "Inconstant George," John Drew's play two years ago. Splendid as Miss Unger's success has been, nobody realizes more keenly than she what thin ice one treads on when turning a play from one language into another.

Only the most expert knowledge backed by an abundance of experience can decide whether a manuscript should be adapted or translated for performance in another country. Some plays are capable of pretty literal translation and only translation. Others call for adaptation through-out. For example, "The Thief" was translated. But "L'An de Bordien" had to be adapted into "Inconstant George." Miss Unger once said, speaking of her craft, "the greatest adaptation ever written was, of course, Sir

John Haro's famous production, "A Pair of Spectacles." Though, to tell the truth, Sydney Grundy can scarcely be said to have adapted Labiche's great comedy, "Les Patits Oiseaux." The French play and then wrote a wonderful English comedy on the same theme. It was not an adaptation—it was a reincarnation. Yet "A Pair of Spectacles" can longer serve as a model to us. Times and dramatists have changed. Nowadays the adapter is most frequently given a sugary Parisian slummary to make into standard Anglo-Saxon bread. Anman, now in London, another request that she be permitted to perform "Chantelec" throughout the south for the first half of next season, or until the time comes for her to succeed John Drew at the Empire Theater, New York. Miss Adams is especially wishful that the south, which she has not visited since "Peter Pan" and where "L'Aiglon" drew such enormous audiences, shall see what is now generally recognized as Edmund Rostand's masterpiece.

Included in the list are Misses Jessie Murray, Helen Allen, Eva Gruninger, Margaret Bradley and Matt Patterson, Vall Bakewell, Austin Gray, A. C. Chaplin, Hazel Henry, Mary and Gilbert Farley, Miss Mattie Walton and E. Leslie Taylor will assist as accompanists.

HOME CLUB.
The Home Club has issued its bulletin for the month of May and the following are scheduled for the month:

Monday evening, May 2-7 o'clock.

Francisco, the Paris of the U. S. A., and several other numbers should prove popular.

Several new faces will be seen among the Ginger Gals, this week, who have in preparation some exclusive song and dance numbers. "The Bull Fighters," which remain throughout the week with the regular evening performances and the matinees.

"The Coming of Columbus," the greatest American historical picture ever acted and taken, will be shown at the Oakland Photo Theater. This film has consumed many months in its production and has cost the Shlig company over $100,000. The Oakland Photo Theater has secured this extraordinary picture exclusively for Oakland and it will be shown about May 10. The exact date will be given later.

Teachers and school children will receive special attention and accommodations will be reserved for them. Special matinees will also be introduced for the benefit of patrons who desire to avoid the crowds who will surely witness this wonderful film.

Little Miss Violette Kelly, Oakland's child actress, who is a member of the Essanay Western company, was tendered a warm reception by the children at yesterday morning's matinee. The splendid work of this talented little Oakland actress is indeed remarkable and the demonstrations of yesterday show that her work is being closely watched by her many Oakland admirers. Mr. Anderson, proprietor and manager of the Essanay Western company is proud of his protégée and through his kindness it was made possible to have Miss Kelly leave the studio at Niles for this occasion.

Today, tomorrow and Tuesday Miss Kelly appears in a splendid picture entitled "The Indian and the Child," in which Mr. Anderson displays a wonderful ability in his portrayal of the Indian—a part widely different from any carried heretofore.

"The Victoria Cross," produced by the Vitaphone company with Miss Edith Storey in a fitting part, depicts a romance of the Crimean war. The great battle scene, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," as described by Tennyson, is the thrilling point in this dramatic photoplay.

LATEST NEWS FOR WOMEN.
Pathe's weekly No. 18 consists of many interesting happenings throughout the world. The most entertaining topic for women will no doubt be the latest spring fashions and fashions direct from Paris, France.

The annual review of the aerial fleet hanging the French army at Meuse over camp Vincennes, France, is also shown.

Kalem presents a rollicking comedy, "The Girl in the Red Velvet," with Ruth Roland in the title role. A splendid dramatic production by the Biograph company, "The Girl in the Red Velvet," is also shown.

LYRIC
Today will be the last day of the Biograph, "The Girl in the Red Velvet," a very interesting picture acted in the French conventional pantomime entitled, "The Anonymous Letter," by the C. G. P. company.

Tomorrow and Tuesday will show a Western Vitaphone portrayal entitled, "The Girl in the Red Velvet," a very interesting picture acted in the French conventional pantomime entitled, "The Anonymous Letter," by the C. G. P. company.

ALCAZAR
"The Virginian" as dramatized by Owen Wister and Kike Le Shafer from the former's tales of the Wyoming cattle country, will be the Alcazar's offering next Monday evening and throughout the week, with Florence Stone, Wilson Melrose and the entire stock company in the cast.

The Alcazar has starred in the title role and is familiar with every detail of the play, so an excellent portrayal of one of the finest American characters ever drawn may confidently be looked for.

Such an ideal Western play is "The Virginian" that it promises to become a classic. Every person it introduces has a living prototype when Mr. Winter took up ranching about a quarter of a century ago, and he avoided exaggeration in his pictures of their appearance and manners and sayings and doings. That is why they appeal so forcibly to anyone who has dwelt in a cow camp and mingled with cowboys.

EVERING OF MUSIC.
A delightful musical was given on Friday evening by Mrs. Carl Valtier, pianist, when she introduced several of her pupils in a large number of representative folk. Some remarkably good work was done by Miss Elma Streib, Miss Carrie Irons and Miss Gladys Hahn. A feature of the evening was a song, the words and music of which were composed by Thomas Vincent Cator, a young composer of this city and San Jose, who is considered to have a brilliant future. Dr. Gilbert Graham and Mrs. Frank Winchester were among the soloists of the evening.

ORATORIO SOCIETY WILL SING VERDI'S REQUIEM IN GREEK THEATER SOON

Paul Steindorff to Be Director at Big Recital

The musical event of the week took place Thursday night at the Berkeley Musical Association when the Fionale Quartet one of the best-known musical organizations in the world, gave a delightful program.

The capacity of Harmon Gymnasium was taxed to its utmost to accommodate the crowd of music lovers.

The fame of the Fionale Quartet had preceded them and the high expectations of the audience were more than realized.

The quartet played in unison remarkably, which only years of practicing and playing together could achieve.

Each member of the group is an artist and the ensemble work, with its exquisite light and shade, beauty of tone and artistic interpretation, was a pleasure to the audience.

An attractive program was given, every number of which was a gem. Especially appreciated was the closing number of Anton Dvorak which moved the audience to repeated bursts of enthusiasm.

The lovely Canonetta of Haydn was another especially enjoyed number. The concert will remain as a memorable one among the many given by the association.

The program follows:
Quartet in G major (Koechel 387).....
.....Volfgang Amadeus Mozart
Allegro
Allegro
Menuetto
Andante Cantabile
Allegro molto.
a. Contralto.....Alexander Glasounov
b. Canonetta.....Franz Joseph Haydn
Lento e molto Cantabile.....Anton Dvorak
Molto vivace.
(From the Quartet, Op. 105, in A flat major)

VERDI REQUIEM.
The next important event of the present spring season at the Greek theater of the University of California will be a big rendition of Verdi's Requiem mass, which will be made by the Berkeley Oratorio Society with a chorus of over two hundred, four eminent soloists and an orchestra of over sixty, all under the direction of the University Chicago, Paul Steindorff.

This mass of Verdi's is one of the most melodious works of its kind ever composed, and so beautiful it is that it is given quite often at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, with many of the most famous stars of that celebrated institution. The University production, which takes place on the afternoon of Saturday, the 11th of May, will be one of the most sumptuous ever attempted, and will be the added attraction of being held in the open air.

Notice of the sale of tickets and other arrangements will be made shortly.

CHURCH CONCERT.
A concert by the First Baptist choir was given on Friday night under the leadership of R. A. Woodward, director; accompanist, Miss Walton.

A large audience gathered at the M. E. Church on Shattuck avenue to listen to the following program:

Misses Talbot and Moore, Mezzos. Custer and Orten.
Liberty.....Eaton Fanning

Miss M. Talbot, R. D. McLaure, solos.
The Neapolitan Mandolin and Guitars Club gave their annual concert at the Century hall in San Francisco on Tuesday evening, and a large and enthusiastic audience was present, including many Oaklanders.

Robert H. Williams, the Welsh baritone, was known in musical circles in San Francisco, Oakland and other cities about the bay, has just returned from Stockton, where he has sung in many private homes. He also gave a grand concert at the Garlick theater. Thomas intends returning to England shortly, for a two years' stay, during which time he will study with his old master, part of each year, and sing in concert in London and the provinces the remaining months.

Miss Alice Davies, violinist, gave an enjoyable concert on Friday night, at Starr King hall, which was filled with a large number of musical folk. Miss Davies is also a vocalist, and for the last five years has been a member of the choir of the Church of the Advent.

Numbers on the program were given by Miss Zoe Biddgett, soprano; Charles Robinson, basso, and Miss Audrey Beer, pianist. Mrs. William Day Simons and Mrs. A. F. Ware were also accompanists.

The vocal pupils of John W. McKensie gave a studio recital under the auspices of the McKensie Musical society on Friday evening, when the following program was presented:

PROGRAM.
1 Male Chorus: "Hunting Song".....McKensie Musical Society
2 Soprano: "Liebe Vögelchen".....Gumpert
3 Piano: "Waltz, E. Minor".....Chopin
4 Tenor: "Hazel S. McKensie".....Bohm
5 "His Lullaby".....McKensie-Bond
6 Soprano: "Cavatina".....Meyerbeer

Semi-Chorus, McKensie Musical Society
Miss Alice Davies, a gifted violinist, gave a most enjoyable recital in Starr King hall on Friday night, which was largely attended and had the patronage of a large number of prominent people.

A large concert is to be given today by the Italian colony of Oakland, for the benefit of the Red Cross society, now with the Italian army in Tripoli. The entertainment will be given at Rice's institute.

Mrs. Silvia Puerari-Marracci will sing a number of operatic arias and will introduce several of her pupils as well. F. Avadino baritone.

The real thing in honest men is one who pays the price of his life for the cause of the late lamented just before he left this vale of tears.

Merchant, E. L. Inger, Harry Baker, L. O. Bartholomew, Lillian Swales Blommons, Mrs. John Ronald, C. J. Bruckers, R. W. Porter, F. A. Rush, Helen Kidd, F. E. Green, Nina Dalton, J. W. Scott, E. Sanford, Misses Maude Lucille, Alice Gharadell, Esther Northrup, Sarah Harmon, Jean McEwen, Inez Merchant, Leona Merchant, Madeline Birch and Vivian Gray.

The concert to be given on May 1 in the Home Club for the benefit of the club is under the supervision of Dr. Walter Borvis. Included in the list are Misses Jessie Murray, Helen Allen, Eva Gruninger, Margaret Bradley and Matt Patterson, Vall Bakewell, Austin Gray, A. C. Chaplin, Hazel Henry, Mary and Gilbert Farley, Miss Mattie Walton and E. Leslie Taylor will assist as accompanists.

ICE IN RIVER SAVED TRAIN—LOAD FROM DEATH IN WRECK

The five overturned sleeping cars of the Twentieth Century Limited, which was wrecked at Hyde Park, near Poughkeepsie, and saved from going to the bottom of the river by the ice.

NEW YORK, April 27.—When the Twentieth Century Limited, New York's crack rapid transit train, flew the track and five sleeping cars rolled down the bank into the Hudson river at Hyde Park, near Poughkeepsie, a fearful loss of life was prevented by the ice in the river.

Fortunately, the weight of the overturned cars was sustained by the ice until the passengers were able to make their escape from the wreck, which would have otherwise been at the bottom of the river, entombed all the people in the cars beneath the waters and causing an incalculable fatality.

The cause of the accident was a broken rail, which sent the cars down into the river before any means could be exercised to prevent the catastrophe.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN IN AMERICA

AS SHE WOULD BE IF SHE COMBINED
THE MOST BEAUTIFUL
FEATURES OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMEN AS SELECTED BY

LILLIAN RUSSELL

The BEAUTIFUL FEMININE FEATURES

AS SELECTED BY MISS RUSSELL.

Most beautiful eyes—Maxine Elliot.
Most beautiful nose—Mrs. Hermann Oelrich.
Most beautiful chin—Mrs. Ava Willing Astor.
Most beautiful hair—Jane Cowl.
Most beautiful eyebrows—Mrs. Stanley Field.
The best mouth—Madame Nordica.
Best ears—Anna Held.
Prettiest neck—Mrs. Philip Lydig.

MODERN beauties are not perfect. At least, when it comes to choosing some woman whose features are all perfect, there seems to be no one among all the famous beauties of the world to fill the bill.

There are many beautiful women on the stage, in society, and in the factories and shops in the United States. On the stage they are legion. In society, one can name hundreds of women who are admittedly beautiful. In the factories one frequently sees pretty young girls blossoming into beautiful womanhood.

When making a critical examination of these many beautiful faces it appears that none of them is absolutely perfect; one woman may have a nose and mouth of ravishing beauty, but her chin or ear deviates from the accepted standards in line or contour. There are many actresses with beautiful faces, but in every case there is something out of proportion—nose, eyes, chin, or mouth.

The beauty of the modern woman is more a matter of grooming, grace, intelligence, and charm than it is of perfection of physical features. Of course, a woman must have some of the elements of beauty in order to win a place among the long list of the world's beauties, but she does not necessarily need to have all.

Perfect Beauty the "Composite."

The woman of absolute physical perfection exists more often in the minds of poets, artists, and sculptors than in real life.

In order to obtain an ideal woman's face it is necessary to select the perfect features of several women. One woman furnishes the eyes, another the throat, a third the mouth. Others contribute the hair, chin, and ear.

For the eyes of the "composite beauty" I have chosen Maxine Elliott's. They are large, brown, and deep. At times they are soft and tender with deep feeling and sympathy in their shadowy depths. Miss Elliott's eyes are the most beautiful not only because they are perfect in shape and color but also because they are the eyes of a woman of fine intelligence and sympathy. Eyes that lack expression can never be entirely beautiful.

There is no denying that the eye is "the window of the soul." It reveals the story of your thoughts and moods more surely than any other feature.

Mrs. Hermann Oelrich's nose is perfectly formed; it is not a hair's breadth too long or too short; neither is it the fraction of an inch too broad or narrow. It is the nose of the aristocrat; the thin, sensitive, noble nose that she is a woman of fine taste and delicacy of feeling.

Type of the Perfect Chin

Mrs. Ava Willing Astor has a perfect chin. Its soft smooth roundness denotes a certain amount of firmness combined with much gentleness and sweetness. The even sloping line of the jaw is unusually good, completing the perfect oval of her face. So frequently the American woman's beauty is marred by a jaw too prominent below the ear; this is a sign of aggressiveness, a quality too often much overdeveloped.

Mrs. Stanley Field's eyebrows are perfectly arched and marked. They lie straight at the start, then drop down like the sweep of a swallow's wing. They just escape being arched, yet they are not absolutely straight. Her brows are more heavily marked than the nose than at the corner of the eye; the proportion is perfect. It is as if a master brush had drawn them with one deft stroke on her broad white forehead.

Mme. Lillian Nordica's mouth is perfect in keeping with old-fashioned standards of beauty, but it is an absolutely perfect type when judged according to the ideals of present day painters and sculptors. The artists of yesterday would say it is too large. But the modern schools are demanding character as well as mere soft prettiness. Beauty can mean something more than mere physical loveliness; it must be the physical expression of a fine mind and a noble spirit.

"Crowning Glory" of Jane Cowl

Jane Cowl's wealth of dark brown hair falls in soft, natural waves over her forehead. Its lustrous gloss and healthy tints lend great physical strength and vitality. The hair line is clear and unbroken. It is evident that the cruel curling iron has no part in its deadly work.

Anna Held has the most perfect ears of any public beauty. It is small, and lies close to her head. The upper part of the ear is close and the lobe, which is neither large nor small, is closely joined to the cheek.

Mrs. Philip Lydig's neck is beautifully proportioned—long, but not too slender. The average woman has a totally wrong standard of beauty when it comes to judging the neck. She thinks it must be plump in order to be beautiful; this is not so. The neck of the young woman should be slender and there should be just a suggestion of bones.

CONCESSION NOT SOLD TO JAPS

Importation of Laborers of All Nationalities Is the Owner's Scheme

To Work Own Grant and Engage Experts to Carry On Fishery Project

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—A Sandoval of Los Angeles, who owns the fishery concession from Ensenada to Guaymas, declared today that the concession is not for sale, either to Japanese or others. He explained further that his intention to bring in Japanese fishermen and cannery employees for the cannery at Magdalena Bay was only part of his plan to import laborers of different nationalities for various branches of the industry, to the number of 500 or 600, because he cannot get enough competent fishermen and cannery men on this coast.

"I have never set a price on the concession, and if Japan thought I asked too much for it they got the figures from some other and unauthorized source," said Sandoval. "Takasaki, who is in charge of the cannery, is a thoroughly competent man in his line and came to my employ with the best of credentials, but in his interview with representatives of THE TRIBUNE at Magdalena Bay he gave some wrong impressions. One of them is that I dealt with the Japanese government in seeking Japanese employees."

"What I did was this:

SENT FOR LABORERS.

"I have a very competent Japanese named G. Watanabe working for me, a practical fishery and cannery man. We had a lot of trouble with our Japanese fishermen and I had thought of getting rid of them entirely. He said he could get men in Japan who were better laborers and steadier and who would give satisfaction, so I sent him over last May with instructions to bring back such laborers and an expert cannery man to take charge of the cannery. If there was any dealing with the government it was through him and I knew nothing of it. Watanabe is now on the way to Magdalena."

"In Japan he learned that the government would not issue passports to the laborers, but he hired Takasaki to take charge of the cannery. I do not know of any connection Takasaki may have had with the Japanese government or any instructions to make reports to the government."

SPECIALISTS SECURED.

"At the same time I sent Watanabe to Japan I sent E. Garnot to Europe to try to engage French cannery men for the sardine branch of our business, Spaniards to handle the lobsters and Danes for whaling, because it is my plan to get skilled fishermen and cannery men from the nationalities which handle certain lines better than other nations. That visit resulted in European capitalists becoming interested and coming over for an inspection of the concession. Out of that grew a reorganization of the corporation. B. H. Ambrose de Montenegro of Paris, a wealthy Mexican, and T. A. A. Girard of Paris are now associated with us, and will attend to sending us European laborers, including French, Italians, Spanish, Danish and Norwegian fishermen and cannery men. They will also seek a European market for a portion of our products."

Urge Widening of Sacramento River

RIO VISTA, April 27.—A meeting of 600 men and women here today urged the widening of the Sacramento river from Rio Vista to Colusa. It was the third annual meeting of the San Joaquin and Sacramento River Improvement Association and telegrams have been sent to President Taft and California's senators and congressmen giving the details of the resolutions adopted.

$50 Paid for Box of California Cherries

SACRAMENTO, April 27.—An auction sale of the first batch of California cherries to be placed on the New York market this year brought $50. The cherries were shipped from Suisun on Saturday by F. Jones, consigned to the Stewart Fruit Company. Last year $100 was similarly realized.

BERKELEY IS STILL 'DRY' TOWN

Original Package Amendment Voted Down by Heavy Majority With Women's Aid

Three Other Proposed Changes in City Charter Are Carried at Election

BERKELEY, April 27.—The charter amendment permitting the sale of liquor in original packages in Berkeley was hopelessly defeated in the election held here today. The final tally of votes tonight showed a majority of more than three to one against the amendment.

Women aided materially in the defeat of the plan to make the university town "wet."

The other three amendments carried easily, the smallest majority being for that which increased the tax limit. Three precincts in West Berkeley alone in all the city gave the liquor amendment a majority and even there the majority was small. South Berkeley and the remainder of the city gave varying majorities against the amendment, the heaviest of which was Telegraph avenue and Stuart street, where 619 votes were cast against the amendment and only 58 for it.

TOTAL VOTE 8045.

The total vote cast was 8045 out of a registration of 12,249. The vote on the several amendments was as follows:

Amendment 1.—Permitting the sale of liquor in original packages outside the mile limit from the university prescribed by the state law—yes, 2087; no, 6658.

Amendment 2.—Definitely fixing the salaries of city officials and providing the commissioner of finance shall draw salary for that office only and not for service on Board of Education, of which he is ex officio a member—yes, 6017; no, 1366.

Amendment 3.—Providing the method of street openings and cutting out fees for this purpose—yes, 6139; no, 1154.

Amendment 4.—Raising the tax limit maximum from $1 to $1.35 on the $100 assessed valuation—yes, 4832; no, 2975.

ALMOST LOSE VOTES.

Carelessness on the part of County Clerk John P. Cook or his deputies almost resulted today in the disfranchisement of a number of voters in the Second precinct. When they went to cast their ballots this morning they found that all the names of registered voters in that section after Walton had been dropped out. Until a battle of words had been fought with the county clerk's office over the telephone the necessary affidavits were not sent, permitting them to cast their votes.

P. L. Wheeler and F. L. Whittington, prominent residents of East Berkeley, were among those thus hampered by Cook's carelessness. Finding their names not on the register they telephoned the county clerk's office, but received unsatisfactory treatment. Finally they threatened mandamus proceedings to compel the names to be put on the register. Cook took cognizance of the threat and finally sent out the necessary affidavits.

President Is Silent When He Is Guest at Banquet

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—President Taft was the guest of the Union League Club at its Grant day banquet tonight. The president in his address eulogized the famous soldier, but made no reference to politics. The large gathering at the club fully expected the president to make some reply to the thrusts by Col. Roosevelt in the Massachusetts campaign, but he had nothing to say. At Trenton during the afternoon the president was given reception by the William H. Taft Association at the Trenton Republican Club. He made no speech. Trenton historians tonight refer to the fact that President Taft is the first president to visit Trenton since President Monroe was the guest of the city in 1817. The president left Philadelphia late tonight for Washington.

Cloak Manufacturers Adopt New Fashions

TOLEDO, O., April 27.—Styles for autumn were adopted here today by the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association. About 100 manufacturers were in attendance. The following are the styles. Suit jackets will show a gradual rather than a radical increase in length, flatter length (approximately 30 inches) predominating, the lengths to be based on varying

CHINESE SLAIN IN BATTLE

Highbinders Storm Salinas and Kill Tong Men in Cold Blood

Fifty Shots Fired in Deadly Rain of Bullets That Startles the Town

SALINAS, April 27.—Three Chinese were killed and a fourth mortally wounded tonight by five unidentified highbinders who arrived from out of town in automobiles and descended on Chinatown, firing at every member of the Hop Sing tong they encountered. The highbinders first appeared at the shop of Lee Ki and fired at him with automatic revolvers. Lee fell to the floor shot through the abdomen. Back to back the gunmen then proceeded up Soledad street, killing Lee Pui, Quin Pow and Lee Koon. All three were shot through the head and died almost instantly.

FIFTY SHOTS FIRED.

More than fifty shots were fired by the assassins, who covered their retreat with a fusillade from their weapons until they reached the city warehouse, where they jumped into two waiting automobiles and made their escape.

A posse of police went in pursuit of the men and the authorities of Monterey, Watsonville, Castroville, Pajaro, Gilroy, San Juan and Gonzales were asked to be on the lookout for them.

Lee Dong, the mayor of Salinas' Chinatown, was fired upon by the men, but he escaped unhurt.

UNABLE TO END FEUD.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Delegates to the Hop Sing, Suey Sing, Hip Sing and Sen Suey Sing held another conference in San Mateo tonight in an effort to put an end to their feud, but they returned to San Francisco reporting that nothing had been accomplished.

Suffocated in Fire In Room at Hotel

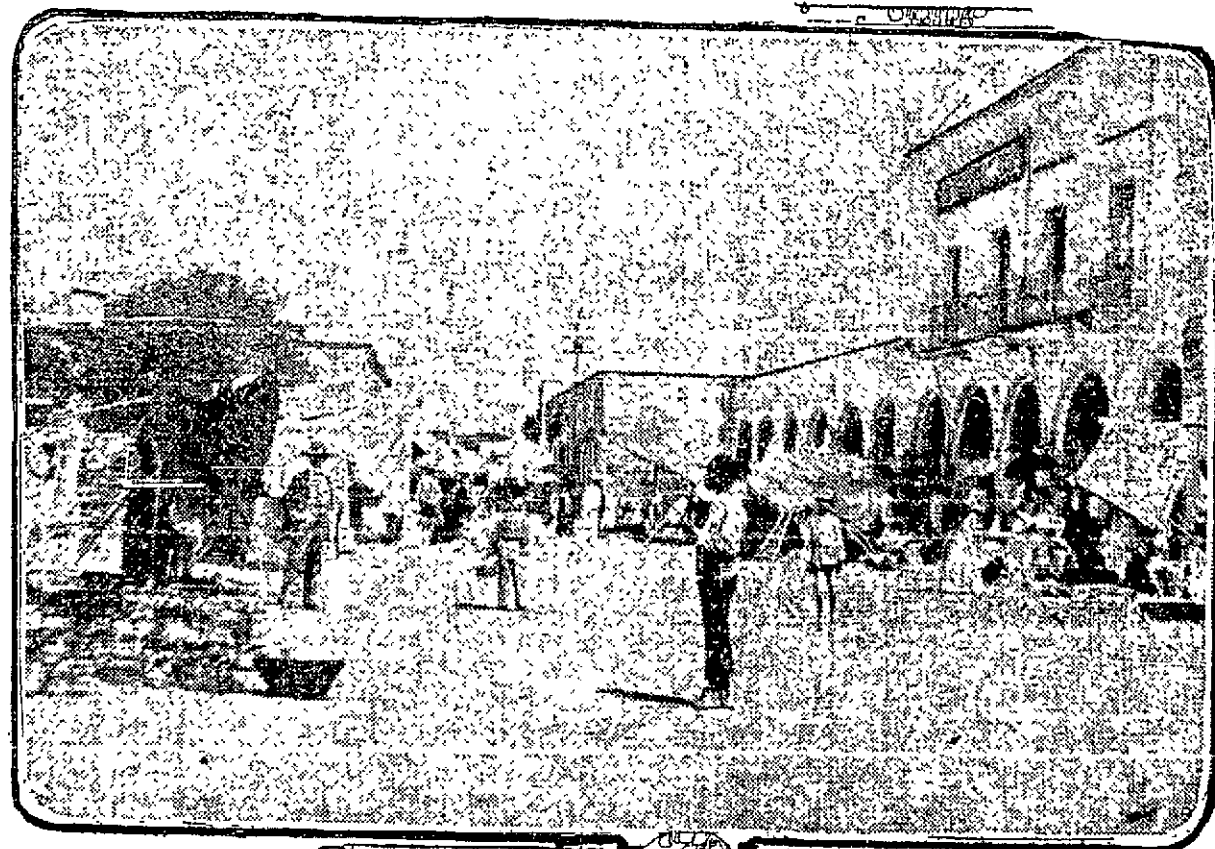

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Charles Morley, sheet metal worker, 55 years old, was suffocated tonight in his apartment at the Park View Hotel, 1300 Ninth avenue. He was subject to falling spells and it is supposed that he was seized with an attack and fell to the floor, overturning a lamp. The bed clothing was set on fire and before other occupants of the house discovered him he had been suffocated.

500 Odd Fellows Picnic in Canyon

REDWOOD CITY, April 27.—Under the auspices of Day View Lodge No. 109 of the Odd Fellows, nearly 500 excursionists made the first trip across San Francisco bay on the Dumbarton bridge yesterday. The passengers were from Redwood City, Belmont, Menlo Park and Palo Alto, and went to Fortwood in Niles Canyon for a picnic. Return trip was made early by moonlight.

SAYS NEW YORK WILL KNIFE COLONEL

Eighty Delegates Will Oppose Roosevelt, Says Barnes

NEW YORK, April 27.—William Barnes Jr., boss of the Republican state machine, has reported to President Taft that at least eighty of the ninety New York delegates to the national convention will vote against Colonel Roosevelt. Barnes has just completed a canvass of the delegation to the national convention, which convenes in Chicago in June. This canvass was made at the suggestion of President Taft, through Henry P. Stimson, secretary of war, and Senator Root. Barnes gave the President little encouragement in his report as to the support of the New York delegates in the national convention, but insisted that at least eighty of them would stand firm against the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt.

The state chairman admitted today that he has canvassed the delegation personally.

"We will stand pat," he said, "on the platform adopted in Rochester, including the plank urging the delegates to vote for the nomination of President Taft."

While Barnes talks of voting for Taft against all others in the convention, it is known that he has given the President no such assurance. Personally, he favors the nomination of a compromise candidate, preferably Charles E. Hughes, associate justice of the Supreme Court. Barnes will allow the vote of the delegation to go to Taft on the first ballot, but will swing them to another candidate after that.

Dardanelles Closed; Shipping Crippled

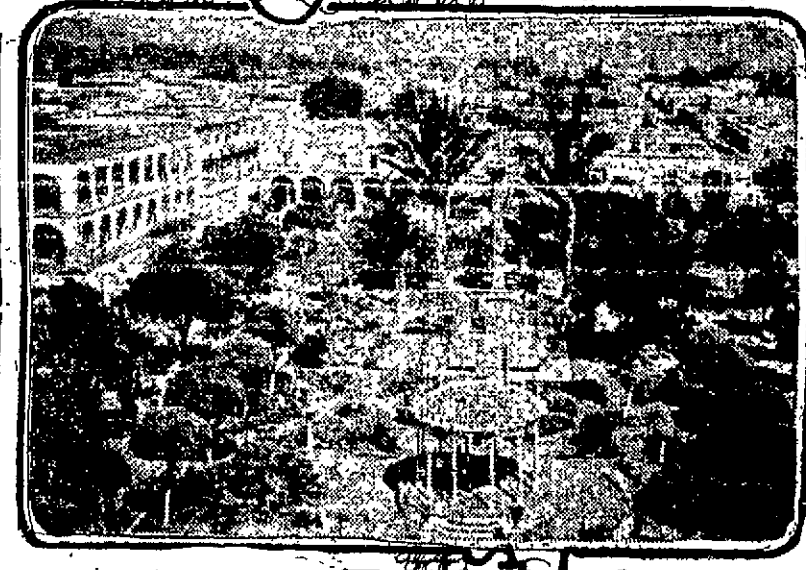

Powers to Ask Italy to Restrict Operations and Open Straits.

VIENNA, April 27.—The closing of the Dardanelles is causing such costly interference with international shipping that the Neue Freie Presse understands the powers have decided upon a joint effort to induce Italy to abstain from active operations in the Aegean sea and restrict the Turkish war to Tripolitania.

Retired Rear Admiral Is Summoned by Death

Complication of Diseases Cause Demise of E. Prime in New York.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Rear Admiral E. Prime, U. S. N., retired, died at his home in Nassau avenue, Huntington, L. I., tonight. His death was caused by a complication of diseases. He is survived by a widow.

SCORES ARE KILLED AND INJURED BY TORNADO

Hundreds of Houses Are Blown to Pieces in Terrific Storm

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 27.—At least twenty are dead, scores are injured, half a dozen towns are demolished, many others badly damaged and property damage running into many thousands was caused by a tornado which swept through Southeastern Oklahoma late this afternoon.

The town of Lugert was hardest hit. Fifteen being killed at that place are more than fifty injured. At Eldorado four are reported dead, while many are injured at Yukon. Mrs. Jerry Brown probably fatally.

DAMAGE IS SEVERE.

Little is known of what occurred in the rural districts. It is known that the damage was severe. It will be late Sunday before details can be learned.

An early report that twenty were killed and forty hurt when a train was blown off the track is denied. The train encountered the storm and was blown over, but no lives were lost.

The storm traveled almost the full length of the State, spending its force in the neighborhood of Mulhall, in Logan county, where it tore down several buildings. No deaths or injuries are reported from that point, however.

The twister formed somewhere near El Dorado, in Jackson county, about fifteen miles north of the Texas border. It struck El Dorado, where three or four houses were blown down and one woman and three children killed.

TOWN IS DESTROYED.

The town of Warren, with about 400 inhabitants, is reported to have been completely destroyed. No communication can be had with that place, and it cannot be definitely stated if this is true. Several persons were hurt and several buildings destroyed at Martha.

The little town of Blair also was struck. Two persons were injured there and buildings were wrecked.

Continuing northward, the worst damage was done at Lugert. Into Washington county the storm continued, striking Rocky, a town of probably a hundred families. Half the town was blown away and a dozen or more people injured. A special telegram to an Oklahoma City paper says no one was killed at Rocky.

Lone Wolf, a small village, also was damaged. No details can be learned. Four houses were blown down at Yukon. Fourteen miles west of Oklahoma City, and it is reported that much damage was done between Yukon and El Reno. Calumet, ten miles west of El Reno, was hit hard. Several persons were hurt there, but no loss of life is reported.

MAN KILLED IN TEXAS.

FORT WORTH, April 27.—Reports received here tonight from Childress, Tex., say that ten persons were killed in a cyclone which swept over the Texas panhandle late today. Wires are down and details are lacking. When the twister struck Childress, three employees of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway, who were sitting in a construction car, were killed when the car was demolished. Seven cars were blown off the track. Other fatalities are reported at Hamlin, Claude, Burke and Burnett. Some of the victims are being brought to Fort Worth. At least a hundred houses were blown over and wrecked.

READY FOR DUTY.

In view of the action by the foreign powers, of which the state department has been informed for several days, orders issued to the steamer Colon of the Panama Steamship Company, which really are United States transports, are of the utmost significance. On the day before the Colon sailed on her last voyage to Panama an army board made a survey to ascertain the number of soldiers she could accommodate. On the return voyage the Colon, at sea, received wireless orders to hasten to New York, discharge her cargo and hurry to Baltimore. She is to be drydocked and overhauled for other service.

Major-General Barry To Succeed Grant

WASHINGTON, April 27.—President Taft will appoint Major General Thomas H. Barry, superintendent of the West Point military academy, as the successor to the late Major General Frederick D. Grant. General Barry is in temporary command of the Eastern division of which General Grant was the head.

WARSHIPS SENT BY POWERS

England, Germany and France Rush Cruisers to Vera Cruz

General Orozco Makes an "Appeal for Justice" to Congressmen

MOBILE, Ala., April 27.—"If the United States intervenes in Mexico every person of white skin—irrespective of his nationality—will be killed or tortured," declared J. Hromadko, an American citizen who arrived here from Chapa Chala on the Guatemala border by way of Livingston, Guatemala.

Hromadko said he was operating a drug store in Chapa Chala. He asserted that when Mexican bandits found he was an American subject they threw his goods into the street and broke up his store. He lost $5000.

The American consul advised him and other Americans to leave Mexico immediately, warning them not to attempt to get to the Texas border, but to go by way of Guatemala. He made the trip in an ox-cart.

The refugee said that frequently the bandits operate on negroes who claim American citizenship. He says he saw one black hung by the head and tortured until he gave the bandits money.

FOREIGN CRUISERS.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—England, Germany and France are rushing cruisers to both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Mexico. It is also probable that Japan will send warships.

The state department today admitted knowledge of this move of ships. The bureau of naval intelligence stated that the British warships on the way to the west coast are the Shearwater, Algérie and Rainbow. Without even waiting the murder of a single British subject, the British government during the revolution landed marines in Sinaloa, the scene of the present disturbance, when the English government heard that the property of an English company was in danger.

The British cruiser Seiklan, on the West Indian station, will be the first of the British ships to advance on the east coast of Mexico. Her destination is Vera Cruz.

France started the armored cruiser Des Carles north from Rio Janeiro two months ago. This ship is now in the vicinity of Galveston, Texas, and will hurry at once to Vera Cruz. The action by Germany was equally swift. The German cruiser Bremen, stationed at Santo Domingo, will take part in the international demonstration at Vera Cruz.

READY FOR DUTY.

In view of the action by the foreign powers, of which the state department has been informed for several days, orders issued to the steamer Colon of the Panama Steamship Company, which really are United States transports, are of the utmost significance. On the return voyage the Colon, at sea, received wireless orders to hasten to New York, discharge her cargo and hurry to Baltimore. She is to be drydocked and overhauled for other service.

Ignoring President Taft, General Orozco, leader of the insurgents, through Braulio Hernandez, his confidential agent, has addressed "an appeal for justice" to Congress and the citizens of the United States. It was received by many members of Congress through the mail today.

CAMPUS IS SMALL FOR COLLEGIANS

Stanford Graduates Decide to Hold Senior Ball in San Jose.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 27.
The Stanford campus has not proved big enough for the carnival of rocket and fun with which the big graduating class plans to end its col-

all committee announce that the ball-always the concluding ceremony of commencement week, will be held in San Jose.

Stanford's commencement week this year will start on May 15 with the usual comedy in the assembly hall, and will extend over five days. Graduation ceremonies are scheduled for May 20, and on the evening of that day the latest additions to the alumni college of the university will wind up their college days with a brilliant function, probably in the Hotel Vendome. Special cars will be provided to take the "quencers" from the campus to San Jose, and

The senior promenade will be held in the quadrangle. This affair enjoys the distinction of being the only real promenade indulged in by any student body in the country. Originally other universities used to hold promenades, which became formal dances with the name attached. With the colleges and concealed in the tropical foliage of the inner quadrangle gardens, the merry-makers will stroll through the arcades and around the long corri-

DEWILDERED WILD FOWL
HUNTER OVER 40 YEARS OLD

HOOVER OVER HOUSETOPS

ANACONDA, April 27.—A flock of wild geese headed north lost their bearings or were bewildered by the electric lights of the city and flew for hours over the city. The light geese were disturbed by the honking of the wild fowl, which could not be seen through the darkness and mist, but seemed to be within 50 feet of the house-tops.

They were first noticed about midnight when the city lights were shining brightly. Streaks of dawn set them off against their journey to the summer lands. The weather wise decree the flight of the wild water fowl to be just another sign of the fallible sign of the balmy weather that is to come.

ROOSEVELT TRY TO FIGHT IT OUT

BROCKTON, Mass., April 27.—Theodore Roosevelt, from a "baggage" truck near here, today formally called a "golden harvest" made a ten-minute speech to a crowd which surrounded the railroad station. He talked of the eight-hour law as applied to work on the Panama canal and expressed his willingness to give his political opponents "all the fight

BOSTON, April 27.—Boston gave Colonel Roosevelt tonight the most demonstrative welcome he has seen since the beginning of his campaign for the presidential nomination.

Speaking in the arena before a tumultuous throng, the former President again criticised President Taft, though he did not repeat the severe denunciation which marked his speech at Worcester on Friday night.

"I do not wish this to be a campaign of personalities between Mr. Taft and myself," the Colonel said.

"Last night I felt compelled to answer Mr. Taft at length. Tonight I shall refer to him only as I feel that I must."

Among his own supporters, the Colonel mentioned the Western Governors who asked him to run, and Gifford Pinchot. "Where's Perkins?" some one in the crowd shouted. "He's for me," the Colonel called back. "You can't put a question to me that will embarrass me for a moment. You can search my pockets and you will find that I have never done anything to do for Mr. Perkins or any other man, being one thing I won't tell to you in detail."

As respecting Taft's supporters, the Colonel named amid hisses from the crowd, Senators Lorimer, Penrose, Gus

SUNSET LIMITED TRAIN IS WITHDRAWN

The Southern Pacific's crack 70-hour train between New Orleans and San Francisco, the Sunset Limited, has been discontinued. The resumption of the same service before the exposition opening is a matter that will be debated.

There are two reasons for the sudden withdrawal of the train. One is that the traffic for which the Sunset Limited was essentially intended is exceptionally light at this time of the year; the other reason has to do with economy. On one of the last trips of the special-fare limited from New Orleans to San Francisco the palatial train rolled into San Francisco and discharged its full passenger complement, which consisted of one man

There had been others, it is said, but they got off in the southern part of the state, and the solitary passenger the Sunset brought here had a couple sleepers, a buffet car, a diner and an observation car all to himself from Los Angeles to San Francisco, not to mention the fact that he was the sole person upon whom eight porters, a stenographer, a manicurist, a tailor and a barber could shower their attentions on the last leg of the journey.

New passenger schedules between here and the gulf have been prepared to conform with the withdrawal of the Sunset.

NEW YORK SHRINERS ON WAY TO CALIFORNIA

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Shriners of Mecca Temple, with their families, left the Grand Central terminal this afternoon on a special train en route to the annual meeting of the Imperial Council of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at Los Angeles. On the trip the party will stop at Denver, Colorado Springs, Salt Lake City, Yosemite Valley and San Francisco, returning by way of Portland, Seattle and the Canadian Rockies. The

SPELLING 'BEE' IS WON BY TEACHER

Many Prominent Men Participate in Contest Held at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 27.—Lawyers, editors, politicians, teachers, students and business men took part in the biggest spelling bee ever held in this section. After a heated contest, Miss Elizabeth Cleveland, instructor in English at the State Normal School, won first prize by spelling "creosote" and was left the only person in the long and distinguished line.

Among those who succumbed in the last round were Judge T. M. Huns, Dr. John W. Wray, W. C. Wilson and Superintendent W. H. Keister. Former Commonwealth's Attorney G. N. Conrad was the first speller to take his seat, when he failed on "mons." Rabbi Schnevansfeld, who came here from Baltimore, was stumped on "bleve." Former Councilman A. U. Lewis tripped up on "decimat." Mayor John P. Burke, who is a candidate for re-election, could not spell "indispensable," and it is the subject of many good-natured jokes. State Senator John Paul sent eight good spellers to the bench on "ditch," and finally fell himself in the last inning on "creosote." Dr. E. R. Miller, musician, "fared."

Dr. W. S. Currell of Washington and Lee University came from Lexington to officiate as a "pronouncer." He lined up the contestants in the theater and read words of his own selection at them, defining each word.

Miss Fannie Speck of the public school and the Rev. J. L. Jackson of the Episcopal Church were technical captains. The judges were the Rev. Dr. B. F. Wilson, J. T. Houck and Prof. C. J. Heatwole.

The ladies of the Methodist Church cleared about $130 from the bee, which will go toward paying for the pipe organ in the new $50,000 church now under construction.

OFFICIALS STOP BABY RAFFLE

Enterprising Theatrical Manager Concocts Scheme to Dispose of Child.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 27.—Though Lakewood is world renowned for the invigorating and health giving aroma of its pines, latterly it has been achieving notoriety in other directions. A few weeks ago it gave to the world an admirable example of how a jury could arrive at a unanimous verdict by the introduction of a big drum and a pair of cymbals in the jury room.

It tried, through the instrumentality of an enterprising theatrical manager, to show the country how the problem of a woman with too many children to support could be relieved of her burden. Prepared as the citizens of this village are for surprises, they opened their eyes wide when it became noised around that a real live baby was to be raffled off.

Nothing else was discussed, and it seemed to be the general opinion that such an exhibition should not be permitted. Complaints came in by the score to the members of the Common Council. A meeting being held, Borough Attorney W. H. Jayne Jr. pointed out that raffling or lotteries of any kind were contrary to the laws of the state, so it was decided that the police should notify George Sanford of Sanford's academy that the raffle would not be permitted.

The raffle had been extensively advertised. Numbered coupons were attached to the goods, and the holder of the lucky number was to receive the babe.

A warrant has been issued at the request of John Ryno, overseer of the poor, for the arrest of the alleged father, Harry Bowman, who has left the town. The Children's Aid Society will intervene and claim the child.

BATHROBE STARTS 'SCRAP' WITH APES

Companion Gets Envious and "Classy" Garment Is Torn Off.

NEW YORK, April 27.—While all the other simians in the New York Zoological Park have been sticking as close to nature as possible, Baldy, the leading high-brow ape, has been adding to his wardrobe of "classy" garments by leaps and bounds. This has caused envy among his monkey relatives and neighbors and has at times caused fights.

When Baldy appeared before his kindergartener class of eight or nine simians he wore a flashy garment that paralyzed with envy all his pupils, except Coco, the one "bad boy" of the school. Baldy's "classy" piece of apparel was a blue and white bathrobe, with long tassels on the ends of the strings. It wasn't Diana, preparing for the bath that the class saw; it was Baldy about to officiate as the teacher.

But while the others thought of the rapid deterioration of the monkey race as they looked at the teacher, Coco, spurred on by the color of the gown, hopped out of his chair and pulled one of the strings. Curator Dittmar and his assistants were not quick enough to avoid the mix-up that followed. Coco is a most precocious simian, and though Baldy is even tempered most of the time Coco "gets his goat."

When the string was pulled Baldy involuntarily shed his robe. He swung it around his head and brought it down on Coco, sending the first row of pupils howling and all over. The fight might have ended seriously had not the curator and his assistants separated Baldy and Coco when the former had been put away after that and the classroom once more was orderly.

New Papal Delegate Is Well Known Missionary

MGR. GIOVANNI BONZANO, who is the new Papal delegate at Washington, succeeding Falconio, who was created cardinal.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Mgr. Giovanni Bonzano is the new papal delegate to Washington. He is not a member of the diplomatic corps, but is treated with ceremony at the White House and by the heads of the departments.

The new legate is an Italian by birth, and succeeds Falconio, who was one of the three Americans created cardinals. Mgr. Bonzano has been interested in extensive missionary work in China, and in recent years has been rector of the College of the Propaganda.

DEATH PROPHECY IS FULFILLED

Man Has Premonition Which Comes True a Few Hours Later.

MILWAUKEE, April 27.—When Tony Burewta, 363 Lapham street, 50 years old, left the house for a walk, he turned to his wife and said:

"I think this is my last day on earth. I feel that I will be dead by midnight." His wife laughed. "Oh, forget this foolishness," she said. "You are dreaming. There's nothing the matter with you, is there?"

"No, I'm not sick, but something tells me I'm going to die," he replied, before leaving.

Mrs. Burewta waited and waited. Losing patience at about 10 o'clock, she went to the door to see if her husband was coming.

There on the step before her was the form of a man. A second glance convinced her that her husband was lying as though dead. A physician was hurriedly called, but desperate efforts could not save the man's life.

At the morgue Coroner Nahlin pronounced the cause of death to be a sudden attack of heart failure.

HENS TALLY EGGS IN OWN WRITING

Upstate Woman Has a Novel Device on Poultry Farm.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., April 27.—Mrs. Jane Bennett, 73 years old, has 1500, Brown Leghorn hens that net her an income of $1500 a year on her poultry farm at Luzerne. She does all the work, despite her advanced age, and raises most of the food for her pets.

Mrs. Bennett has a system of keeping track of how the hens are laying. Each hen has a piece of colored crayon attached to her leg by a rubber band. A piece of white paper is placed in the nest. When the hen deposits her egg she leaves her mark in this way. When a hen is laying Mrs. Bennett goes after her and finds the reason.

stop laying they are disposed of and others take their places.

YOLO BASIN RANCH SOLD TO CAPITALISTS

DIXON, April 27.—The J. F. Garnett tract of 4000 acres in the Yolo Basin, nine miles east of here, has been sold through the Dixon Alfalfa Land Company to San Francisco capitalists, according to an official statement made by the former owner. The names of the new owners are not disclosed, but it is stated they will reclaim the land at once.

IRRIGATION TO BEGIN OF LAND AT WILLOWS

WILLOWS, April 27.—Irrigation will begin the first of the week on 320 acres of alfalfa on the 11,000-acre Spaulding ranch south of this city. Manager T. L. Knock will start the seven pumps which will furnish the water this week. Later on many more pumps will be installed. There are now between 30 and 40 wells on the Spaulding ranch and many more will be sunk.

It is said that a student of the University of Chicago was expelled because he showed how wise the Colonel was in going elsewhere for his education—Florida Times-Union.

FLAMES SHOOT 100 FEET INTO AIR

Burning Gas Well Causes an Unusual Spectacular Sight.

ORCHARD PARK, April 27.—The gas well on the Yates farm, about one and one-half miles southwest of this village, was discovered to be on fire. This well is the property of the Yates Oil Company and yields 5,000,000 feet daily. This tremendous pressure threw the blazing gas over 100 feet into the air and made a spectacular sight. Many visitors were at the well watching the novel spectacle.

The origin of the fire is supposed to be incendiary. The local fire company tried to overcome the flames by means of the chemical engine, but its efforts were futile. The fire was finally extinguished by an expert from Bradford.

LODGE INVITED TO ATTEND CARNIVAL

SANTA CLARA, April 27.—The delegates to the Native Sons convention at Fresno have received invitations to attend the Santa Clara college students' carnival on June 16, a committee appointed for the purpose inviting the lodge men to present as a gift.

The matter was properly placed before the convention by Delegate Moy-nihan of the San Jose delegation, and it was resolved that the organization would be officially represented on the occasion.

It is expected that a large number of Native Sons and Native Daughters will attend. Santa Clara college has always played a large part in the history of this state. It was the first college established on this side of the Rockies and is now about to be chartered as a university.

HANDSOME GIFT BROUGHT BY FRENCH DELEGATION

NEW YORK, April 27.—The members of the delegation which has come to the United States to present a gift to the people of the United States, the bust of "La France" by Auguste Rodin, is to be placed at the foot of the Champlain Memorial Lighthouse at Crown Point, Lake Champlain, visited the City Hall today to pay their respects to Mayor Gaynor. All the members of the delegation were present with the exception of Baron d'Estour-nelles de Constant. Gabriel Hanotaux explained the object of the delegation to Mayor Gaynor and expressed the great pleasure it gave him personally to be permitted to bring the French nation's gift to the American nation.

RAILWAY TAXMEN'S ASSOCIATION FORMED

CHICAGO, April 27.—A national organization to be known as the Railway Taxmen's Association, composed of a membership of tax givers and attorneys of twenty-five railroads entering Chicago, has been formed here. The object is to consider the various taxing problems that arise in different states with a view to devising accurate and advanced methods of determining the assessable value of railroad property. In case of the interstate roads, methods for apportioning the assessed value of railway property to the different states and lesser taxing bodies will be devised.

WORK ON PORTERVILLE EXTENSION TO BEGIN

PORTERVILLE, April 27.—C. S. Freeland, the chief engineer of the P. N. E. road, has completed the surveys for the branch line of the railway to run from this city to the mining district of the Upper Tuolumne and the extension work will be started within the week. Chief of the expenses incident to the construction of the road will be a modern bridge over the Tuolumne river.

A. A. DENISON TO DELIVER ADDRESS

J. W. Phillips Also to Speak Before Improvement Club of Allendale.

UPPER FRUITVALE, April 27.—A. A. Denison, secretary of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, and J. W. Phillips, member of the manufacturers' committee of the same body, will address a public gathering next Tuesday evening in the Allendale. Denison will speak on the topic of the Central Improvement Club of Allendale. Denison will speak on the relation of the chamber to the improved district and the work being carried on furthering its interests. Phillips will deal with civic affairs.

A feature of the evening's activities will be the presentation of a novel to the Central Improvement Club by the United Improvement Clubs, B. A. Gamble, E. Bardellini and L. E. Ummel having been named a presentation committee. The meeting will be under the chairmanship of L. Helms, president of the Allendale body. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

INDIAN SONGS ARE "CANNED" AT MUSEUM

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Ishi's musical repertoire, a hundred different songs, is being recorded on phonograph cylinders at the University museum. His musical ear is different as was shown by the transcript into musical notation of forty Southern Yana songs, which contain many notes that have no place in our scale.

From these transcriptions a regular scale of Southern Yana melody has been constructed to which Ishi sings true with fair regularity. It consists of six or seven semi-tones. As compared with the music of other Indian tribes who employ the five-toned scale, characteristics of the Chinese and other Asiatics, Ishi's songs are built on a plan decidedly more rudimentary. Ishi is as fastidious of his voice as a Tetraxian. If he thinks his throat is in good condition he will add a selection of songs of his own composition to his Sunday afternoon demonstration at the Affiliated Colleges tomorrow.

LEAD PENCIL PIERCES EYE; MAY BLIND YOUTH

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—Weyrl Bayless, a 10-year-old school boy living at 141 East Twenty-fifth street, may lose the use of his right eye as the result of a strange accident.

According to the story told by the boy, he was playing about in front of a motion picture show on Jefferson street when a passerby threw a lead pencil at him. Before he could dodge, the missile hit him in the eye, the pointed end of the pencil piercing the eyeball.

Bayless was taken to the Receiving Hospital. After dressing the eye, the surgeons advised the boy to see a specialist.

Y. M. C. A. LEADER WILL ADDRESS LOCAL CLUB

J. S. Tichenor, secretary of the Army and Navy Department of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations, will address the men's club at the local Y. M. C. A. this afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. Tichenor was for some time at the head of Association work in South Africa, returning to the United States last July to assume the leadership in the Army and Navy work. He is spending a few weeks on the Pacific coast in the interest of his department. The First Methodist Church choir will furnish special music.

LONDON SPECIALTIES FEATURES OF MARKET

LONDON, April 27.—London specialists were the feature of the stock market today and there was an irregular boom. Selling prices were the feature. Cotton closed 1-16 higher. In most quarters the story was discredited that Japan is purchasing land in Mexico. Discount rates eased today here and at Berlin. Rand mines, 85-8; De Beers, 201-8.

TEXTBOOK IS NOT FRIENDLY TOWARD U. S.

JORGE WILLS PRADILLA.

PANAMA, April 27.—Jorge Wills Pradilla, as director general of public instruction in Colombia, has been instrumental in the adoption of a text-book history containing slurs on the United States in connection with the establishment of the Republic of Panama. The history speaks of Roosevelt as the "chief conspirator" in the enterprise.

TAXES MUST BE PAID TOMORROW

County Collector's Office Will Be Open Until 6 O'clock for Payments.

County taxes will become delinquent tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock when the office of Tax Collector James B. Barber closes and payments made after that date will be with a penalty attached. Barber announced yesterday that property owners were complying with the law and paying about the usual percentage of the amount due paid. That there will probably be a delinquency of between $45,000 and $50,000 was stated.

As in the case of the city tax collector's office, the county office will not be open to receive payments except during the regular hours.

"Such a step would not be of any advantage," declares the tax collector, "as people who intend to make payments will do so before the expiration of the period and they are doing so in average manner."

SORENSEN FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The funeral of the late Abe Sorenson, of 820 Telegraph avenue, who died in San Francisco Friday from an attack of epilepsy, will be held tomorrow from the Brown undertaking parlors under the auspices of the Oakland lodge of Moose and the Odd Fellows. Interment will be at Mountain View.

The dead man was an employee of the Southern Pacific company, being employed in the clerical department. He was a charter member of the Gypsy Lodge of Odd Fellows. Sorenson was a native of San Francisco and is survived by a widow, Mrs. Belle Sorenson, and a sister, Mrs. Hanna Sorenson. He was 49 years old.

AUDITORIUM PLANS TO BE RUSHED

Architect to Begin Work To-morrow on Drawings for $500,000 Structure

City Attorney Renders Opinion That City's Title to Lake Site Is Good

Work on the plans for the proposed $500,000 municipal auditorium to be erected by the city of Oakland on the shores of Lake Merritt will be commenced in the office of the city architect tomorrow under orders from Commissioner of Public Works Harry S. Anderson and the city council.

The commencement of work after some delay follows a conference between members of the city council, City Attorney Ben F. Woolner and Assistant City Attorney Charles Beardsley.

Work has been delayed as a result of doubt of the city's legal right to the property on which it is proposed to erect the auditorium. It was claimed that the land had been acquired for park purposes and could not be used for an auditorium, and Edison Adams questioned the title of the city to the land and threatened to bring suit. It was feared for a time that it would be necessary to compromise with the Adams claim by paying Adams for a quitclaim deed to clear the title.

CITY'S TITLE GOOD. Careful investigation of the various claims and the legal points have been made by Woolner and Beardsley and they advised the council at the time the city is so good that there is practically no question that the municipality would win any suit in court that might be brought in this matter. The city attorney's office advised the council that it would be safe to go ahead with the building and that any suit that might be brought could be fought out if necessary while the structure was actually under way and progress being made.

The councilmen decided to accept the advice, and orders will be issued tomorrow for the commencement of work on the plans.

NEW ENGLANDERS WILL ASSEMBLE AT PALACE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Members of the New England Association will gather Monday evening in the parlors of the Palace hotel to listen to addresses by John Wright Buckman, president of the Pacific Theological Seminary; Thomas E. Hayden and Laura Truby Fowler, a prominent educator. A social evening will follow.

The charter roll of the new association will be augmented by the New Englanders present. The roll of members closed April 10 and Secretary Palmer wishes to have as many as possible of the thousands of New Englanders in this part of the state enroll.

MEN OF CHURCH BANQUET WOMEN

RICHMOND, April 27.—The men of the Presbyterian church last evening were the hosts to the women of that congregation at a banquet and entertainment which concluded a recent campaign conducted by the church members for raising funds for the improvement of the church building. Some months ago they decided that the men and women members would see which could raise the most money for the improvements, the losing side to banquet the winners. The women won the contest and the hosts of the church and musical program was enjoyed.

I Asked a Bank President:

"How can you afford time for music?"

"Because," he replied, "I figure I am a better banker when I take an interest in music. The business worries of the day fade away and are forgotten when I devote an hour to playing the BUNGALOW PLAYER PIANO after dinner."

This banker is storing up a big reserve. When others who have "burned the candle at both ends" are incapacitated, he'll be drawing big dividends in health. He recognizes the essential part that good music plays in one's life.

THE BUNGALOW PLAYER PIANO has every essential advantage of more expensive players.

And we will take your "never-played" piano in part payment.

The BUNGALOW PLAYER PIANO plays the full scale, 88 notes—plays all standard music—full, round, rich, mellow tones—selected materials—best workmanship—automatic guiding device—melody soloist—every valuable improvement—free library of music rolls.

Price $185—terms $2.50 per week.

VESSEL ARRIVES AHEAD OF TIME

City of Para Makes Unusually Quick Trip From Panama to San Pedro.

SAN PEDRO, April 27.—Out of the place came usually prevalent at this season of the year in the tropics and into a northwesterly gale today was the ship of the Pacific Mail Line City of Para, which unexpectedly appeared off port at 7 o'clock this morning from Panama direct.

According to local agents of the company, the Para was not due until tomorrow. She made the voyage in 21 days and 8 hours. She departed for San Francisco at 7 p. m.

Sixty-two passengers and a bumper cargo of freight were brought north on the Para. Ten passengers and 170 tons of merchandise were for Los Angeles, the balance for San Francisco.

The City of Para broke her record for a long stay in at Bahia. Through lack of docking facilities there, she was forced to remain in port fourteen days, six of which were spent sitting at anchor awaiting her turn to berth.

The passengers on the Para received the first news of the sinking of the Titanic by wireless from the steamer Francis R. Loring, which was met with off the Mexican coast towing the schooner Meteor to Panama.

MEMORIAL TO BE HELD FOR PIONEER WOMEN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The Association of Pioneer Women of California will hold annual memorial services, Friday afternoon, May 3, at 3 o'clock, in Pioneer Hall.

Of the eight members who have passed away during the year all had a part in the building up of the state.

Mrs. Sarah M. Maddock came here in 1849; Mrs. M. Harris was a charter member and arrived in 1852; Mrs. M. M. Hotelling and Mrs. Margaret Norton came here in 1853; Mrs. Emily H. Weston, a charter member, came here in 1852; Mrs. Frances Bowman, in 1862; Mrs. Alice A. Donnell was a charter member and arrived in 1851, and Mrs. Isabella Love arrived here in 1853.

CHAMBER WILL HAVE MARTINEZ QUARTERS

MARTINEZ, April 27.—The Contra Costa County Chamber of Commerce will have its headquarters here, following a decision reached this week by the members of the organization.

Consisting of J. M. Colton, C. L. Dodge and A. B. Coleman, has been appointed to confer with the supervisors relative to the building of an office building on county property here. George E. Johnson, C. L. Dodge and E. B. Anderson have been appointed an auditing and finance committee.

HELD TO ANSWER FOR ALLEGED ROBBERY
On joint charges of robbery, John E. Anderson and Fred Schaffer were held to answer yesterday before Judge Mortimer Smith for holding up Frank Casarman, a dairymen, in East Oakland ten days ago. Bail was fixed in the sum of $2000 to bind them for trial before the Superior Court.

Robert Paul Rodell was held to answer to the Superior Court by Judge Smith yesterday on a grand larceny charge for stealing a motorcycle.

PARIS, April 27.—Some of the styles in the new piece, "Rue de la Paix," now running at the vaudeville, emphasize the curves of the form divine with an accentuation that has not heretofore been indicated in dress modeling.

The gowns have been created by M. Paul Iribe. Skirts are tight and clinging over the hips, sleeves snug and the hobble effect is still in vogue, with a comfortable walking length.

It is not likely that the fashion will become very popular with the British matrons, owing to her physical proportions, though at the night performances in some of the London theaters dresses which certainly owe their inspiration to the "Iribe line" are occasionally to be seen.

The style will no doubt become quite popular and prevalent in America, owing to the quick adoption of Parisian styles by the dames and belles of fashion in this country who have a natural adaptability to Parisian models and styles.

STEAMER IS HELD BY UNION FIGHT

Commache Does Not Get Away From New York Harbor On Time.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Clyde line steamer Comanche, which cleared today for Charleston and Jacksonville, turned about when six miles down the bay and anchored off the Statue of Liberty waiting orders from the company.

BERKELEY BUSINESS MEN TO GIVE DINNER

BERKELEY, April 27.—The luncheon to be given at the Hotel Shattuck under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce local trade committees next Monday at 12:30 will be well attended by business men, who are interested in the city's progress. An address will be delivered by an investigation, and an expert in promotion of advantageous publicity.

AGED WOMAN IS ACCUSED OF THEFT

Clerks in a Broadway five-ten-fifteen-cent store caused the arrest of Mrs. A. Hager, an aged woman living at 1825 San Pablo avenue, last evening, for alleged shop lifting. The woman was taken to the police station by Patrolman Edward Conroy, who was summoned by the proprietor of the place. Mrs. Hager will be held pending an investigation, and the probable swearing out of a warrant. It is alleged that she was seen attempting to conceal knives and forks taken from a counter basket under her cloak.

KNOX TO ARRIVE NEXT TUESDAY

Secretary of State to Deliver Address at Development Banquet.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Secretary of State Philander C. Knox, who is coming to this city to be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the California Development Board in the Palace Hotel court on Tuesday evening, May 7, will leave Washington, D. C., tomorrow morning in a private car, accompanied by Governor Clark and wife, of Alaska, and Congressman Burke of Pittsburg.

He will go to New Orleans, arriving there on Wednesday and leave immediately for Los Angeles, which he will reach on Saturday. Thence he will go to Santa Barbara, staying there from Saturday evening to Monday evening. He will arrive in this city on Tuesday morning.

ELABORATE SERVICES AT THE NEWMAN CLUB

BERKELEY, April 27.—Masses will be celebrated at Newman Hall tomorrow morning at 7:30 and 10:30 o'clock, Walton C. Webb singing "Tea's Prayer," at the offertory at late mass and the Newman Club quartet rendering Rosewig's mass in E. At the benediction service at 5 p. m. Miss Marie Giorgianna of St. Mary's church (Paulist) in San Francisco, will be organist. A musical program has been prepared, as follows: Baritone solo, "The Lord Is My Light," Harold Brayton; "Ave Verum" (Rosewig), duet, Ralph MacFadyen and Walton C. Webb; "Tantum Ergo" (Mozart), Newman Club Male Quartet; bass solo, "Invitation" (Pell), Walton C. Webb. The public is welcome.

HOSPITAL SISTERS EXPRESS THEIR THANKS

The Sisters of Providence Hospital have requested publication of the following expression of thanks:
"On the occasion of the graduation of nurses' class of 1912 the Sisters of Providence Hospital have once more happily experienced the kind feeling and appreciation of the community of Oakland.
The great concourse present was a manifestation of a sincere desire to cooperate with their efforts to honor God and relieve suffering humanity.
Words of thanks fell to convey their gratitude to the distinguished officers who made the evening a great event and also the singers and musicians. Sincere thanks are extended to Brewster Furniture Company for furnishing the stage, also to the florists, Sulphurro, Clark, and S. Macquinn, who kindly contributed to the decorations."

My Dear Mr. Stewart,

I wish to write and congratulate you on the wonderful sale of your Sulphurro, though it is not to be wondered at, when one reads the many testimonials that you receive from all parts of the country. From a few of the many people, whom it has so completely cured of different ailments.

Having lived in the Yukon nearly 14 years, I contracted rheumatism, which was troubling me so that I had tried everything that I was able to get that was good for rheumatism, but found nothing, till last June, on coming outside to Seattle, I heard of your Sulphurro, which you kindly furnished free of cost. In less than a month, I was completely cured and have not had a pain or ache of this nature since.

One of the leading druggists here in Bellingham, told me yesterday that they sold more Sulphurro than any other patented medicine that he handled in his store.

Wishing you every possible success, and thanking you for courtesies extended me,

Believe me,

Yours truly,

W. R. Brayton

SULPHURRO IS SPRING FEVER'S DEADLY ENEMY

Seasonable Complaint Merely Indication That System Needs Purifying.

TONIC PROVIDES THE MUCH NEEDED SULPHUR

Stewart Compound Becoming More and More a Necessity in Every Household; the Right Way to Eradicate the Disease.

Spring fever time is here.

What is spring fever? It is a torpid, sluggish condition of the system that vents itself in a feeling of lassitude.

Spring fever in notice that the system needs a cleansing, a refreshing treatment that will remove the "dead-wood" rubbish that the winter has left.

In its short lifetime Sulphurro has demonstrated that it is the greatest purifier of the system that has ever been discovered. Sulphurro being naturally the spring remedy—as we learned in childhood—Sulphurro, which is a liquid compound of Sulphur, is just the preparation you need for this season of the year.

Whether you are ill or not, Sulphurro is the proper thing for you to take. Only a little more than a year ago Sulphurro was perfected, and it has been on the market for the public not quite four months. Its cures of many ailments have been so numerous and so remarkable that it is a constant surprise even to those who expected the most for it.

For Stomach Trouble and Rheumatism.

Stomach disorders and Rheumatism, too, are extremely prevalent at this time of year, and for these Sulphurro is proving the greatest antidote ever found. Cases of stomach troubles dating back many years have been cured completely by the careful and consistent use of Sulphurro. As dozens of letters in the Sulphurro offices will testify, while the men and women who have been freed of this big show was in wheat and traders who generally make coarse grains their headquarters were to be seen in the larger

SHORTS DISAPPOINTED.

Those who put out short lines of hog products early in the week and who wanted to even up their position to make purchases of any of the commodities. About the only stuff put on sale came from the hands of those having profits. Advances were shown of 1/2¢ to 3/4¢ in wheat, while corn was unchanged to 1/4¢ better and oats were 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower. Hog products were 15¢ to 30¢ higher, with the most strength shown by pork.

BEST WHEAT BULL.

The larger traders of Minneapolis, Duluth, Kansas City, St. Louis and the East, believe that Patten is the best wheat bull in the country, and whenever it becomes known that he has taken the bull side of wheat, or in fact any grain, there are many followers at his heels.

Corn, grain, and other commodities, there was little interest in either corn or oats, owing to the fact that the suffering from Rheumatism already would make a small army. Victims of Rheumatism are perhaps the greatest proportion of the afflicted in this Pacific coast district. Blood and skin diseases are reached by Sulphurro with wonderful celerity, because it is the one remedy which goes right to the root of the evil. The poisons and impurities must be driven out of the blood before it is possible to effect a cure of either blood or skin diseases—in fact, the greatest number of diseases to which the flesh is heir have their origin in blood impurity. For that reason Sulphurro is effecting a cure in virtually every case where it is taken according to directions, and it given an opportunity to do its work.

Sulphurro Cures San Franciscans

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., April 20, 1912.

C. M. C. Stewart Sulphur Co.

Seattle, Wash.

Dear Sirs:

It is with a feeling of great indebtedness that I write a few lines in praise of your wonderful Sulphurro.

I was three months in a hospital with inflammatory and muscular rheumatism and left to keep from starving, and was but a very little better in health.

I used everything known to doctors and druggists but was never greatly benefited.

I saw your advertisement in the paper and decided to try it. After the first five days the swelling left me and the pains were less painful. At the end of ten days they were all gone and I never felt any more of them to this day.

My wife suffered from stomach trouble and I told her to try Sulphurro and she did and is now nearly over all her trouble and I believe in another week she will be entirely cured.

We cannot say too much in praise of your wonderful medicine. We have told a good many friends of its power and they are also using it now.

We can truthfully recommend it to all sufferers of stomach trouble and rheumatism, and invite them to call on us personally to satisfy themselves as to our statements.

Wishing you success in the future as in the past we beg to remain

Yours indebtedly,

MR. AND MRS. S. L. THOMPSON,

Apartment No. 24, No. 2282 Mission St., San Francisco, Cal.

Sulphurro Brings Joy and Health.

Solids, diabetes, tumors, neuritis, neurasthenia, eczema and the like have yielded in cases too numerous to mention. Sulphurro has introduced joy and health into more homes in the last year than any other known agent in this part of the world.

Prominent men and women in every city on the Pacific coast are using Sulphurro. They find it produces youthfulness and optimism, for it restores them to perfect health. One of the best known wholesale merchants in the Northwest declares he is doing all he can to promote the use of Sulphurro among his friends and acquaintances, because it wrought such a marvelous cure of neuritis for him. He had been a severe sufferer from this affliction of the nerves for some time, but it vanished quickly when it came in contact with Sulphurro. This man's name can be obtained by any one desiring to talk with him at the offices of the C. M. C. Sulphur Co., Seattle.

The publicity given Sulphurro by the newspapers has been so conservative, so convincing, that thousands and thousands of persons have learned to their great relief of the powers of the new medicine. Not a letter is printed but what the original is open for inspection, and not a statement regarding the merits of Sulphurro is made but what proof is behind every word.

Sulphurro is becoming more and more a necessity in every household. THE C. M. C. STEWART SULPHUR COMPANY, 71 Columbia Street, SEATTLE, WASH.

STEAMER FROM HAMBURG REACHES SAN PEDRO

SAN PEDRO, April 27.—The German steamer Aboukir arrived this afternoon, completing a voyage of 97 days from Hamburg. She brought a number of passengers from Germany and Mexican ports and 400 tons of merchandise for this port. She is scheduled to depart Monday for San Francisco.

TAFT FAVORITE IN MASSACHUSETTS CONTEST

President Has Most Prominent Men in State Backing His Candidacy.

POLITICAL EYES ARE CENTERED ON PRIMARY

Thought That the Result Will Forecast the Action at the Chicago Convention.

BOSTON, Mass., April 27.—The political eyes of the country are now centered upon Massachusetts, where, for the first time in the history of the state, a presidential primary will be held Tuesday, April 30. Besides expressing their preference for the president the voters of each party will elect eight delegates-at-large to the national conventions and twenty-eight delegates. A like number of alternates will also be elected.

The result of the primary and election, in the opinion of political leaders, will be crucial to the candidates' campaigns of President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt. It is confidently stated in political circles that the Massachusetts vote will forecast the vote of the Republican national convention at Chicago. If the old Bay State, which for so many years has been a conservative Republican stronghold, goes against Taft, it is believed that the president's candidacy will be dealt a blow from which it will not recover. On the other hand, if the state goes for Taft by a decisive vote, it will have a very important effect in the president's favor.

BOTH CLAIM VICTORY.

Both sides are making claims of victory, but the Taft men appear more confident. They claim that they will have practically all of the delegates and do not concede a single district to Roosevelt.

The primary is but advisory and delegates are running pledged to the various candidates. The names of five candidates for president appear on the ballots in the order named:

Republicans—Robert M. La Follette, Theodore Roosevelt, William H. Taft.

Democrats—Champ Clark, Woodrow Wilson.

Roosevelt and Taft delegate-at-large states are in the field. Candidates for district delegates pledged to Roosevelt are running in every district with the exception of the First. The Taft delegate-at-large state is headed by United States Senator V. Murray Crane, the leader of the State organization. Former Governor John L. Bates is second on the list. Governor John D. Long heads the Taft alternate-at-large state.

TAFT MEN PROMINENT.

The Roosevelt delegate-at-large state is headed by Charles S. Baxter, an ex-mayor of the city of Medford, and a prominent lawyer here. Ex-Senator Frank C. Sargent of Boston is the only independent candidate for delegate-at-large in the field on the Republican side. He is pledged to Taft.

The men on the Taft tickets are by far more prominent than the Roosevelt candidates.

All candidates will be voted upon individually, under a decision of the State Ballot Law Commission. This, it is believed, may help Taft. The delegate and alternate-at-large states will appear in group form upon the ballot.

The Roosevelt people have been making a strenuous campaign here for their candidate. The Colonel has paid several visits to the state since he threw his hat in the ring. The campaign in his behalf is being conducted by the younger and so-called progressive element in the party. Very few of the big Republican leaders of the state are allied with it.

RALLIES ARE HELD.

The activity of the Roosevelt men, however, has not been what frightened the Taft people. This was indicated by the arrival of several of the Massachusetts Congressmen from Washington to assist in the campaign. Rallies for both candidates are being held in nearly every large municipality in the commonwealth.

Although La Follette's name will appear on the ballot, no concerted or organized campaign is being made for him and his vote is expected to be small.

On the Democratic side the contest between Clark and Wilson is believed to be a close one. Active campaigns are being conducted for each candidate. The Democratic organization leaders, however, are in a great majority for Clark and it is believed that he will carry the primary.

SITUATION IS COMPLICATED.

The situation is somewhat complicated. Although Clark and Wilson are the only two Democratic candidates whose names appear on the ballot, most of the candidates in the field are delegates-at-large and district delegates are running pledged to Governor Foss. Those who are not pledged to Foss are running as pledged to support the preference of the Democratic voters as expressed in the primary.

Former Congressman George Fred Williams of Dedham and Congressman James M. Curley of Boston are leading the fight for Clark. The former is running as an independent candidate for delegate-at-large. The Wilson campaign is in charge of ex-Congressman William S. McNary, former Mayor Josiah Quincy of Boston, and Robert Treat Paine, former Democratic candidate for governor.

A full slate of candidates for delegates-at-large is in the field, selected by the Democratic state convention and pledged to support Governor Foss. There are eight independent candidates in the field. Of these, three are pledged to Governor Foss and the others to carry out the will of the Democratic voters.

The church dates its history from April 25, 1847, when the first sermon was preached in an adobe building opposite Portsmouth square. After worshiping in tents and hovels, the organization took on new life and became effective under William Taylor, afterward Bishop Taylor, and secured a site in Powell street, the dedication taking place October 8, 1848.

Anniversary services will be held in the morning at 11 o'clock, and in the evening at 7:45 o'clock. Both services will be addressed by Dr. Thomas Filbin, a former pastor, who will touch upon the history of the church, which he is probably more familiar than any other living person. There will also be special music at both services.

BLIND WOOLERS OF MUSE BOTH NOBLENARIANS

MISS FANNIE CROSBY.

JERSEY CITY, April 27.—Two blind poets met the other day in Jersey City. They have been friends for a number of years. One was Fannie Crosby, who has just celebrated her ninety-second birthday, and the other was Alice Holmes, who is 91 years of age.

Miss Crosby has gained fame by writing many well known hymns, and Miss Holmes is known as "The Blind Poetess of New Jersey." She enjoys excellent health, and has always been of a happy disposition, so old age shows light in her eyes. She lives in Bridgeport, Connecticut.

LIFE PROTECTION IS INCREASED ON FERRIES

RICHMOND, April 27.—The Santa Fe ferry steamers San Pablo, San Pedro and Ocean Wave, plying between this city and San Francisco in connection with the train service of that company, have just been equipped with an additional number of life preservers to make absolutely certain that there will be plenty for every passenger carried. The action of the company was made at the suggestion of the superintendent of the United States government to insure protection to bay travelers. The local ferry steamers will also be equipped with gang planks for use in case of accident in transferring passengers from a disabled boat to other vessels responding to appeals for help. Similar action has been taken by the Southern Pacific, Key Route, Western Pacific and Northwestern Pacific Companies.

CLIMBS TREE IN PARK TO PLUCK COCONUTS

PORTLAND, April 27.—Imitating an ape, when he insisted that he was, William Biff was arrested at Park and Davis streets by Patrolman Grism as he started to climb a tree in the park block. When Grism approached, Biff started to make a fast ascent.

"He come down there," yelled Grism, making a leap in the air and grasping Biff's coat.

"Don't bother me," said Biff, "I'm an ape. I've got to climb this tree and get that coconut for breakfast."

"It's not that kind of a tree," said Grism.

Biff then gave his name and explained that he was "some lighter when right."

While his hearing was set before Judge Eastwell, Biff was sleeping away the effects of an absolute and whisky repeat.

NEW FERRY SERVICE COMMENCES MONDAY

RICHMOND, April 27.—Captain H. P. Lauretzen, who recently formed the Richmond Navigation and Improvement Company, for the purpose of instituting a freight ferry service between this city and San Francisco, announced this evening that the first trip of his ferry will be made Monday and from that time on daily trips will be made. The work of completing landing places, wharf and warehouses at the head of Cutting canal has been completed. The service will be commenced by the steamer-wheel steamer Governor. The San Francisco landing place will be at the Folsom-street dock.

The Democratic voters as expressed in the primary.

Former Congressman George Fred Williams of Dedham and Congressman James M. Curley of Boston are leading the fight for Clark. The former is running as an independent candidate for delegate-at-large. The Wilson campaign is in charge of ex-Congressman William S. McNary, former Mayor Josiah Quincy of Boston, and Robert Treat Paine, former Democratic candidate for governor.

A full slate of candidates for delegates-at-large is in the field, selected by the Democratic state convention and pledged to support Governor Foss. There are eight independent candidates in the field. Of these, three are pledged to Governor Foss and the others to carry out the will of the Democratic voters.

CHURCH WILL OBSERVE SIXTY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The congregation of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Clay and Larkin streets, will celebrate the sixty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the church and of the city of California tomorrow. First Church possesses a history which is of more than ordinary interest, not only to Methodists, but to all who are concerned with the struggles of the Christian church, and California Protestantism.

The church dates its history from April 25, 1847, when the first sermon was preached in an adobe building opposite Portsmouth square. After worshiping in tents and hovels, the organization took on new life and became effective under William Taylor, afterward Bishop Taylor, and secured a site in Powell street, the dedication taking place October 8, 1848.

Anniversary services will be held in the morning at 11 o'clock, and in the evening at 7:45 o'clock. Both services will be addressed by Dr. Thomas Filbin, a former pastor, who will touch upon the history of the church, which he is probably more familiar than any other living person. There will also be special music at both services.

SPORTSMEN WILL HOLD BIG OUTING

California Game Protection Association to Assemble Today.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The California Sportsmen's Game Protection Association will hold its annual outing tomorrow at Princeton-by-the-Sea, on the Ocean Shore railroad.

The members of the club and their friends will devote the day to the enjoyment of the delightful ride down the coast, the splendid beach and the natural beauty of the surrounding country. Parties are being made up for lunch rides and fishing. There will be dancing, music to be furnished by the association's band, and an elaborate luncheon will be served at Princeton's.

"EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL."

The association was organized September 28, 1910, in the interest of the protection of fish and game and for the promotion of good-fellowship amongst sportsmen in general. Its motto is "Equal rights to all; special privileges to none."

Its objects are to conserve the fish, game and song birds; to secure the passage and execution of fair and uniform laws for their protection; to labor in the destruction of predatory animals and birds; to promote the opportunities of boys and providers of the home landers to enjoy the forest, fens and streams, and to secure an occasional game report for their homes; to cultivate a high ideal of sportsmanship throughout the state.

a spirit that will not kill wantonly, will not intentionally violate the fish and game laws and will neither destroy nor injure game, except in the enjoyment of outdoor life.

CHANGES IN LAWS.

During the last session of the legislature this organization was successful in having some important changes made in the game laws, among them being the protection of the cottontail and brush rabbit, placing an open and closed season thereon, and a closed season of one year on fall and thereafter only one month's open season, viz, November, when all the young birds are full grown.

One of the beliefs of the association is that a marsh game preserve, a mountain game preserve and a stream fish preserve should be established within 100 miles of San Francisco for the use of boy hunters and anglers under the age of 14 years. The three preserves to be placed under the direction of the State Fish and Game Commission.

RECEIVES MONEY THAT WAS TAKEN YEARS AGO

PEABODY, Nant., April 27.—J. Berna, a cattleman here, yesterday received a conscience letter containing a twenty dollar bill. The letter was postmarked Noblesville, Ind., and was addressed to Berna at Hanover, Kan., where he was in business twenty years ago. The letter read: "Just buried this once when you 'want lookin'; feel better now." Berna thinks the sender took the money from his store in Hanover.

GRAND BARBECUE.

MELROSE, April 27.—The Anneson District Social Club will hold a grand barbecue here tomorrow at Arthur's Gardens, East Fourteenth street and Forty-fifth avenue. From present indications a large attendance is expected. The arrangements and publicity committees have taken pains to assure the success of the undertaking.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED BY BYRON ODD FELLOWS

BYRON, April 27.—Members of the Odd Fellows here celebrated the ninety-first anniversary of Odd Fellowship here yesterday. The Byron lodge was visited in the celebration by the Florence Lodge at Rehoboth.

A picnic at the Stone house, on Marsh creek, occupied the day, while in the evening a ball was given in Odd Fellows' hall. Features of the day celebration were a barbecue, games and sundry amusements. The ball at night was well attended.

The Oakland band furnished music during the day and Mersbach's orchestra at night.

GIRL OF TEN IS HOUSE MANAGER

Child Cares for Sick Mother and Four Small Children.

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—In a small but cleanly kept little shack on Gallardo street, near Brooklyn avenue, the busiest little "mother" in Los Angeles has been discovered. Besides looking after a sick mother, she does housework, washing, cooking and cares for four small children not many years younger than herself. This little mother is Julia Villarreal, 10 years old, daughter of Mrs. F. Villarreal. The discovery of little Julia's genius as a "housewife" was made a few days ago by a worker of the Associated Charities, on her rounds in the poor settlements. Mrs. Villarreal is a widowed Mexican woman and since the death of her husband has been almost confined to her bed. When the mother was taken ill the burden of caring for the poverty stricken family fell upon the shoulders of little Julia, who, although handicapped by years, is nevertheless experienced and capable in domestic science. On the scanty food supply given them by outsiders the little family has thrived for weeks. Although facing such grave circumstances, Julia manages the family like an experienced mother. Every morning she washes and dresses Eleanor, 8 years, next oldest to herself, and sends her to school. In the morning she washes and dresses Carolina, 4 years, and Charlie, 2 years, and sends them both out in the yard to play. Adolph, 6 months old, needs care that the others and consequently the sick mother rests in the care of the infant. Julia can cook, too.

"THE PEOPLE'S PROBLEMS."
SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Tomorrow evening at the 8 o'clock service the Rev. Charles N. Lathrop will give the second of his series of sermons on "The People's Problems" in the Church of the Advocate, 281 Fell street, between Franklin and Gough. The subject of this address is "The Church and Socialism." The other services in the church will be as usual.—Mass, 8 a. m.; school, 10 a. m.; sung mass and sermon, 11 a. m.

DANGERS OF FAT

HOW FAT AFFECTS THE LUNGS
How many people suffering from excess of fat can expand their lungs to fullest extent—giving to their bodies an abundance of fresh air? The short, panting breath of obesity makes the heart work faster, sending the blood through veins and arteries at double pressure, giving no time for proper nourishment of the body. And all because the lungs are crowded with walls of fat that prevent smooth, easy breathing. How much better to dissolve the fat, and allow the system to produce compact muscle. This is accomplished surely and harmlessly through Marmola Prescription Tablets. These convenient little tablets are the condensed form of that famous Marmola Prescription, which for years has proved so harmless and effective in reducing fat people to slenderness. The steady, even reduction is accomplished, without dieting or exercise, allowing you to live as you like, eat what you like and still lose 10 to 16 oz. a day. Marmola Prescription Tablets are for sale by all druggists or the Marmola Co., 229 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., at 75c. for a large case. If getting too fat for comfort, buy a case today.

BREATHE DEEP AND MAKE RED BLOOD FLOW THROUGH VEINS, ADVISES HEALTH EXPERT

Plenty of Fresh Air Is Best Way to Perfect Condition

PROFESSOR G. H. PFUND, SUPERINTENDENT OF PHYSICAL CULTURE IN THE OAKLAND SCHOOL DEPARTMENT.

The following article by G. H. Pfund, superintendent of physical culture, entitled "Breathing for Life in the Oakland Public School," and his letter to Superintendent of Schools J. W. McClymonds, are of much public interest:

By G. H. Pfund, Superintendent of Physical Culture.
Into the walls of thousands of millions of lung cells a stream of dark, poisoned fluid is striving to unload its poison.
The oxygen from the air we breathe penetrates the delicate walls of those living cells and changes that foul current of blood into a rich red tissue-building stream; but if only a small percentage of our lungs is used, then old, dead air and poisoned blood will remain in the lungs and this unchanged blood will again circulate and clog or otherwise debilitate the system.

ORDINARY BREATHING.
There is a possibility to exchange 3 1/2 quarts of air each breath in normal lungs; but when in a sitting position and breathing naturally only half a quart, or one-seventh of this amount, is exchanged. Six-sevenths of foul, dead air remaining in the lungs—six-sevenths dark, poisoned blood is again and again sent through the system.
We breathe in a sitting position about fifteen times a minute at a half-quart each, which is equal to 7 1/2 quarts per minute or 900 times an hour at one-half quart each, which is equal to 450 quarts of air per hour.

DEEP BREATHING.
Now let us compare with deep breathing. As above stated, with deep inhalation and full exhalation, there is a possibility of exchanging 3 1/2 quarts of air. Taking again fifteen breaths a minute at 3 1/2 quarts each would be equal to 52 1/2 quarts per minute, or 900 breaths per hour at 3 1/2 quarts each would be equal to 3150 quarts per hour.

The above comparison shows clearly the value of voluntary deep breathing and play. A boy or girl who never plays is probably getting the oxygen from 450 quarts of air, while the one indulging in outdoor play is getting the benefit of nearly 10,000 quarts of air per hour.

CIRCULATION.
The entire circulation of the blood, of which the normal body contains about ten pounds, from the moment it is pumped out from the heart and returns to the heart, is supposed to take a little over 20 seconds, or, in other words, the blood circulates 180 times an hour.

Considering that ordinarily only one quart of air is exchanged, it means that any person never taking any deep breathing is guilty of sending about five-sevenths of the total amount of blood in a poisonous condition 180 times an hour through his whole system.

"Breath is life. Without breath there is no life. Half-way breathing is half-way living."
Breathing exercises, as part of the physical education in the Oakland public schools, is considered the most important of all functions of the body, for, indeed, all other functions depend upon it.

The percentage of civilized men who breathe correctly is small. Too little or no attention is given to this important exercise in modern school curricula. The results are plainly seen in contracted chests and stooping shoulders, and the terrible increase of diseases of the respiratory organs in our present generation, including the dreaded monster, consumption—the white plague.

BEST TIME FOR PREVENTION.
As such diseases are much easier to prevent than to cure, and school age, the real formative period, is the best time to impress upon the minds and the best time to lay a good foundation for future health, we feel it our duty to give the Oakland children a good dose of prevention.

Eminent authorities have stated that one generation of correct breathers would regenerate the race and disease would be looked upon as a curiosity.
The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, in a report two years ago, stated that 1,000,000 children in the United States would probably die of consumption before they will have reached their eighteenth year. Physical exercises, swimming and especially breathing, to be taught and regularly practiced in every school, is highly recommended in this report.

Breathing exercises are carried on in the Oakland school department from the very first year a child begins school work. It is carried on more extensively in the grammar grades, as this is the most important period in human growth. It is the period of rapid growth, physically and mentally. The children are given lectures on the necessity and value of deep breathing.

Each individual is given a report card in which the official height measurements are recorded. This card is taken home for the parents to sign, with a request to insist that their children take daily breathing exercises, thus co-operating with the department in the prevention of lung disease.

CHILDREN TAUGHT AT HOME.
The pupils themselves are encouraged to carry on at home all exercises taught at school, thus forming good hygienic habits. In this matter an official record of each pupil's chest expansion is taken every term by the physical director.
Each individual is given a report card in which the official height measurements are recorded. This card is taken home for the parents to sign, with a request to insist that their children take daily breathing exercises, thus co-operating with the department in the prevention of lung disease.

For weak breathing means weak lungs, weak circulation, weak digestion, poor and sallow skin, bad nerves and bad blood, poor attention, poor attendance and poor results at school.

When pupils arrive in the graduating class continuous lines of official breathing records are seen on these report cards, and the children and their parents as well, may see what can be done or left undone in their term formative period.
At the end of each term, when these official records are taken, the average chest expansion of the official boys' section is figured separately in each class and made competitive. Then the average of the whole grade is taken and made competitive with the same grades of all other schools.

Finally, the average expansion of the grammar grade pupils is figured out and a comparison made between the schools.

There are about 60 per cent of the grammar grade pupils of this city which have made a habit of taking voluntary deep breathing exercises.
Four years ago (1908), when this work was first started in its present form, a chest expansion of 4 inches was looked upon as the ideal.

In June, 1911, out of 6000 grammar grade children, 1011 reached the 5-inch mark—the expansion of the so-called perfect girl.
In December, 1911, this number increased to 1727 pupils, a remarkable increase.

AIMS OF EXERCISES.
The system of deep breathing exercises prescribed by the department of physical education has the following aims:
First—Strengthening of the lung muscles proper, the diaphragm and the intercostal muscles.
Second—Strengthening of the muscles that are helping in the breathing process. (Muscles leading down from the neck, shoulders, arms, chest, loins.)
Third—Increasing the elasticity of the lungs and chest.
Fourth—Equal development of all parts of the lungs.
Fifth—Enlarging of the chest cavity and permanent increase of breathing capacity of the lungs.
Sixth—Deepening of the ordinary breathing.
Seventh—Increasing the circulation and purification of the blood.

The aim of this department is three-fold:

Improvement of functional activity of the body, especially the functions of the lungs and heart.
Breathing exercises—Prevention and correction of tendencies to abnormal development, especially those resulting from "sedentary attitude during school life."

Orthopedic exercises—Development of the body into a harmonious whole, under perfect control of the will. It is not to produce great bulk of muscles (professional athletes), but to cause that already present to respond readily to volition.
All other prescribed exercises work toward improvement of the function of the lungs.

Under the head of breathing exercises in the Oakland public school, I lay before you a separate four years' report.
All grammar grade children are kept up the work in breathing throughout the year. At the end of each term the physical director is taking the chest expansion record of 6000 grammar grade pupils. These records are put down on a breathing report card, which is then taken home by the pupil for the parents to sign. This card contains a printed request to the parents to induce their children to make a habit of taking daily breathing exercises, and co-operate with this department in the prevention of lung diseases.

The average chest expansion of the combined fifth grades in February, 1908, was 2.55 inches. Since then, up to December, 1911, most of the same children gradually have been promoted to the high eighth grades, as the heavy stair-like lines on the separate report will show. These records show that the average of 4.83 inches, which is an increase of 90 per cent breathing power during the grammar grade period.

Standard chest expansion—The standard chest expansion of all grammar grades combined was: 2.87 inches in February, 1908, and reached 4.48 inches in December, 1911, which is an increase of 56 per cent in a four years' period.

Along with deep breathing exercises—The system of deep breathing exercises prescribed by this department has the following physiological aims:
Strengthening of the lung muscles proper, the diaphragm and the intercostal muscles.
Strengthening of the muscles that are helping in the breathing process. (Muscles leading down from the neck, shoulders, arms, chest, loins.)
Increasing the elasticity of the lungs and chest.

Equal development of all parts of the lungs.
Enlarging of the chest cavity and permanent increase of the breathing capacity of the lungs.
Increasing of the circulation and purification of the blood.
Work toward erect postures—Children, on account of hereditary tendency, general weakness, rapid growth, malnutrition, poverty, blood, scrofula, or other protracted illness, are particularly inclined to spinal troubles.

The most common trouble among children is the "kyphotic back," or "humped back," in which the posterior curvature of the spine with the corresponding depression of the chest wall.
So much has this condition been, and is still being, neglected in most of the schools in this country that we have come to believe that a stoop back is physiologically normal. See about town and convince yourself of the truth of this fact.

The first conditions mentioned in connection with bending over the desks while writing, drawing, reading, etc., will undoubtedly produce a posterior curvature of the spine (kyphosis), and if the body is allowed to stay in the seat at the same time, a lateral curvature of the spine (scoliosis) will surely result in time.
In order to ascertain and to prove such faulty postures in the desks while performing written work, the physical director thereupon made an examination of postures of all the children (14,000) in the school department. The records of each child individually, as well as of the class collectively, is kept by the teacher, who is instructed to especially watch and to help the stooping ones.

EXAMINATION OF POSTURES.
The nature of the postures on the photographs thus obtained showed the necessity of some action. The physical director thereupon made an examination of postures of all the children (14,000) in the school department. The records of each child individually, as well as of the class collectively, is kept by the teacher, who is instructed to especially watch and to help the stooping ones.

In order to create the sense of being and getting straight several outlines of back and chest of the physiologically best-looking pupils were drawn on the blackboard and afterwards the outlines of the most stooped ones, as a contrast.

These comparative outlines seemed to have a very strong impression upon the children's minds.

The report here below shows the per cent of children whose back (and chest) were within the physiological curve last term:

FAIR TERM, 1911.

Physiologically normal in per cent: Grades—R, 74; B first, 52; second, 71; third, 78; fourth, 75; fifth, 73; sixth, 82; seventh, 85; eighth, 75; average, 78.

Eminent physicians working along these lines have declared that the physique of a child changes to the worse from the moment the child commences school work.

The above figures show the opposite fact being true up to the fourth grades in our schools, but becomes a fact in the grammar grades.

In order to follow up the work commenced, a second examination on postures was made this term in half of the schools. Following is the result:

SPRING TERM, 1912.

Physiologically normal in per cent: Grades—R, 74; B first, 52; second, 71; third, 82; fourth, 81; fifth, 77; sixth, 74; seventh, 72; eighth, 78; average, 78.

These records show an average improvement of 10 per cent in one term. Comparing the figures of both examinations, we notice that in a general way the number of physiologically normal children increases from the first to the fourth grades and decreases from the fifth to the eighth grades.

We may readily account for this decrease by comparing the amount of written work in the desks prescribed for the primary and grammar grades. Again, these figures become interesting if we compare the grades where no written work is done on the desks with the ones where such work begins.

is readily omitted in these grades. The result of the two examinations on postures will clearly prove this fact.

Third—That open-air gymnastics be erected on all new and old school grounds.

Fourth—That swimming tanks be constructed for the use of the schools, so that swimming instruction may be given.

In conclusion, I will report that by a general inquiry in the classes I find that: 80 per cent reported reading at home, exercised at school, 15 per cent reported taking a cold sponge off in the morning; 77 per cent reported sleeping with open windows; this also included porch sleepers. Respectfully,

G. H. PFUND,

Superintendent physical culture.

IN NEW YORK'S HISTORY

"California Suffrage Special" to Carry Advocates
From West.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Those in charge of the great suffrage parade, scheduled for a week from today, May 4, predicted this afternoon that all past performances of the equal rights advocates will be surpassed and that the coming pageant will do down in history as the most spectacular and forceful demonstration ever staged by suffragettes. At the local headquarters of the Woman's Political Union, under whose auspices the regiment of women will assemble, rumors of the parade's immensity are confirmed by the unprecedented preparations already made and by the enthusiasm with which women throughout the United States have come to the support of their Eastern sisters.

There are to be colored suffragettes, Chinese suffragettes, suffragettes astride horses, suffragettes carrying banners, a suffragette file and drum corps, beside the thousands that will trudge the New York streets or ride the magnificently decorated floats emblazoned with pleas for "votes for women." In addition to these features a "California Suffrage Special," picking up hundreds of ardent Western advocates of the "cause" will arrive in the Grand Central depot on Saturday morning, bringing perhaps a thousand more sisters to swell the line of paraders. It is estimated that 15,000 women will be in line.

For weeks the women in charge of the coming parade have been busy perfecting the details and organizing corps of women to march. Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Mrs. Arthur Townsend, Miss Eleanor Brannon, Miss Inez Milholland, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and other known names from ocean to ocean for their activity in suffrage circles, have lent their personal and financial aid to the project. Prominent business men have been importuned for aid and donations of dodgers have been distributed by tallyhoes filled with suffragettes, which are daily to be seen in the city streets.

ADOPT SUFFRAGE HAT.
The question of uniforming the paraders has been disposed of by the adoption of a "suffrage hat" of butternut-colored straw, which will be sold to the parading suffragettes at 28 cents each. These hats will be of pale gold chipped straw, trimmed with black satin, and those indulging in spring millinery at the low price quoted are requested to give a written pledge that they will attend the parade. The profit on this headgear will be turned over to the organization for the dissemination of suffrage propaganda.

Plans for the parade, which have been under advisement since last August, are now practically complete. The procession will start from Washington Square and proceed up Fifth avenue and across Fifty-seventh street to Carnegie hall, where a great suffrage mass meeting will be held. The procession will be headed by a cavalcade of women on horseback (riding astride, of course). These riders will be followed by the Woman's Political Union squad with Miss Eleanor Brannon and Miss Caroline Luxon taking turns at the arduous honor of carrying the union's magnificent banner.

There will follow different groups, according to their occupations or to the society they represent. A large number of actresses hope to march, their professional duties permitting. Among these are Ethel Barrymore, Constance Collier, Olive Thorne Miller, Gertrude Elliott, Mary Shaw, Louise Glosser Hale, Elizabeth Valentine and Mrs. Thomas Whiffen.

CHARIOTS FOR AGED.
Beside the men who will be chariots for suffragettes too old to walk. Among these is the Rev. Antonette Brown Blackwell, one of the most venerable of equal rights advocates, who will occupy a flower decorated chariot drawn by a pair of white animals. Mrs. Blackwell has been a suffragette since 1848.

To make a suitable background for the gorgeous decorations each member of the parade has been requested to wear white.

The brigade of Chinese women will be headed by Miss Myrtle Jim, while the colored aggregation will be under the command of some prominent negroes fighting for the vote.

The out-of-town enlistments in the pageant are showing up particularly strong, women from the South and North signifying their intention of contributing to the great event, in addition to those from the West.

A squad of automobiles, filled with suffragettes from Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Jersey, Maine, New York state, Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania will be in the line of marchers. Most of these women will make the trip to New York in their own machines.

TWENTY-FIVE FOOT SHARK IS CAPTURED
LOS ANGELES, April 27.—A twenty-five foot shark, a shark 25 feet in length, of the man-eating species, and said to weigh approximately three tons, was landed at Newport beach. The capture is credited to J. H. Robertson, proprietor of the Newport Beach Hotel.

After the shark became entangled in the nets and the commotion it caused had attracted the attention of Japanese fishermen, it was pulled into shallow water. After being killed it was landed with the aid of ladders and will be put on exhibition.

Southern California waters have been free from sharks of the man-eating type. The Newport beach capture probably will make surf bathing unpopular for awhile.

The H. C. Capwell Company offers its congratulations and good wishes to the Raisin Growers of California on the approaching third anniversary of "Raisin Day," and urges all loyal Californians to buy raisins from dealers—somewhere and anywhere—but BUY RAISINS—and make this the most memorable celebration of them all.

Reunion of Club SHOWS FAST THINNING RANKS OF FOLLY

AN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Robert Marion La Follette is in our midst, and we have had a taste of his quality. It is easy to get his dominant characteristic. He is a fighter. He glories in his fighting qualities—glories in his physical prowess. He wants men to feel his muscle. He insists he is as good a man, physically and mentally, as he was twenty or even thirty years ago.

And he loves to talk of his battles. He is as full of his tale of adventure as was Othello. He delights in boasting of the way he has gone up against the hard fighting and kept at it until he won.

I should call him the Alan Breck of politics. You remember in "Kidnaped" where, after the glorious fight in the cabin, the cocky little Scot dances out and says to David Balfour:

"Ah, Davy, Davy, mon—an' am I no' a bonnie fighter?"

Well, that describes "Battle Bob" in a few words.

Roosevelt, Imperator et Rex

One of the highest of church dignitaries is said to be responsible for the following story on Colonel Roosevelt—a story that is now going the rounds of the clubs and hotel lobbies.

On one occasion the gatekeeper in Paradise approached the throne of grace and said to the Supreme Ruler:

"Lord, I have to report that George Washington is at the gate."

"Show him in, and seat him on my right hand."

A generation elapsed and again the gatekeeper approached the august Presence to say:

"Lord, Abraham Lincoln is at the gate."

"Show him in, and seat him on my left hand."

And again a generation passed, when suddenly there was a furious noise at the gate that filled all the universe. In alarm the gatekeeper approached the throne and hurriedly exclaimed:

"Everybody run. It's Theodore Roosevelt, and he says he's going to be king here or know the reason why!"

Out of the Merry Past

There is something of a flurry in clubdom over the announcement that "The Roseleaves" are going to have a twentieth anniversary. At once the mind goes back to the days of one of the merriest mad-cap organizations ever known in the city's lighter life.

Charles Rollo Peters, the now famous artist, was the inspiring genius of the frolic, and he gathered about him men who were given to having a good time and laughing cynically at cares and conventions. Some of them are care-full and conventional enough now.

The "Roseleaves" took their name from the then popular South-of-Market outing organizations which always had a fancy designation if nothing else. So in merry imitation, Peters called his coterie "The Roseleaf Social Club." This name grew with various projects and adventures until it was "The Roseleaf Social, Outing, Rescue, Gun, Grub and Guzzle Club." And it played such pranks in the face of high heaven as to make the angels laugh.

There was always a Sunday yachting cruise, and the woes of Commodore Harrison, who leased his yacht to these social buccaners, used to make lively reading in the newspapers of that day. Hardly a week passed that some new folly was not attributed to these rollicking, singing, laughing fellows, many of whom were men of singular genius, and some of whom closely approached greatness.

The constitution of the club was "What are you going to take?" and the appropriate by-laws, "I'll take the same." And so they went about, making rhymes, jesting and singing, making the figs at woe and gloom.

The Thinning Ranks of Folly

And now, when getting ready for a twentieth anniversary it is found that nearly half the jovial crew are dead. Many others have earned fortune and distinction. Few of them would dare attempt those tricky jests of yesterday.

Here is the roll of those that have gone to sail and sing on the farther seas:

Daniel O'Connell, the poet; Denis O'Sullivan, the singer; Frederick W. Zeile, banker; Alfred Bouvier, manager of the Baldwin Theater; Northrup W. Cowles, who recently died in Philadelphia; George E. Hall, still more recently dead on the west coast of South America; George Nagle, famous humorist; Everett B. Pomeroy, former United States Attorney for Arizona; Charles A. Garter, United States

THE KNAVE

Attorney for the Northern District of California; Charles Hugg, Augustus Casserley, Covington Johnson, George Carroll, Doctor Leopold Newman, Harry L. Coleman, Robert R. Grayson, all well-known men-about-town; Theodore and Warren Payne, capitalists; John Lathrop, who became managing editor of the Philadelphia North American, and Thomas Francis Meagher, son of the famous general of that name.

They Continue to Laugh and Live

Among the survivors are some who have grown very rich, like William H. Crocker, Joseph D. Grant, James D. Phelan, Alexander Hamilton, Francis J. Carolan and Louis Sloss. Edward W. Townsend won literary fame with his "Chimmie Fadden," and is now a Congressman from a New Jersey district. Charles Rollo Peters has a wide fame as an artist—"the painter of moonlight." J. Downey Harvey has had financial reverses, but keeps a cheery nature with it all. Charles Lee Leonard can still make the banjo talk. Donald de V. Graham, the tenor, is now a curio dealer in Florence, Italy.

Joseph D. Redding and R. Porter Ashe are among the most successful of our attorneys. Willis Polk is at the head of the architectural board of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. James M. Hamilton, Lansing and Edgar Mizner, Edward H. Hamilton, Frank L. Unger, Charles G. Yale, C. J. Foster, Harry Durbrow, W. R. Sherwood and J. F. Burgin are still part of the city's business, social or club life. Elmer De Pue is in business in New York and can still warble a tenor note, while Emil Carlsen, the crazy Dane, has become one of the foremost painters of the country, with recognition abroad the world.

Many's the old tale that will have the dust knocked off of it when the survivors get together for their twentieth anniversary, and there may be a tear or two as the old sea-dog songs go round.

In the Matter of Monuments

There is more talk of erecting a monument to Edwin Booth here in San Francisco, where he first played Hamlet, and where he began his career of fame. But I fear it is mostly talk. Years and years ago the Bohemian Club started a fund for a monument to Bret Harle, who turned his back on California and Californians once he got his start—but the fund doesn't grow and the monument seems farther than ever from erection.

But if we are to have a monument to Booth, why not one to Ned Harrigan? He, too, began in San Francisco—began in the humblest fashion. He was a ship caulker, and first won recognition as a historian in the old Bella Union.

And you may remember that before his death he was acclaimed by Howells and other high-browed critics as the typical American playwright. So, if we are to have monuments, why not one to Ned Harrigan as "Old Lavender."

A New Eccentricity of Genius

Louis Lorenz of New York and Paris—an artist of much ability and a Bohemian mode of life—has come to California to do some painting. Some of his fellows of the brush have taken him up to show him the sights and to extend the customary Californian hospitality.

One night this week they took him to Chinatown, and introduced him to a Chinese dinner. Some of the men were fairly efficient with chopsticks, and they watched the efforts of Lorenz to manipulate the elusive ebony sticks. He seemed more awkward than anybody who had ever tried to get chop suey from bowl to mouth, and the laughter was loud and frequent. Suddenly he said:

"I cannot use these sticks. I must try my own."

Then he fished down into a pocket and brought up a pair of beautiful ivory chopsticks. Then, to the amazement of everybody he did more tricks with the sticks than any Chinaman had ever been known to do. Mastery of chopsticks was merely an eccentricity of his genius.

They'll Have to Do Better

The managers of our two high-priced theaters—the $2-a-seat theaters—are apt to complain a good deal about the indifference of San Franciscans to the attractions offered. But they'll have to realize that they are up against very sharp competition.

Take "The Pink Lady," for example. With the No. 2 or No. 3 company sent us it was a very poor show. "Over Night" hasn't the company that $2 seats call for, though it is fairly good.

But when you think that you can see very good shows at the Alcazar for $1 a seat, and that Kolb & Dill at the same price are giving far and away the funniest show San Francisco has seen for many a day for the same price, and that this show has new costumes and bright music by bright people in addition to the comedians, the managers of the "first-class" theaters will have to realize that they are bucking up against a very exacting competition, and that the only things they can expect to "get over" are those that are absolutely first-class.

He's First in the Field

When Dr. Washington Dodge gets home after his fearful experience on the Titanic, he is going into a big position with the Fleischackers, and that is going to leave a vacancy in the office of Assessor. Then there will be a scramble to get the job—a job that Mayor Rolph will give away. The Mayor was so fearful of the rush that he had the papers hold out the news of Dodge's intention to resign for quite a while until he could settle certain things.

Supervisor Oscar Hocks is the first in the field and he is moving things to win that appointment. Of course he will not have the fight all his own way, but he is getting the Germans and the wine men behind him and will bring lots of pull and pressure to bear.

Railroad Commission Meets Troy

The State Railroad Commission called a meeting a week ago of representatives of all interests, to obtain suggestions as to its policy in permitting the issuance of stocks and bonds in public service corporations.

The representatives of the leading public service bodies of the State appeared, and the discussion proceeded in a thoughtful and orderly manner until one E. P. E. Troy burst upon the scene and harangued that body with great verbosity, instructing the commission on its duties, on the meaning of the law, and the desires of the people.

Troy is very positive that his wishes constitute the desires of the people of California.

After enduring the bombardment with politeness and patience for an intolerable length of time, President Eshleman of the board undertook, in a delicate but firm way, to suppress the belligerent orator. It took him nearly twenty minutes. In the meantime, most of the afternoon had been consumed.

This presents a very serious problem to the commission. If all the self-constituted advisers of the public are to thrust themselves into commission hearings whenever any public business is under consideration, little time for actual accomplishment will remain. Besides, the commission sessions will be turned into a "bear garden."

What would happen to the courts of San Francisco if the ordinary trials of cases were suspended to listen to the people who have no other business than that of minding everybody else's business?

The people of the State of California believe that they instituted a great reform in establishing the Railroad Commission, and they hope that its benefits will not be frittered away by the twaddle of a lot of cheap politicians who insist upon trespassing on its good nature.

Percy Long and New Franchise Act

Percy Long has discovered that the new franchise act, passed as a constitutional amendment at the last election, makes it impossible for the municipality to compel Spring Valley to place its pipes in new sections of the city.

As Percy Long was one of the framers and sponsors of the new amendment, this should not have surprised him overgreatly.

Another embarrassment to the people is brought about by a further opinion rendered by the city attorney on the right of gas and electrical companies under this amendment to extend the mains and lines on new streets—that is to say, in places not, at the time the amendment went into effect, occupied by them. Our own Percy advised that these companies had no right to do so without a new franchise for the additional streets.

This would have brought the matter to a very absurd and injurious condition. The gas company would not apply for a new franchise every time a block of buildings was added to the city; the buildings could not be completed without gas and electricity; the city was powerless to compel the gas company to furnish these buildings. Therefore, an impossible situation arose.

However, as far as the gas company was concerned, the situation was met by the municipality ignoring the amendment altogether, temporarily. In the slang of the street, "forget it" was the motto. And a man can still build a new house and get gas and electricity.

The results of this amendment, however, illustrate the dangers of putting measures in the constitutional list to be voted on without proper deliberation in the framing.

It is a demonstrated fact that almost any amendment will pass. Few people read them. It is taken for granted that they are intended to reform some old abuse, and they are voted into law, sometimes with exceedingly injurious results.

Courtney Ford PLAYED ROLE OF EQUESTRIAN MARTYR

Fair Lot and Fillmore Street Tunnel

The Vanderbilt property at Harbor View is likely to prove the "banshee" of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Mrs. Vanderbilt held out for exacting and onerous terms.

Many advisers of the exposition insisted that the property be condemned so that all complications should be removed in the beginning. The directors overruled this suggestion and entered into a very burdensome contract with Mrs. Vanderbilt, whereby they undertook, on behalf of the exposition, among other conditions, to pay all assessments and taxes.

Now comes along the Fillmore street tunnel, which it is proposed to begin at Sutter street and run along a short distance above the bay.

The cost will be enormous, falling on an assessment district and on the twelve blocks of Vanderbilt lease. The tax will be very heavy, and come out of subscription money to the Panama-Pacific. It amounts to in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

This has caused great disturbance of the peace.

The exposition cannot take the position of "blocking" a big public improvement; at least, it will not succeed in preventing the big assessment district, including the Vanderbilt property, being carried. The subscription money of the people will be taken to pay for Mrs. Vanderbilt's permanent improvements and for the enhancement of her property. Not only do the subscribers resent this very bitterly, but the multitude of small holders who signed up with the exposition for their property without the conditions yielded to Mrs. Vanderbilt are going to make a mighty uproar to this favoritism being shown to the absentee landlord.

It would appear that all of these complications might easily have been foreseen by the directors. Whichever way the matter ends, it is bound to bring upon the board an immense volume of unpopularity, and greatly impair its usefulness during the exposition term.

Popper and the Wilson Fight

Poor old Max Popper has been given absolute charge of the Wilson campaign headquarters. This is as it should be.

The wags about town have called the Wilson ticket the "body snatchers" because it has exhumed so many dead men, beginning with Edward Robeson Taylor who, for so long, has acted as the "old man of the sea" with his legs around the neck of the Hastings College of Law.

Some people have said that a dead man could not be "the old man of the sea" with his legs around the neck of anything, but the position of Edward Robeson Taylor is, itself, an answer to this criticism.

Some people might say that the presence of Popper is a matter that concerns Professor Wilson principally.

This is not so, in this State, because Wilson is hopelessly beaten in California, and the services of those engaged in his campaign are now purely mortuary.

But those who remember the old Buckley-Rainey days do not forget Popper. Although now a strident performer, criticizing everything and everybody, the scandal in which he participated with the Crimmins and Kelly administration, with large sums of money to keep alive the Buckley street sweeping contract, requires Popper to assume to be reformed, so politically, he is particularly prudish, like certain ladies who are supposed to have reformed.

Why Max should be "vanked" by anybody into political activities nobody can understand. He is a reservoir of antipathies and animosities, and gossips about everybody who ever did anything, was anything, or is anything, with a pernicious and vicious industry. If he has not lost the capacity to think at all, he would not have any time to do so, as he wants to scold or whimper about somebody all the time.

It was about Popper that Gavin McNab once said that he was the greatest man he knew to conduct a campaign for last year and next year.

The funeral character of the Wilson campaign has caused the suggestion that its headquarters adopt as the campaign song, "John Brown's Body Lies 'Amouldering in the Grave" in order to excite enthusiasm.

The Clark Campaign and Bell

Clark is going to win the California delegation—largely through the mistakes of the Wilson people, but also because many people think that he has occupied the first conspicuous Federal office since

MAX POPPER RESURRECTED AS CAMPAIGN MANAGER

Cleveland's time, held by a Democrat, and has done well.

Theodore Bell is preparing to claim the victory for Clark when the delegation is selected as a personal tribute to himself, but, in fact, he has been a weight upon the Speaker's campaign.

The trouble with Bell has been, although a very clever man and a fine speaker, that he has not been able to keep his nose out of any mess, wherever it appeared, whether a township trouble, a State election or a Federal disturbance. He is regarded by the people of the State also rather in the light of a professional politician, and, rightly or wrongly, a professional politician is increasingly disapproved by the public throughout America.

If Theodore could let something alone sometime or other, suppressing his meddlesome instinct, his capacity as a representative of the voter might increase. He has of late years also become rather quarrelsome, a bad thing for a politician.

Picking Beams Out of People's Eyes

Since the State administration, at the opening of the third term campaign, announced that no people representing the subscriptions of San Francisco citizens to the exposition should be permitted to discuss politics, the five-million-dollar exposition state taxes fund has been tremendously in action.

Really, if Roosevelt carries California it should be claimed as an advantage of abundant taxation because, although conducting campaigns was not named by the Constitution or the State law as the principal purpose of taxation, the people can easily see that that is its present effect.

It is astonishing, however, to see these tax-eaters and pie-biters criticizing every citizen who dare to speak his mind politically.

It is suggested that the State administration might send to Germany for a copy of the act providing punishment for les majesty, so that the non-tax-eating citizen may be properly rebuked for either insinuating or expressing either opposition or disesteem for the tax-eater.

In the meantime—that is, until the May primary—the State of California will somehow have to get along and run itself, because its government is attending strictly to politics. But its government insists that it has the right to pick the political beams out of everybody else's eyes, while it has enough beams in its own optics to constitute a first-class lumber yard.

Another Bank to Arrive

The Chartered Bank of England is making arrangements to open a main office in San Francisco to meet the new conditions under the Panama Canal.

This bank has ramifications throughout the whole world, having developed an enormous foreign exchange business in connection with England's foreign trade. Its managers have made a careful survey of the opportunities on the Pacific Coast and have decided that with the position of San Francisco towards the Orient and with the prospective opening of the Panama Canal, there is a splendid opportunity for this class of business, so it will shortly make itself a permanent institution.

I am told, also, that the International Banking Corporation, which has a very large hold on Oriental exchange, is about to enlarge and strengthen its San Francisco branch.

E. W. Wilson, who was made manager here less than two years ago, has made good to the bank, tripling its deposits and vastly expanding its sphere of influence, so that this big Wall Street institution will probably make the San Francisco department next to its home office in New York the largest part of its business.

Courtney Ford's Rough Ride

E. Courtney Ford, society man, golfer, fine shot, keen out-of-doors man, also an automobile racer, and the companion of Dr. McHenry on his famous record trip to Del Monte, which Eleanor Sears made a try to duplicate, was invited by Captain Arthur Poillon, well-known at the Greenways and society, to accompany the troupe to Yosemite. Other members of the Bohemian Club were invited, but they were not used to the calvary horse and dog trots and tendered their excuses and declined the invitation, but not so with Courtney Ford. He fell for it.

There were a number of shirts of exclusive pattern selected, wonderful riding suits and paraphernalia purchased for the trip and they started off six o'clock Monday morning for the journey. Courtney thought he had a joke on the rest because he anticipated riding one of Captain Poillon's thoroughbreds, which were to accompany the troupe and are exceedingly easy to ride and gaited for the most experienced.

It was necessary to secure the services of the calvary blacksmith on the way and he was not accustomed to shoeing thoroughbreds and he rasped the horses' hoofs to the quick, consequently Captain Poillon's thoroughbreds were crippled and incapacitated for travel. The other calvary horses had been utilized and the only remaining mount for Courtney Ford was old "Ruff and Ready," who has been noted and remembered for his unusual gait. He possesses an unusual method of accentuating the calvary's short trot. Of course it may have been possible for Courtney to eliminate his painful position by rising to the trot as he has been wont to do while riding in the park and abroad, but as he would naturally ride at the head of the troops with his host he would be conscious of the eyes and the smiles of the troopers upon him in his unmilitary seat, and it would be impossible.

The Bohemian Club men are sending messages of condolence and suggestions for his aches and chafes or pains.

Weary Crowd of Sequoias

The Sequoia Club gave a literary dinner a few nights ago. They were to feed the lions and then listen to their roar; but instead the Sequoias did some of the growling among themselves.

Among the guests of honor were to be E. O. McCormick, who was to speak of his recollections of an Oakland poet.

James D. Phelan had a topic ready, and Sam Shortridge was to speak on "My Favorite Book."

Cochran, once editor of the now defunct "Coronado," was the fourth speaker to be. Everything was arranged and all the Sequoias with literary leaning and longings came to the feast of reason and the flow of soul—McCormick didn't; he sent his excuses, having been called away unexpectedly.

James D. Phelan was prevented from being present through family affairs, and Sam Shortridge telephoned that his political promises for the circuit would keep him from the dinner, but he would arrive as soon as he could.

W. Greer Harrison took charge of the dinner and played up Cochran as his last bet. The gentleman's subject was music and poetry as applied to the future life, and he nearly made his subject literally good for his listeners were half dead from fatigue before he had finished the ream of manuscript from which he delivered his thoughts.

Harr Wagner and Allen Dunn were thrown into the breach, but the glooms almost got away with the occasion and most of the saddened literati went home early. Some of the bolder spirits stayed and were rewarded by the arrival of the faithful Shortridge close upon twelve o'clock, who delivered one of his most eloquent speeches upon the subject of "My Favorite Book," in which he briefly traced his own glorious career, touched on woman's suffrage, quoted Shakespeare and the minor poets, and was only stopped in his flow of verbiage when the elevator boy of the Merced building announced that (being neither literary nor a listener) he was going to quit, thus necessitating the guests having to walk down the flights of stairs.

THE KNAVE.

JOHN CURREY ATTACKS RECALL PROCEDURE LAW Is in Violation of Country's Principles, Is Statement of Former Jurist in Article

That the recall provision recently passed by the California legislature is in violation of the fundamental principles of the American government and that it is in violation of the United States constitution are the statements made in an article which recently appeared in the April number of The Lawyer and Banker, a well-known legal magazine.

The article is from the pen of John Currey, formerly a Justice in the California Supreme Court, one of the foremost legal authorities in the state. In the article Currey attacks in a number of points the recall procedure article, and challenges argument. His article is as follows:

THE RECALL PROCEDURE ARTICLE OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA:

CHALLENGE
(By JOHN CURREY, Dixon, California.)

The recall procedure article of the Constitution of the State of California, adopted on the 10th day of October, 1911, is hereby challenged as repugnant to and in conflict with several of the provisions of the Constitution of the United States.

First, in violation of so much of the tenth section of Article I of the Constitution which is as follows: "No State shall... pass any law impairing the obligation of contracts."

Second, in violation of Section 4 of Article IV, of said Constitution which is as follows: "The United States shall guarantee to every state in the Union a republican form of government."

Third, in violation of so much of Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution, which is as follows: "No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Fourth, in violation of so much of the preamble of the Constitution as was declared by the people who adopted it to be ordained "to establish justice, to secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity."

It is further in violation of fundamental principles of government and law as will hereafter appear.

In respect to the first point above stated, in the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States and some of the highest courts of states, there is a diversity of views in some of which it has been held that the amendment in a state of one of its citizens eligible and qualified to perform the duties of a particular state office as provided by law which he receives and agrees to perform is not a contract, and further that compensations which may become due and payable for his service is not property. On the other hand, there are many decisions of the Supreme Court to the effect that the employment mentioned and the acceptance of it by the chosen incumbent of a state office is a contract, and that compensations which may accrue and become due such incumbent for service is property of pecuniary value changeable for the necessities of his living.

QUOTES CASE IN POINT.

In the case of Taylor vs. Beckman, which was a contested election case passed upon by the highest court of the State of Kentucky, Chief Justice Fuller, with a majority of his associates, held to the tradition first above stated, while Justice Brewer, with whom Justice Brown concurred and Justice Harlan, in their dissenting opinion held to the contrary. These dissenting opinions were fortified by many other decisions of the same court. The dissenting opinion of Justice Harlan was of massive strength and reasoning and which is here commended to the examination and consideration of all who may have doubts upon the subject. It is respectfully suggested that an employment by the state, or a corporation or an individual of another who is to perform a particular service in consideration of compensations to be paid him, is essentially a contract of reciprocal obligations.

It appears by the terms of the recall procedure article referred to that the existence of the judicial department of the state is wholly ignored and instead there is substituted by a majority of the electors of the state whose judgment is made final and conclusive, determining the removal of the judicial branch of a state office and conferring it upon another, and it further appears that the grounds of objection to such officers need not be of substantive validity. They may be trivial to an absurd degree, their sufficiency is protected by the provision for the removal of such officers without jurisdiction of his person or subject to review, which is comprehensive and exclusive of any possible action of any court or other authority. This recall procedure article carefully and industriously provides that the officer sought to be removed shall not be served with notice of anything charged against him, whatever it may be, nor an opportunity to be heard in his defense. Such information is to be given only for the electors of the state at large. The prescribed officer is allowed to make a statement justifying his course of conduct in office, but to whom he shall make it is not provided, nor whether or not such statement need be responsive to any objection is a matter of indifference. In such case it is a statement not required to be served on or seen by anybody.

Thus it is provided that the lawful incumbent of an office in his possession in the discharge of its duties may be removed therefrom, condemned, degraded and deprived of his living, without notice and without opportunity to be heard in defense of his rights, however cruel and unjust the judgment of his enemies is. This established justice ordained by the Constitution, declared to be the supreme law of the land? This law affords to every person charged with a delinquency, whatever it may be, the right to know what the delinquency is and the right to a hearing in his defense. If the charge be a crime and the accused party answers "not guilty," he must be tried by a jury, by whom he must be regarded as innocent until his guilt is proved beyond a reasonable doubt, and he also is entitled to be confronted by the witnesses against him and to confront at every stage of the trial until condemned or acquitted. This is due process of law and the equal protection of the laws as meant by the Fourteenth Amendment above quoted.

It is to be noticed that the recall procedure proceedings referred to provide for the prosecution of the proscribed officer without jurisdiction of his person or any subject matter. Jurisdiction of subject matter is fundamental and must exist in fact as precedent to any authority whether it be of constitutional creation or legislative enactment. It lies at the foundation of all civilized government. It is axiomatic truth involving the natural right of self-defense.

RIGHT TO BE HEARD.

Attention is again called to the fact that in the case of Taylor vs. Beckman all parties concerned were granted the right to be heard in the protection of his supposed interest in that contest; whereas, in the case of an officer sought to be removed in the execution of the recall procedure proceeding question is as to whether the right to notice of the grounds alleged for his removal, and also denied the right to question the sufficiency of such grounds before any court of competent jurisdiction or other authority. In fact, the existence of any court is wholly ignored as a part of governmental machinery in prosecutions for delinquencies in office. This is plainly in defiance of the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment already herein set forth.

The friends of the recall measure claim that it is political and that a state office may be abolished at the will of the people and that the incumbent of such office accepts it subject to such condition. Admitting this to be so it does not follow that the recall procedure article is a valid exercise of power to abolish any state office, and so extinguish the incumbent's right thereto or deny to him the right to know for what he may be sought to be removed and allowed a hearing in his defense. To deny him such rights is plainly in violation of the provisions of the Constitution herein referred to; as appears by the decisions of our National Supreme Court to which reference has been made. The office as an entity remains undisturbed. It is the officer who is sought to be removed without due process of law and in defiance of the equal protection of the laws.

My position is that, inasmuch as such recall procedure article does not provide for notice to the officer sought to be removed and that giving to him of an opportunity of a hearing in his defense, in violation of his person and subject matter is not acquired Section 41 of our Code of Civil Procedure recognizes and corroborates this fundamental and inalienable right of the citizen and opportunity to be heard is a condition precedent to jurisdiction and therefore the attempted removal of the officer is not only voidable, but is absolutely void as appears in the following decisions of our National Supreme Court and others.

MUST HAVE DUE NOTICE.

In Volume V of the Encyclopedia of the United States Supreme Court Reports, page 641, it is said:

"It is an axiom as old as the law that a man cannot be deprived of life, liberty or property, he must have been given reasonable notice and an opportunity to be heard in his own defense. The observance of this maxim is a fundamental requisite of the due process of law guaranteed by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution. Such notice and opportunity wants all the attributes of a judicial determination; it is judicial usurpation and oppression and can never be upheld where justice is justly administered."

In Ward vs. Chase, Justice McLean, speaking for the Court, said:

"Service of process or notice is necessary to enable a court to exercise jurisdiction and can never be applied where jurisdiction where there has been no service of process or notice, the proceeding is a nullity. It is not only voidable, but is absolutely void."

In Earl vs. McVeigh, Justice Clifford said:

"Due notice to the defendant is essential to jurisdiction of all courts as sufficiently appears from the well-known legal maxim that no one shall be condemned in person or property without notice and an opportunity to be heard in his defense."

BEAR OUT CONTENTION.

In Windsor vs. McVeigh, Justice Field said:

"That there must be notice to a party of some kind, actual or constructive, to a valid judgment of his rights, is admitted. Until notice is given, the court has no jurisdiction in any case to proceed to judgment, whatever its authority may be by the law of its organization, over the subject matter."

In Harvey vs. Elliott, Justice White (now Chief Justice), said:

"The fundamental conception of a court of justice is condemnation only after hearing. To say that courts have inherent power to deny all right to defend an action, and to render decrees without any hearing whatsoever is in the very nature of things to convert the court exercising such authority into an instrument of wrong and oppression and hence to strip it of that attribute of justice upon which the exercise of judicial power necessarily is based."

In Radstreet vs. Neptune Ins. Co., Justice Story said:

"It is a rule founded upon the first principles of natural justice that a party shall have an opportunity to be heard in his defense before his property is condemned."

In the early and great case of Kings University of Cambridge, the doctrine that want of notice vitiates all acts was recognized. By this case a mandamus was issued to restore a party to an academic degree which had been taken from him without notice by the governing body.

In delivering the opinion in this case Justice Fortescue p. 167, said:

"The objection for want of notice can never be gotten over. The laws of God and men both give the party an opportunity to make his defense. If he has any. I remember to have heard it observed by a very learned man upon some occasion, that even God himself did not pass judgment upon Adam before he was called upon to make his defense. 'Adam says God' where art thou, hast thou eaten of the tree whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat? And the same question was put to Eve also."

In re Groult, it is said, that as it has been held in many cases that the party accused should enjoy hearing by reason of the grace or favor of the board or tribunal having the particular liberty or property right in charge, the right to a hearing should be granted, and secured to the citizen by the law. I beg to quote from the decision just referred to.

FEDERAL COURTS' DECISIONS.

"The federal courts and nearly all the state courts have for many years uniformly so declaring, and the Court of New York Appeals as early as 1878, in Stuyvesant vs. Balme, declared that a hearing of the citizen may defend, enforce and prosecute due process of law. So carefully have the courts guarded this constitutional guarantee that this right of the citizen that statutes omitting this right should have been uniformly been condemned, even where it appeared, as it does in the case of re Groult, that it was permitted to the party proceeded against to have and did have notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard. It is further said 'It is not enough that a person may have notice, or that he may have a chance of favor or courtesy have a hearing. The quiet notice and given a right to a hearing; it matters not upon the question of the essential validity of the law. The essential validity of the law has been decided. To be tested not by what has been done under it, but what may, by its authority, be done.'"

In the case in re Rosser, the principles announced in the Groult case are fully confirmed by the Court of Appeals. It is pointed out that notice and opportunity to be heard are essential elements of the process of law.

The rule and doctrine enunciated as above applies to the franchise and to all who adopt a constitutional provision as well as to courts of judicature. The principle is the same in the one case as in the other. It is, as already appears, axiomatic. The right of a person to have notice and an opportunity to be heard is a sacred natural right which cannot be deprived even by the law of a state constitution. So jealous have been the framers of the federal constitution and the framers of state constitutions of the rights and liberties of citizens that they placed, by the Fifth Amendment, a limitation upon the power, and the Fourteenth Amendment, a like limitation upon the power, and the same upon the states to pass any law abridging the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States, or depriving any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, or denying to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws. These amendments seem to have been prophetic of conditions existing at the present time.

This constitution, which is the bulwark of the liberties of the people, though it is clear, though gentle, though not null.

Strong, without rage, without overflowing, full."

REALTY MEN WILL GATHER AT FEAST

Oakland Association Members to Discuss Coming Convention.

The Oakland Real Estate Association will hold its next regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, May 8, and Barnum's restaurant, at Seventh and Broadway, has been selected as the place of meeting. A banquet will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

The annual state convention of real estate men, to be held this year in Los Angeles, August 15, 16 and 17, will be discussed and possibly delegates chosen. The bar section is well represented on the official list of the State Federation of Real Estate Boards, and a large and representative delegation will be sent south by Oakland next August.

Secretary Birks has charge of the coming combination business meeting and banquet, and he promises a good time, plus much business. He reports that the local agents are availing themselves of the splendid equipment which the real estate association has provided, and that every possible demand is being promptly met by the executive committee and officers.

Brookside Manor

On Piedmont avenue, between Linda and Echo avenues, Oakland. On Oakland avenue and Piedmont avenue cars and two blocks north of Piedmont Key Route Depot.

It will be a revelation to see what an entrancing picture nature has painted right in the heart of a great city and fittingly framed it with a beautiful winding brooklet, and the gently rolling hills that have made Piedmont famous. See the grand old trees she planted--the costly artistic, ornamental features we've added.

Note, in the uniqueness of its situation, how perfectly sheltered from winds and fog--how we've installed all wires in underground conduits to keep unsightly poles off the streets, and how we're oil-paving them to eliminate dust and noise. Note how, with its one entrance only, exclusive and secluded it is, and yet how convenient. Note that every 3 minutes a car passes the property, landing you in the business center in 10 minutes, and in 2 minutes' walk you can board a Key Route train for San Francisco, and, finally, note that within two blocks are schools, postoffice and all kinds of first-class stores and shops. Then, if you're a lover of nature, if you delight in trees, flowers and birds, if you have that refined taste to which the artistic appeals, and you take pleasure in peace and quiet, ask us to reserve one of these 27 lots for you.

Send for Catalogue and price list. You will be surprised to find the prices and terms lower than surrounding property without the matchless advantages of Brookside Manor, enabling a person of moderate means to own a pretty home in the most convenient and choicest spot around the bay.

Alameda's Bond Election.

On Tuesday next the citizens of Alameda will vote on a proposal to issue $200,000 bonds for public improvements. Of this amount $150,000 is for better housing and equipping the city's electric light and power plant. It is claimed by some that the city can buy electric current from a private corporation for less money than it can be generated in the city's plant. But since the city owns a generating plant as well as a distributing system, the issue is whether the policy of municipal ownership shall be discontinued. Alameda had as well go out of the business of supplying electric lights to its citizens as to rely upon a private corporation for its supply of current. If the policy of public ownership is to be continued, the bonds for adequately housing and equipping the generating plant should be voted. It would be unwise for the city to become the mere selling agent of a corporation, buying its current at wholesale and selling it at retail. Any such arrangement is sure to prove unsatisfactory, and, probably, unprofitable in the long run. It is not easy to combine public and private ownership in a way to avoid friction and give satisfaction. Until it is decided to abandon public ownership entirely, business prudence dictates that the generating plant should be fully equipped for operation. If the citizens refuse to incur the expense of housing the machinery and supplying modern equipment they might as well abandon the plant altogether and accept private ownership under the regulations prescribed by law. There is no safe middle ground. It would be an act of folly to go under the yoke of a private corporation without having the power to regulate. And that is just what the opponents of the bond issue propose to do. They propose to maintain the fiction of municipal ownership while making the city dependent upon a corporation. In our opinion, the bonds should be voted.

The Johnson family is even worse split on Presidential candidates than the owners of the Fresno Republican. Hon. Grove L. Johnson is for Taft; his son, the Governor, is the main squeeze of the Roosevelt campaign, and his grandson is for La Follette.

Not Merely Carpet Knights.

In an article commenting on the gallant behavior of Colonel John Jacob Astor and Major Archibald Butt on the Titanic, the Fresno Republican calls them "carpet knights." They were nothing of the kind. In his anxiety to make the contrast between the manner in which they spent their lives and the way they bore themselves in an hour of extreme trial and peril, the editor of the Republican did a gross injustice to both men. He really knew nothing about either. He assumed they were "carpet knights" because Astor was an enormously rich man and Major Butt, as military aide to the President, has figured prominently for several years at social and political functions.

John Jacob Astor was a busy man of affairs. In addition to personally managing a great estate, he was a director in several financial and railroad corporations, and was an ardent sportsman. He conducted a model dairy and owned a farm devoted to breeding riding and driving horses. He devoted considerable attention to literature and was the author of two books, "A Journey in Other Worlds" and "A Romance of the Future." Besides, he took great interest in mechanical activities, and was an inventor of note. He patented several inventions, among them marine turbines, on which in 1902 he gave up his rights, dedicating his turbines to the public in the hope that the development of the ideal turbine may be hastened thereby. He built the Netherland, St. Regis and Knickerbocker hotels, and owned one-half of the Astor. When war with Spain was declared he equipped a battery and presented it to the government. He was commissioned Inspector-General of Volunteers and went to the front and did a soldier's duty in Cuba. No "carpet knight," he.

Major Butt had proved himself a capable soldier before President Roosevelt selected him for his military aide. He was in the field in the Spanish war and showed himself to be a capable and gallant officer. His tact, attention to detail and vigilance caused him to be selected for the White House. He was an accomplished man of the world, but he was no dancing master, no mincing "carpet knight." He was a true paladin, and bore himself in the field as gallantly as he did in society.

At Worcester the Colonel said he had only just begun to fight. Then he began to howl, and his howling indicated that he was badly hurt.

The Increased Cost of Living.

Although the cost of food has increased of late years, the standard of living has increased in even greater ratio. The increase in wages throughout the world has contributed in no small degree to increase the price of commodities.

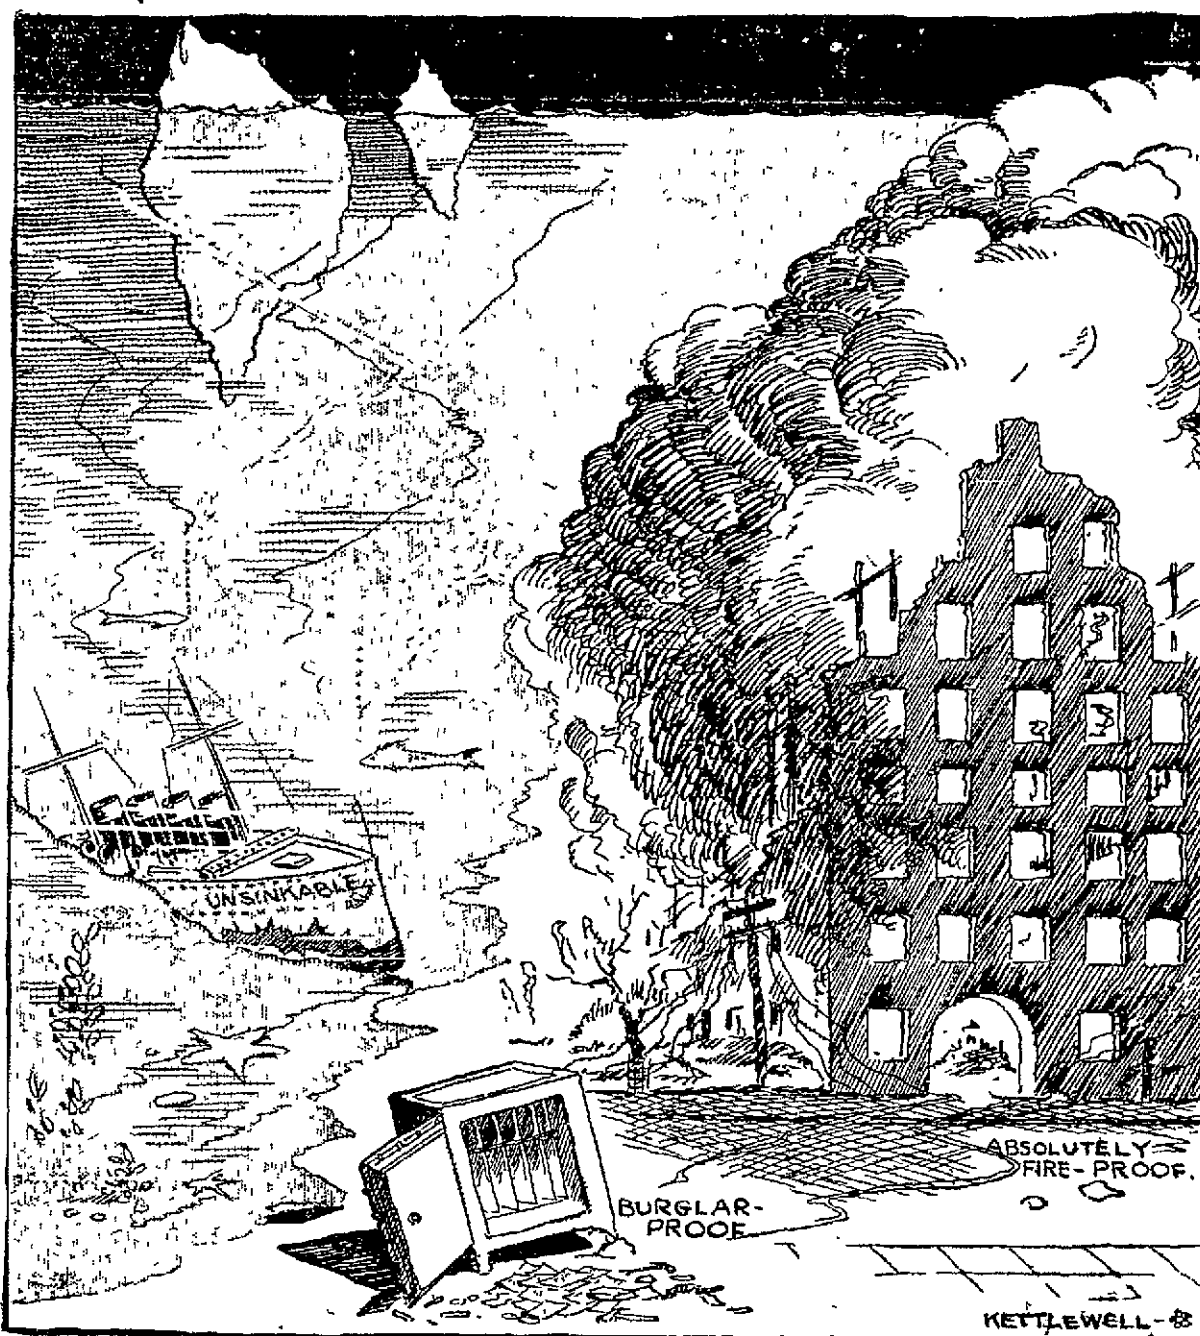

Moreover, the efforts to supply food that is pure and wholesome have contributed to increase the cost of living. All pure food laws increase the price cost of food. As a consequence the public is supplied with better food, a greater range of variety and living in general is upon a very superior scale to what it was a generation ago. What were luxuries twenty years since are now regarded as necessities. Rents have gone up for the same reason. Mankind is better housed, better fed and better clothed than formerly.

That has increased the cost of living. It is the same with amusements and with public utilities which supply the people, not with necessities, but with recreation such as parks, museums, playgrounds and free band concerts.

Nowadays people demand more things and better things than they were content with a few years ago. They require better service, not only from the government, but of a general character. And with all this there is an increased demand for a more liberal wage scale. The increase in cost must be borne by the commodity. Pure food inspection enhances the cost of meat and milk and all other edibles. Sanitation and the increased healthfulness of tenements increase rentals. If the laborer gets more to build a house and the tenant demands better accommodations, the increased cost must be represented by the rent.

The assumption that the cost of food stuffs is due wholly to artificial causes is erroneous. In some instances, no doubt, the cost of particular articles is enhanced artificially. But in the main the advance in prices is due to natural causes and those causes represent the advance in civilization, the higher standard of living, the demand for better food, purer food and better living accommodations.

"IN A CLASS BY THEMSELVES"

—BY T. H. OAKLAND TRIBUNE CARTOONIST.

Help This Cause Along.

The movement inaugurated at the citizens' banquet this week to raise funds for a new building for the Young Women's Christian Association of this city is in keeping with the spirit of progress now animating Oakland. It has the endorsement of all leading and representative residents, many of whom have already subscribed liberally to the fund. But it is not a matter only for people of wealth and well-known philanthropists. These have many demands upon time and purse; rather it is a matter concerning one and all. Each should give to his utmost in this cause, whether the amount be large or small. Already the sum subscribed reaches nearly the hundred thousand mark, but this is less than half the money needed. Ten days only have been allotted to the campaign, and it should be the boast of this city that she has not been called upon in vain in this particular project. There are now in Oakland many thousands of self-supporting young girls and women—many of them from distant places; many from the interior of the State of California; many are strangers to city life; many are supporting some loved one at home; thousands of them are forced to live on mere pittance, considering the present high cost of things. It is to safeguard their interests that the Young Women's Christian Association has its being. It aims to make better and stronger women, physically and morally, of these toilers, be they high up in professional lines or the humblest of domestic drudges.

The Young Women's Christian Association is not a charity. It is a modern philanthropy. Its chief aim is to teach people to help themselves; to look at life from a high standpoint. Every active member of the association is self-supporting, and scrutiny of the roster would disclose also hundreds of names belonging to those of independent incomes. These associate members further the cause through personal supervision of the work, and in times like these, when money is needed to carry on the work, by giving generously of their possessions.

The women bread-winners of Oakland need and deserve a building equally as good as that which houses the young men of this city, and the perfectly-equipped building on Telegraph avenue—belonging to the latter—is one to which every citizen can point with pride. The intention is to devote the proposed women's building to exactly similar uses—a place where the stranger within the gates may find a welcome; where any woman in need of kindly advice and a helping hand will be free to come; a gathering place for the lonely; a school where untrained workers may be drilled into greater efficiency. It is proposed to have spacious class-rooms where training can be given along the lines of domestic science as well as other branches of work essentially suited to women workers. It is proposed, also, to have a swimming pool and shower baths—than which nothing is more needed for women forced to live in boarding and lodging places. There are to be, also, in this proposed new building, a limited number of rooms where women coming to the city from the interior may find temporary lodgment.

In the United States there are many handsome buildings devoted to the housing of the Young Women's Christian Association's interests. For our own State, Los Angeles shows one of magnificent equipment.

The Oakland branch of the association already owns an ideal site for a new and up-to-date administration building. This is at the corner of Fourteenth and Castro streets, directly opposite the First Unitarian Church, right in the heart of the reconstructed district and along the march of progress. Fourteenth street is rapidly becoming one of the most important cross thoroughfares of Oakland. On every hand important structures, either already completed or in the course of construction, greet the eye. Let the Young Women's Christian Association add one more to the group of modern architectural edifices. Let the next few days see the hopes of the association realized, and let the good news go forth to the world that the city of Oakland has responded nobly to the cause; that she has not been found wanting, and that she stands shoulder to shoulder with the progressive spirits of the world.

Twenty Years Ago Today

The forty-second annual meeting of the Sons of Temperance, Grand Division of California, met last night in California Hall. The following grand officers were in attendance: W. B. Wadman, James O. Avery, H. M. Wilder, Mrs. Jessie C. Duncan, W. B. Curtis, J. Humphreys, A. M. Gallagher and S. M. Adams. The meeting will continue through tomorrow.

R. M. Fitzgerald, Oakland delegate to the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons, meeting this week in Los Angeles, has reported to his lodge that he has carried through several rules asked by the local organization. He presided at the opening day of the convalescence.

The Oakland Iron Works was granted permission by the city council to sewer Second street from Washington west for about a block, to join the other sewer at that point. Eighth street will be sewerd from Clay to West streets and West to Thirtieth, according to the action of the city lawmakers.

The official grade of Lake Shore avenue was set by the council in a resolution. Several parts of the street will be improved to conform to the rule.

The ordinance granting the Sunset Telephone Company a franchise, permitting them to erect poles and lay underground conduits in the city for a term of fifty years, was passed finally last night by the city council. George C. Pardee opposed the passage of the ordinance and gave notice of reconsideration. Councilmen Brown, Heltman, Johnston and Nelson backed Pardee in his fight against the company. Pardee desired that the city should have more control over the company than the ordinance called for.

"The Mock Doctors," a farce comedy, was presented last night by the Unity Club before a large audience.

Professor William Carey Jones has returned from a tour of inspection of the schools of the state. He served this year as university examiner to the different high schools.

WITTY BITS

If we don't hurry up and recognize the Chinese republic before Mr. Wu gets here we'll have a whole lot of questions to answer.

The New York burglars who stole $5000 worth of straw hats the other day would have been smarter if they had swiped ear muffs.

Emilio Vasquez Gomez has been read out of the party by the Bob La Follette of the Mexican Insurgents, who suspects him of being one of those soft-shelled progressives. Washington Post.

SUFFRAGETTES' HAT

By adopting a 38-cent straw hat as the official headgear for the big suffrage parade up Fifth avenue on May 4, the suffragettes of New York have opened up vast possibilities for the whole movement. The 38-cent straw hat, made out of coarse white straw and having a slant to windward, may prove either the making or the breaking of the suffrage movement.

If the 38-cent hat must be worn by all suffragettes, not all women will want to be suffragettes. To surrender all their interest in Paris creations as the price of the ballot might be a little too much for most of them. For many women all the interest would go out of life were they restricted to one kind of hat and one kind of gown, with all wearing apparel of a cheap brand.

But it would popularize the movement with the men. If by awarding the ballot to the women the bills of dressmakers, hat-makers and corset-makers would be minimized, there is probably not a man in the whole country who would not vote to give women equal rights. The difficulty would be for women to hold the affections of the men. While men claim that they like "simple frocks," it is a scientific fact that they like the kind of "simple frocks" imported from Paris at a figure much higher than that charged by an American dressmaker. That is why men who have wives who sacrifice their own comfort and style in order to save money are usually among those who can be found in the "bald-headed row."

Nevertheless, it might be well for the women to try this 38-cent hat scheme all the way down the line. If they would agree to wear their present clothes without replenishing until they have obtained the ballot, every legislature in the country would be stormed by business men protesting that in depriving the women of the right to vote the politicians were forcing a shut-down of business everywhere. Most of the business in the country is supported by women, and if the women withdrew from the list of purchasers, there would be a panic. Fortunately for the business men, the love of style is so ingrained in women that such a situation is not likely to be brought about. The 38-cent hat evidently was designed merely for throwing into the ring—Washington Post.

HAMMOCKY SUMMER

It will gratify everybody to learn that the long hard winter from which the country has just emerged was an exceptionally good one for American literature.

Authors had more time than usual. Plots are better thought out. Everything displays more finish and better workmanship. Nothing has been hurriedly done. There are no makeshifts. Emerson thought who does pretty well even in mild winters, he said this time to have written his magnum opus. People who ordinarily write short stories have been able to write long ones, and people who write long stories have been able to boil them down into short ones. Given the same climatic encouragement that Tolstoy had, some two or three have written like Tolstoy; getting a touch of that Norse winter. Everything is to be better based. Book stalls are to be crowded. Authors are to be rich.

In short, we are admirably prepared for a long hammocky summer. St. Louis Post Dispatch.

VOLCANO 'DEMON' AWES ALASKANS

Smoking Mountains of the Far North Present Lively Aspect.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The volcanoes of Alaska are not all dead, and those that smoke are held in dreadful awe by the natives. When the Indians living on the west shore of Cook Inlet first beheld a smoke-belching steamer nearing their village they fled precipitately, first closing their houses to the "demon" of the volcano, which they believed was approaching, might be induced to pass by. As late as 1883 Mount Augustine, a volcano cone which rises 4000 feet out of the waters of the inlet, was in violent eruption, and Mount Iliamna and Mount Redoubt, about 10,000 feet high, towering above the coast range, were in eruption in 1884 and 1903, respectively. That Volcan is still active within these mountains is attested by the persistent clouds of steam rising from their summits and by occasional light showers of volcanic dust. The name Iliamna is said by some to be derived from a Russian term for monument, and it may have reference to the towering volcano. The natives say that Iliamna is the name of a great demon-fish which lives in Lake Iliamna and is ever on the watch to destroy the unwary, so that the native who risks himself on its waters in his frail craft is accounted venturesome. The lake is, however, the largest fresh-water body in Alaska and is frequently swept by terrific gales. It is 80 miles long by 8 to 20 miles wide—somewhat larger, perhaps, than Long Island sound. Its bottom is far below sea level. The altitude of its surface is only 50 feet above the ocean, but soundings at its upper end indicate a depth of many hundred feet. North of and tributary to Iliamna Lake is Clark Lake, more than 50 miles long, but narrow. This lake is 250 feet above the ocean tides, but in places is more than 600 feet deep.

MISSIONARIES' HOMES.

The region containing these interesting volcanoes and lakes was the scene of very early missionary endeavors and trade exploitation by the Russians. Nevertheless little exact knowledge of the region has been acquired, and that has been largely inaccessible to the public, so that the recent investigations by the United States Geological Survey, a report on which has just been published as Bulletin 485, entitled "A Geological Reconnaissance of the Iliamna Region, Alaska," by G. C. Martin and F. J. Katz, should be very welcome.

This report describes the geographic and geologic features and the mineral resources of an area covering more than 5000 square miles lying west of Cook Inlet. It discusses the mountain systems, the lakes, rivers and glaciers. The climate and vegetation, particularly the distribution of forests and the cause of the fires of the forests, are considered. Transportation routes are indicated. The geology is treated of considerable length, and so also the prospective mineral resources which are copper, gold, silver and petroleum. None of these minerals have yet been shipped from this district, but the region may nevertheless some day become important commercially. The report should be of value to those who are interested in the mineral prospects and to those who intend to search for similar deposits in other parts of the district, as it describes the known mineral deposits and the geology of the region containing them. The report is accompanied by topographic and geologic maps in colors on a scale of four miles to the inch and numerous smaller maps, sections and views.

SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS COMBINATION OF MOST POPULAR SHOWS

NEW FEATURES ADDED TO SAWDUST RING AND HIPPODROME

SOME OF THE FEATURES OF THE GREAT SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS.

MISS STICKNEY ON HER PERFORMING HORSE

Attraction Comes Here Tomorrow for Stay of Two Days

The Sells-Floato consolidated circus, which comes here tomorrow for a two-day engagement, is a combination of two of the most popular shows which have heretofore toured this country. For many years now, and almost at the same time each season, this attraction has visited this city, and it can be truly stated that at no time have they given a performance which has not been fully up to the highest standard set by the biggest traveling tent shows and thoroughly satisfying in every way.

This season, the management promises to bring back a circus which is greatly enlarged and possessing many new features heretofore unknown to the sawdust ring or hippodrome track. These will embrace a horse that goes up in a balloon, a man shot from the mouth of a loaded cannon, forty clowns, the troupe De Louvre in poses in marble, the Rhoda Royal company of educated horses, Miss Emma Stickney, greatest of all equestriennes, the Calarano sisters, an elephant which runs a race with a pony, thoroughly schooled hunters in high-jumping feats, the Smith troupe in a very novel revolving trapeze act, the famous educated elephants, which have no superiors, and, added to all of this, will be the conventional features of the circus which have pleased and delighted thousands from the beginning of time.

PARADE TO BE FEATURE.

The historic street parade, without which even a circus of this magnitude would not be complete, has been announced to commence at 10:30 tomorrow morning. This will give prospective patrons an opportunity of judging the consequence of the Sells-Floato circus. It might be added that even the parade itself will present many novel features.

The circus will arrive here on three special trains and will probably begin to unload about daylight, a long time before most of the children are out of bed. The regular ticket wagons will be opened on the grounds as early as 9 o'clock, so that those who wish to secure tickets without getting in the crush may do so. The management of the circus further announces that their policy of popular prices will remain the same as inaugurated three years ago, and that 25 cents admits to the menagerie and big show in its entirety. The uptown seat sale will be at Sherman & Clay Music Company's store on the morning of each performance.

BURGLARS OBTAIN VARIETY OF LOOT

Burglars entered the residence of W. S. Braun, 129 Dracena avenue, Piedmont, some time between April 11 and April 14, according to a report received by the police yesterday, and looted the place, taking everything of value of a portable nature in the house. Among the articles stolen were the following: Six Persian rugs, four pillows, two blankets, three glass trays, four stoves, seven punch glasses and one aluminum kettle. The plunder is valued at $40. Other thefts reported to the police are as follows:

C. E. Fites, 1014 Clay street, reports a typewriter valued at $100 from office of County Clerk Cook.

Elbert Lemmin, 738 Fourth street, reports stolen by his roommate, a revolver, watch and other articles valued at $85.

A. K. Beaton, Central Bank building, room entered and revolver valued at $18 stolen.

R. B. Weir, 512 Eighth street, carpenter tools valued at $18 stolen.

LAUGHS AT JUDGE, BUT FROWNS LATER
SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Edward Perry is a saloon man and he was arrested yesterday before Police Judge Sullivan for speeding. When the court was declaring on the evils of fast motor driving Perry laughed. Then Judge Sullivan ordered him into custody for twenty-four hours and a frown replaced the smile on Perry's face as he was placed in the dock.

BOAR'S ATTACK FOILED BY DOG

Canine Saves Master From an Onslaught of Angry Animal.

GRASS VALLEY, April 27.—Had it not been for the faithfulness and tenacity of the pet shepherd dog owned by John Demerville that gentleman might now be dead instead of on the road to recovery as the result of an attack by a bear owned by Demerville. The latter lives on a ranch on the old Colfax road about ten miles from town and a day or two ago while performing his regular duties about the place had occasion to force the bear into its pen. The animal was reluctant to go and Demerville picked up a stick to enforce his demand. Seeing this the bear made a rush for the man and knocked him down. Having but one arm Demerville was not so well able to protect himself as he otherwise would have been and the animal thrust his tusks into the man's leg and ripped the flesh and muscles, penetrating almost to the bone.

Demerville feared that he was about to become a victim to the bear's ferocity when the shepherd dog that accompanied him took a bite at the pig's leg. He continued this annoyance until the bear turned his attention to the dog, giving Demerville a chance to rise and get out of harm's way. He limped to the house and a message was sent to town for a physician. Dr. Carl P. Jones answered the call and brought the injured man to the hospital, where his wounds were given attention and where he is now resting easy.

It is likely that the offending animal will be killed, as when the attack it was shown fight upon the least provocation. When angered the bear lowers his head and commences to paw the ground before making its attack, while it froths at the mouth and makes an ominous sound that spells danger.

TO GIVE FRUIT TO DELEGATES

Baskets to Be Distributed to Shriner Visitors in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—Baskets of fruit and nuts will be placed in the rooms of the 465 official representatives who will be in attendance at the Imperial council meeting of the Mystic Shrine during the week of May 4 to 11. Melby H. Flint, chairman of the committee in charge of the entertainment plans, announced that arrangements have been made for distributing the baskets. Two sizes of baskets have been selected. Large baskets will be placed in the rooms of the representatives who are accompanied by their wives, and a smaller size will be left for the men who are alone.

Japanese wicker baskets will be used and they will serve as a souvenir of the occasion. Many other souvenirs will be distributed during the week. They include small sterling silver change purses for the wives of the representatives of the Imperial council; silver canteens for the members of the Shrine hands and patriots; sweet lavender bags, orange inkstands, miniature bearskins, which will be the official badge of Al Malakiah temple, and exchange badges of an attractive design.

TO LAY CORNERSTONE FOR WOODLAND CHURCH

WOODLAND, April 27.—Tomorrow the cornerstone of a new church will be laid here. The church will be dedicated to Our Lady of the Rosary and Bishop Grace of Sacramento will officiate. The pastor of the church is Rev. M. Wallrath and Father Joseph Sasia, S. J., the well known Jesuit priest, has been chosen to deliver the dedicatory address.

ASK APPROPRIATION TO REPAIR RIVER BANK

WASHINGTON, April 27.—An emergency appropriation of $50,000 to repair the banks of the Missouri river in Dakota county, Neb., was urged on the House committee on rivers and harbors today at a hearing.

STOCK BROKER IS CONVICTED

Adjudged Guilty of Fraud After Four Days in Court.

STOCKTON, April 27.—Edward C. Brecker, mining stockbroker and land speculator, was convicted this afternoon in Judge C. W. Norton's court of obtaining money under false pretenses. Brecker sold Fred Glotz, a hotel proprietor, a number of shares of mining stock, collected the money for the same, but failed to deliver the stock. The trial occupied about four days and was hard fought throughout. Brecker was convicted of an acquittal.

LISTENS TO MOCKING BIRD; WANTS IT SLAIN

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—Complaints against cats, parrots and dogs have been frequently received by the police, but when a telephone call, asking the police to kill mocking birds in trees on South Flower street, was received the officials were puzzled. A clerk in Chief Sebastian's office asked for the circumstances. The woman said for three nights her sleep had been disturbed by a mocking bird in a tree near her house and she would like to have the police and its life. She was referred to the Humane Animal League.

WOMAN ALMOST DEAD IS FOUND ON DESERT

GOLDENFIELD, Nev., April 27. Mrs. Bessie Garvey, aged 55, of Tonopah, wandered away, and was found by prospectors on the desert with swollen tongue, shoes, with lacerated feet, digging in the sand for water. She was apparently demented, and was brought to Goldenfield. The prospectors, while camped for the night, heard the woman moaning, but were unable to locate her; in the morning they found her trail.

RUSH WORK.
DORRIS, April 27.—Work on the Siskiyou electric line between this city and Klamath Falls is being rapidly pushed to completion, a crew of men having left here for their camp on the Sly ranch from which point they will work in both directions.

UNBOUNDED FAITH IN THE FUTURE OF OAKLAND

John M. Locke Tells Why He Has Made
Big Investment Here in Real Estate

With the formal opening of the new John M. Locke building on Fourteenth street, between Clay and Jefferson streets, yesterday afternoon and last night a new and important factor in the development of the city has come into the foreground. John M. Locke, formerly of New York City, is the man through whose insight and action the new structure is being erected, and it is securing him as a heavy investor in the city's property local business men feel that the city has gained much for its future welfare.

The new Locke building stands on the north side of Fourteenth street, with a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 145 feet. The land upon which it stands cost in the neighborhood of $250,000 when it was bought some eight months ago and has now greatly increased in value. The building itself consists of a basement and two high stories and is devoted to store rooms and offices, the entire structure being a modern one of concrete, brick and marble.

FAITH IN OAKLAND.

The reasons for the heavy investment in Oakland of Locke, a New Yorker of many years' residence and a merchant with forty years of experience, who has traveled over all parts of the country, furnishes an excellent commentary on the remarkable resources and opportunities which the city has to offer to the investor.

"The best investments for capital in the country are on the Pacific coast," a statement made by Jacob Schiff, a what brought me to the coast," was a declaration made by Mr. Locke yesterday to a TRIBUNE representative. "I thought a statement of that sort from a man like Schiff was worthy of consideration, so I came to the coast to look into conditions here."

"Two years ago last December I came out. I spent six weeks then going up and down the coast, visiting in San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Sacramento, Salt Lake and back to Los Angeles. I finally came back to Oakland because I felt that it offered the best investments for the future."

THE COMING CITY.

"I did this only after long deliberation, after I had returned to the East and considered the matter for a year. In December, 1910, I came back to California and looked over the ground again. This time considering investment in Los Angeles. But that I abandoned on discovering that in that city everything is done to the limit. All capital can expect on its investment there is 4 or 5 per cent. So I began to go over the coast again and quickly decided on this city for investment as the coming city of the Pacific coast."

"My reasons were these: The city possesses exceptional resources and has not yet reached the top stage of its development. In fact, it is only started. "Oakland has the three great qualifications which build up a city, agricultural resources, manufacturing facilities and shipping resources. These three factors are in an unusual degree of excellence for the future. "In the matter of development, it is much easier to go into a city and grow with it than to attempt to make your way in it at the big mark. It is always best to go against the point of least resistance if the accomplishment of the most is hoped for."

MADE CAREFUL INVESTIGATION. "These reasons were already seen after a thorough investigation of the city from every point of view. I came to Oakland early in January of last year and lived here looking over the ground for nine months. I did not depend on the reports of real estate men for the formulation of my judgment of the city, but studied the city and interviewed every man in my line of business, the mercantile trades, dry goods and allied industries, from Twenty-second street to Eighth street. The object of this was to learn conditions here first hand and to form an estimate of the direction of growth of the city."

"Then I settled on Fourteenth street as the coming street of the city. I looked at the property which I now own and took an option on it while I investigated the matter. I finally decided that Fourteenth street is the retail street of Oakland. Here history repeats itself as it has done in New York and other Eastern cities, and the dry goods and mercantile trades follow in their wake. The trend of the main arteries of the city."

MAIN ARTERY OF CITY. "Anyone who knows Fourteenth street knows that it is the main artery of the city, reaching miles from the bay front to Hayward. It will be the main artery between Oakland and San Francisco, for it is the only street that will be cut through to the Key Route and southern lines. History repeats itself and I am not afraid to say that within the next six years there will be no other street that will be cut through to the bay the same way and history that have been enacted about New York."

"Therefore I am proud to be associated with Oakland and have such faith in the city that today I would not take a profit of $500 per front foot on my inside property on Fourteenth or $1000 per front foot on my corner property, Jefferson and Fourteenth."

In the building which I have erected on my land I have aimed to put up one of the best lighted ventilated and hand-somest storerooms of the kind on the Pacific coast. The building is so constructed that five more floors can be added, when it will be one of the finest in the West. The marble and plate glass front of the structure makes an ideal combination for dry goods store and the well-lighted basement, with an abundance of ventilation, are the height of the desirable so far as it could be secured. Every employer and many employees spend three-fourths of their waking life in their stores, and it is of the utmost importance that these have the best light and air possible.

"In the time I have been traveling over the country since I came here first, I have done my best to boost for Oakland, and have such faith in the city's future that if I had $10,000,000 to invest today I would put it all into Oakland, in Fourteenth street real estate."

TENANTS WELL PLEASED.

Although the formal opening of the new building only occurred yesterday a band played before the building for three hours, both afternoon and evening, it has been occupied in part for several weeks. The new stores are all virtually rented and several tenants are fully settled.

The Toggery cloak and suit house, Friend's millinery and the Oakland trunk factory occupy the ground floor with one storeroom, the name of the occupant not yet announced, remaining on the second floor is the photograph gallery of Nellie W. Stone, the tailoring establishment of M. Strauss & Co. and the offices of Mr. Locke.

In the Toggery, the "Daylight Store," as it is captioned, with Oscar Silverman manager, the city has one of the leading cloak and suit concerns. Established in 1894, it has been operating at the corner of Eleventh and Washington streets, until its recent removal to its present location. There is a main storeroom 60x103 feet, with basement, rez-zanine and upper story for workroom, an elaborate display of gowns and wraps are shown and all against an attractive background of show windows and shop rooms exceptionally well lighted.

Store No. 1 in the new building is occupied by Friend's millinery store, formerly at 125 San Pablo avenue. At the opening of yesterday afternoon the new store was crowded for a display of spring hats shown under the direction of Alfred A. Friend, proprietor of the establishment, who also arranged as a feature of the opening for the presentation to each visitor of attractive souvenir hatpins.

THE LOCATION ADVANTAGEOUS. In store No. 2 the Oakland Trunk Factory, A. D. and F. C. Fulton, managers, had just yesterday taken up their quarters. After having been located at Fifty-sixth street and San Pablo avenue for some eight years, the industry has arranged to move into the center of the retail district, where it will carry on its regular warehouse of all sorts of trunks and valises.

Upstairs Nellie W. Stone, the "Lady Back of the Camera," has her studio. Although she has been established in this city only a few months, comparatively, having formerly been at 1005 Washington street, corner of Eleventh and Washington, she has become one of the best known photographers in the city, making a specialty of child studies.

Mrs. Stone is the sole operative and with her staff of assistants, which are exceptional in their lighting arrangements, she expects to accomplish results impossible under former conditions.

M. Strauss & Co., tailors, are the other tenants on the second floor. Mr. Strauss has been associated with tailoring for men and women for many years about the bay and plans to have a most modern establishment.

In all, the new tenants of the building express themselves most pleased with their new quarters. The arrangements for lighting and ventilation are considered truly exceptional and the new stores bid fair to form a standard by which all similar structures in the city must hereafter be measured.

ANCIENTS UP IN DRAINAGE

In the Rev. James Ballo's new book, "The Sea-Kings of Crete," there is an interesting account of the sanitary sewers and drains in the palace of Broad Knossos. He says in part: "In the northeastern quarter, under the corridor of the game board, are still preserved some of the terra cotta pipes which served as connections to the main drains. They are actually faience-jointed pipes of quite modern type, each section 2 1/2 feet in length and 6 inches in diameter at the wide end, and narrowing to 4 inches at the smaller end. Jamming was carefully prevented by a stop ridge which ran round the outside of each pipe, and a few inches from the mouth, while the inside of the butt, or broader end, was provided with a raised collar that enabled it to bear the pressure for the next pipe's stop ridge, and gave an extra hold for the cement that bound the two pipes together."

HYDRAULIC SCIENCE WELL DEVELOPED.

"Indeed, the hydraulic science of the Minoan architects is altogether wonderful in the completeness with which it provided for even the smallest detail. On the staircase near the east bastion, on the lower part of the slope, a stone gutter for carrying off the surface water follows the line of the steps. Let the steepness of the gradient should allow the water to descend too rapidly and find the movement below, the tunnel is a series of parabolic curves and the rapidity of its fall is thus checked by friction."

"The main drains are duly provided with manholes for inspection and 'are so young,' says Dr. Evans, 'that two of my Cretan workmen spent days within them clearing out the accumulated earth and rubble without physical inconvenience.' Those who remember the many extent descriptions of the sanitary arrangements, or, rather, the want of sanitary arrangements, in such a town as the Edinburgh of the end of the eighteenth century will best appreciate the care and forethought with which the Minoan architects more than 3,000 years earlier, had provided for the sanitation of the great palace of the Minoes."

"Turning from the material to the spiritual, evidence as to the religious conceptions of the inhabitants of the palace was forthcoming in one early chamber, along with the usual horns of consecration and sacred double axes, were found three figures of a goddess with wavy archaic form, on the head of one of which there was also perched a dove."

"The double axes in the shrine emphasized the importance in the palace worship of the Labyrinth and underlined the suggestion that the palace of Knossos is nothing more nor less than the legendary labyrinth of Minos. 'That the "Labyrinth" symbol should be the distinguishing cult sign of the Minoan palace makes it more and more probable that we must, in fact, recognize in this vast building, with its maze of corridors and chambers and its network of subterranean ducts, the local habitation and name of the traditional Labyrinth.'"

DECLARES MERE BABES ARE FORCED TO WORK

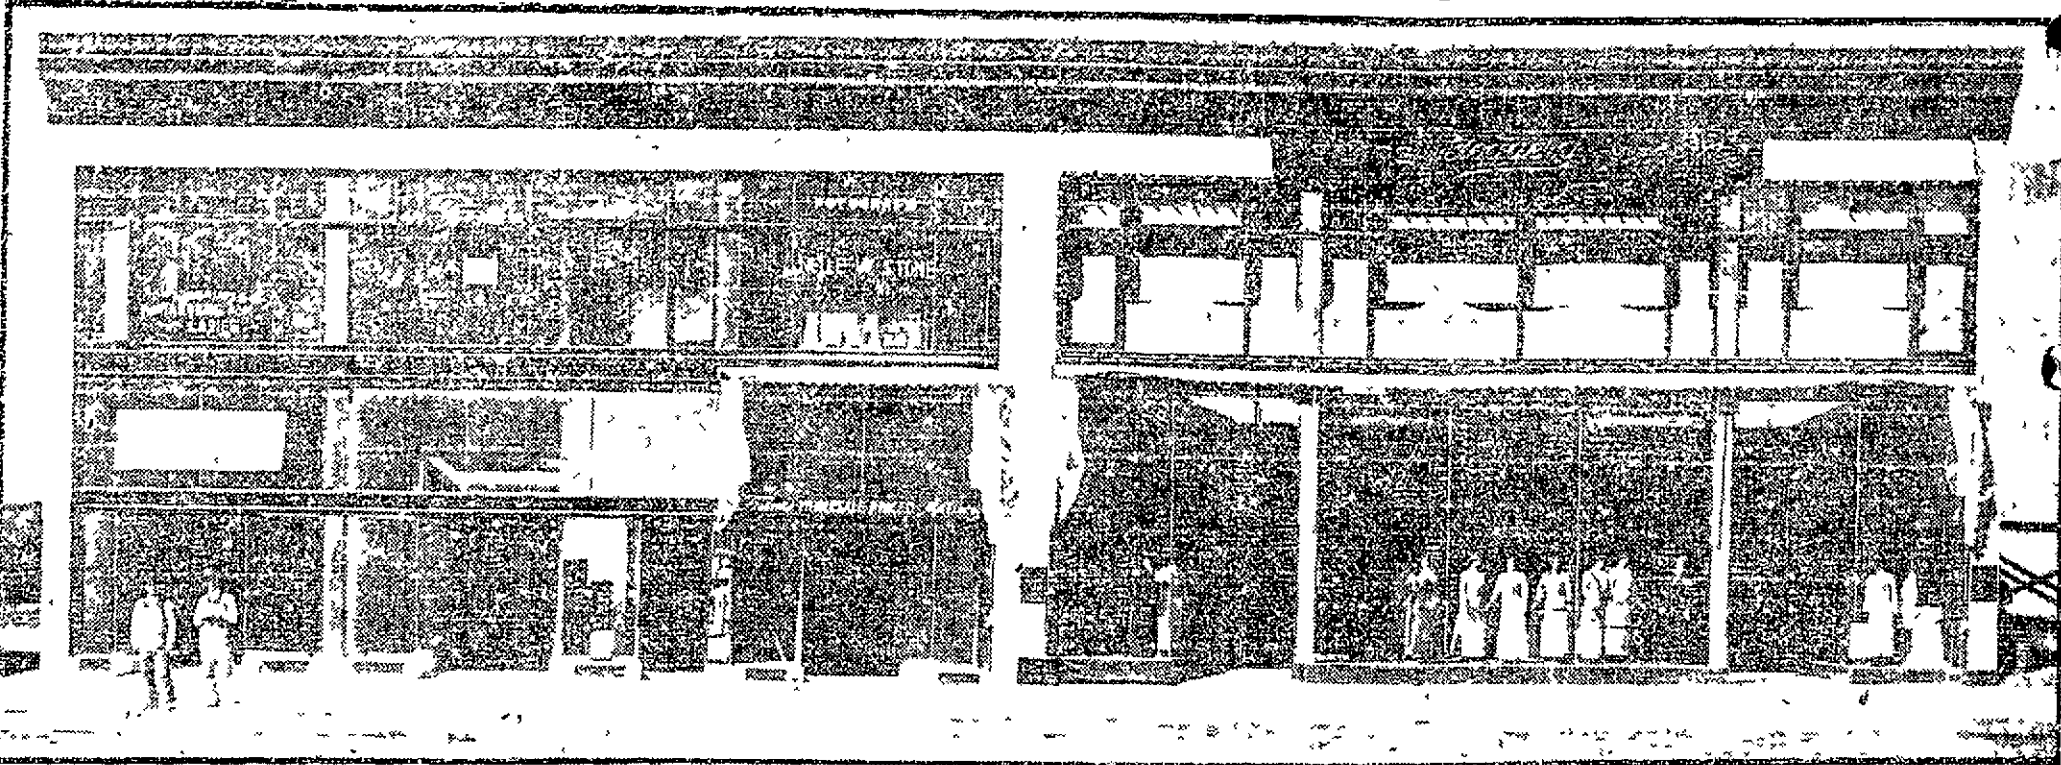

BOSTON, April 27.—Toddling babies, hardly able to walk, are found to work to aid their parents in earning bread, according to Rabbi Levi of Temple Israel. There is no age limit for child labor in Maine or New York, he declared, and cited statistics to prove his contention. The rabbi told the National Children's association the effect on the future of the association.

"In one scattered canvass in New York," he said "which took in only 659 children, we found four working who were only three years old. 21 were five, 41 were seven, 45 who were nine and 76 who were eleven. In Maine hundreds of children as young as five years are employed in the canning industry 12 to 14 hours daily. In the candy factories in New York alone there are 37,000 children under 12 working."

Here's Good News

It is no longer necessary for you to suffer while having dental work performed. I've perfected a remarkable method, called Torryesthesia, which does away with all tooth torture.

No matter how sensitive your teeth are I can fill, crown or extract them without causing you one particle of pain. In addition to this I can bore into a sore, aching tooth, remove the nerve, if need be, and prepare the cavity entirely painlessly.

Torryesthesia produces no bad effects in any case, even where the patient is nervous and weak-hearted. It numbs the teeth so thoroughly that all the grinding, drilling and hammering that a dentist could do wouldn't even make you wince.

Perhaps you doubt what I say, but if you will call at my office I'll show you that I do exactly as I advertise.

If some of your teeth are missing, or if you now wear a partial plate or a bridge, I have more good news for you. My Rex Alveolar Method enables me to restore lost teeth without using plates or bridgework. So long as you have two sound teeth in your jaws you don't need to carry around a mouthful of rubber or metal. You can have teeth that will look, feel and act like real teeth.

Rex Alveolar teeth are within the means of every person who can afford a plate or bridge.

Please remember that I can do everything that any other dentist can do, and a whole lot that he can't. Come in to see me and I'll prove to you that I "make good."

Examination and estimate free. No charge for consultation. Call right away.

If you cannot call soon, send for my free book, which tells you of my Torryesthesia and Alveolar methods.

ELEVEN BABIES IN COURTROOM

Tribunal Looks Like Nursery During Murder Case; Dismissed.

KANSAS CITY, April 27.—Eleven babies at the preliminary hearing here today of Mrs. Sophia Kleiman, charged with killing W. C. Hassel, a bill collector, on March 28, gave the courtroom the appearance of a day nursery rather than a temple of justice.

The testimony of witnesses frequently was drowned out by wailing infants, and the judge attempted, with more indignation than success, to maintain the court's dignity.

After the babies had cried and tumbled about sixty distracting minutes the court discharged the defendant.

Mrs. Kleiman killed Hassel after he pursued a stranger into her husband's store and started a fight, ignoring the storekeeper's protests.

PLAN FOR STADIUM IN HANDS OF EDUCATION BOARD

J. J. DONOVAN'S design for the proposed Stadium, one of those being held up by the injunction proceedings now pending in the Superior Court, which may throw his plans out.

Architect J. J. Donovan Designs Structure to Seat Thousands Near Lakeshore

One of the plans held up by the action now in court, which may enjoin the acceptance of any designs submitted by J. J. Donovan, appointed supervising architect by the city council, is the design by Donovan himself of the proposed stadium to be erected on Twelfth street near Fallon next to the new auditorium, also voted in the school and city improvement bonds. The design calls for a structure of cement and wood with the regular circus-shaped oval within. This has a running track about its edges with space for track and field sports in the center.

The seats are in tiers or bleachers, and the whole structure is modeled after the old Roman and Greek stadiums, although the type of architecture is more modern. Beneath the seats will be the dressing rooms, baths and training quarters.

The seating capacity of the structure will be several thousand, although it will not be necessary to seat the stadium all around at first.

FINDS MUCH GOLD IN STATE STREAMS

Government Officials Assert Problem Lies in Getting Metal Out.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—In 1849 an army of gold seekers—the "49ers"—invaded the Sierra Nevada of California. They worked first along the present streams, but gradually traced the metal to the old tertiary river beds on the summits of the ridges and to the quartz veins, the primary source of all the gold in the Sierra. Millions of dollars were produced annually up to the '70s of the last century, but since that time, owing to the prohibition of hydraulic mining and the gradual exhaustion of the richer channels suitable for drift mining, the industry has slowly diminished, until now less than $1,000,000 is produced annually.

More than $300,000,000 has been produced from these placers, and an account of the natural distribution and origin of this gold was recently published by the United States Geological Survey in Professional Paper 73, by Waldemar Lindgren. The first edition of this monographic report on the subject was almost immediately exhausted, but the volume has been reprinted and is now again available for free distribution.

Referring to the present placer gold reserve of the Sierra, Mr. Lindgren says: "Gold is still contained in the tertiary channels; miles of them are still unworked, but the problems are how to extract it without damage to other property from the debris and how to reduce the cost of drift mining so as to permit the exploitation of the less remunerative 'deep gravels.'" In this connection Lindgren has traced the old channels and has prepared and included in this report accurate maps showing in detail the tertiary drainage lines.

PLACER MINING AT PRESENT.

The decrease in hydraulic mining is partly offset by a new industry—dragging, which has been developed along the bottom lands flanking the ranges and from this source during 1922 gold valued at nearly $7,500,000 was recovered.

The gold found in the larger river channels is about the size of flaxseed, most of the nuggets having been found either within or near quartz veins. In general the channels yield from $70 to $600 to the linear foot, which may be compared with $100 a foot at Nome, Alaska, $280 in the White Channel in Klondike, and $400 to $1200 in the Berry drift mines in Victoria, Australia.

The total output of gold in California is estimated at $1,200,000,000 to $1,500,000,000, about one-fifth of which has been derived from quartz veins, $300,000,000 from the tertiary gravels, and the remainder from the quaternary deposits.

Transfers Estate to Avoid Inheritance Tax

HENRY PHIPPS, who has given his sons millions of dollars' worth of property to avoid the inheritance tax.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Henry Phipps has adopted a novel means of escaping the inheritance tax, and has given his sons $2,000,000 worth of Salt Lake City real estate. He has also made the transfer of $10,000,000 worth of Pittsburgh property, in addition to the $3,000,000 worth of property located in Chicago, which he had previously given them.

The sons are John S. Henry and Howard. They all reside in New York.

Mrs. Bradley Martin and Mrs. "Freddy" Guest are daughters of the financier, but they have been given no mention in the transfer of his vast estate.

Leave of absence for one month, to take effect on or about July 1, is granted Captain Ezekiel J. Williams, Fifth Infantry.

Second Lieutenant Frank M. Andrews, Eighth cavalry aide-de-camp, will report to Lieutenant Colonel James Lockitt, cavalry, president of the examining board at Fort Riley, for examination to determine his fitness for promotion.

Captain Elmer J. Wallace, signal corps, will report on May 1 to the commanding general Eastern division for duty as assistant to the chief signal officer of that division.

Leave of absence for two months, to take effect on or about May 1, is granted Second Lieutenant Edwin W. Watson, Twenty-fourth infantry.

Leave of absence for four days, to take effect on or about May 1, is granted Captain James M. Shelley, quartermaster.

Captain Frederick B. Phelps, U. S. A., retired, recruiting officer, in addition to his other duties will assume charge of the duties of Captain James B. Shelley during the absence of that officer on leave.

INSANE PATIENTS HUGE EXPENSE IN NEW YORK

ALBANY, N. Y., April 27.—The annual cost to New York for the maintenance of foreign born insane patients is $3,500,000, according to statistics gathered by the state hospital commission. It is pointed out that as the average hospital life of a foreign born patient is approximately eleven years, the admission of 2737 new foreign born patients last year will involve a total expense to the state before these patients are finally discharged of $7,800,000.

On February 10 last New York state was caring for 31,500 patients in its civil insane hospitals, of which 13,000, or 47 per cent, were of foreign birth; and in its hospitals for the criminal insane 1250 patients, of whom 550, or 45 per cent, were aliens.

Tuesday, April 30, Is Raisin Day

The following recipe for Raisin Day won first prize in open contest:

Bake 1 yeast cake in 1 1/2 cups of potato water, mix in enough flour to make a stiff batter; beat five minutes. Let stand over night. In the morning scald 2 cups of sweet milk, into which put one rounded tablespoon Cottonseed, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar. When milk is lukewarm mix with the yeast; add enough flour to make a stiff batter; beat about ten minutes; let rise. When sufficiently raised add 2 cups seeded or seedless raisins; mix; add more flour and knead until dough is smooth; let rise. Make into loaves and bake one hour. When baked, wet top of loaves with sugar and hot water to prevent the crust becoming too hard.

BE SURE to bake your raisin bread with GAS. You will get the best results therefrom. GAS is the CLEANEST and BEST as well as the CHEAPEST fuel for all COOKING.

Young Matron, Who Is the Leader of New York Society

MRS. ARTHUR LORAIN BLISS, who is one of the most beautiful brides in Washington society.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Mrs. Arthur Loraine Bliss is considered one of the most beautiful of the recent brides in New York society. Before her marriage she was the fascinating Marguerite Ström, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Ström.

Having had the advantages of travel through extensive trips abroad, Mrs. Bliss has cultivated traits which has enabled her to become one of the most popular matrons in Washington.

Prior to her travels abroad, she graduated at St. Mary's in the Garden City, leaving directly to finish her education in foreign lands. Upon her return to this country she became acquainted with Washington, and later became his wife.

PARCELS POST IS BEING CURTAILED

Economy Program Flayed; the House Favors Rebuilding of Big Levees.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Spirited debate on topics ranging from Theodore Roosevelt to the establishment of the parcels post marked the consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill in the House today. Representative Langley, a Kentucky Republican, scored Representative Campbell, a Kansas Republican, because the latter recently attacked Colonel Roosevelt in a speech on the floor. Langley said Democratic success in November was certain unless Republicans quit fighting among themselves.

Representative Sisson, a Mississippi Democrat, in favoring a parcels post, made the charge that the economy program of the postoffice department is curtailing the extension of the rural mail delivery system in all parts of the country. Representative Langley, in reply, explained that his amendment requiring all newspapers to print the names of their owners and stockholders and incidentally made the charge that many newspapers are controlled by the large business interests.

TO BUILD LEVEES.

The House adopted the Senate resolution appropriating $1,000,000 to rebuild the levees of the Mississippi river and its tributaries which have been or may be destroyed by the floods.

Representative Rucker, who announced yesterday that he would call up the direct election of senators conference report, to which he explained that various members wanted to speak on the report and that he would withhold it until the postoffice appropriation bill is out of the way.

The judiciary committee made a favorable report on the Clayton contempt bill, which grants a jury trial in all cases of indirect contempt of court.

Representative Baker of California introduced a resolution asking the President to send information in his possession regarding the reported attempt of the Japanese government to acquire land on Magdalena bay. A similar resolution was adopted some time ago by the Senate.

Representative Blinn of Tennessee introduced a bill to designate all roads over which rural mails are carried as post-roads and to appropriate $10,000,000 to improve such roads as have not been improved by the states and the counties.

The banking and currency committee requested to 20,000 national state and private banks, asking for full information regarding the operation of the banks, the assets and liabilities and the securities held by such institutions.

There was no session of the Senate today.

BORN TOO LATE FOR SHARE OF FORTUNE

CINCINNATI, April 27.—Because she was born between the time his will was made in 1873, and the time of her uncle's death, in 1881, the circuit court here has decided that Mrs. Herbert Goodie of Denver cannot participate in the estate of her uncle James J. Armstrong, of this city.

When Armstrong died he left his estate to his brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews, but in such a way that it was to be divided among them in equal shares. Mrs. Goodie, who is the wife of a physician in Denver, lost by the decision, which affirms the Common Pleas Court, a fortune of $5000 a year and interest.

MRS. LA FOLLETTE TAKES THE STUMP

Tells Southrons Why Husband Should Be Nominated for President.

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—Mrs. Richard M. La Follette, the wife of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, made her initial appearance here yesterday as a political speaker and in her maiden speech she gave her opinion of both Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and President Taft.

While her husband was speaking in Pasadena yesterday afternoon Mrs. La Follette spoke before the Woman's Club of Sierra Madre, and told why her husband should be nominated by the Republican party for President.

Since her husband began his tour of the West Mrs. La Follette has made a number of speeches before women's clubs, but never until yesterday did she launch into politics and tell why she believed her distinguished husband deserved to be nominated and elected President of the United States. In making her opinion of both President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt plain Mrs. La Follette took a diplomatic course. She made comparisons, she cited facts and figures to make a contrast and then ended her remarks by saying: "These are the facts you women must make up your minds at the primaries as to what selection you will make."

Following the example of her husband, Mrs. La Follette charged before an enthusiastic audience of women that Roosevelt, while President of the United States failed to vigorously enforce the Sherman anti-trust law, and that he had no real attempt to revise the tariff. In both problems Mrs. La Follette charged that Roosevelt permitted by his indolence and indifference to let trusts grow and prosper.

In telling of Mrs. La Follette said that the President had taken no active initiative in revising the tariff as it should be revised; and that the criminal trusts were still increasing and prospering. Contrasted with this, she said, was the action of her husband in securing progressive legislation in Wisconsin and insisting during his public career that the government should actually control the government and its servants.

PIANO TUNES PLAYED OUT; SUIT IS RESISTED

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—Because he cannot play the old tunes without running his customers away, Herman Zimmerman, a saloon keeper at Stratman, St. Louis county, is resisting a suit brought against him for $200 balance on an electric piano, which he bought from the International Electric Piano company of St. Louis in 1910.

Zimmerman's defense is that the piano is worthless, containing five tunes, which he has played so often that he fears he will locate a riot if he plays them again. He says the company went out of business before he could get new rolls of music. Therefore, he alleges, the piano is worthless.

Justice Warremeyer has taken the case under advisement, and says he will go to Stratman and hear the five tune-worn selections before rendering a decision.

FINDING OF GIRL'S BODY SOLVES MYSTERY

TOOK LIFE AS RESULT OF ILLNESS

Miss Ray Kaiser's Remains Discovered in Clump of Bushes.

Drained Vial of Poison After Wandering Along Ocean
Beach Three Hours.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Belief that Miss Ray Kaiser, the young woman who has been missing from her home since last Tuesday had committed suicide was confirmed late this afternoon when two little girls found the missing woman's body in a clump of bushes at Land's End. By the side of the body was found an empty bottle which had contained carbolic acid. The girl drank the poison after she had wandered along the beach for three hours, according to the police. That it was a case of suicide was made plain by the discovery that the woman's purse, in which were several dollars and some jewelry, had not been touched.

Detectives Furman and Callahan, who had been detailed on the case since the woman's disappearance was reported to the police were notified of the discovery and hurried to Land's End to investigate. They were convinced that the girl had killed herself.

SIMILAR TRAGEDIES.
The case of this girl is almost parallel to that of Miss Margaret D. the young woman who disappeared from her home about six months ago. The girl's body was found in Tomales Bay. She had evidently jumped from a cliff near Fort Point and the strong current carried the body seaward. The search for Miss D. had assumed state wide proportions as it was believed that she had met with foul play.

GIRL HAD BEEN ILL.
Miss Kaiser lived at 839 Leavenworth street. Last Tuesday morning she left home without notifying friends in the house. She had been ill and this was the first time she had left the house unaccompanied.

She was last seen aboard a car bound for Golden Gate Park. This fact led her friends to believe that she had gone away with herself. Thursday, George Kaiser, the girl's brother, came here from Lodi to assist in the search. He told the police that his sister had been very ill and her mind had wandered.

The body was taken to the morgue, where it will be held until an inquest.

'Conscience Money'
Is Sent to Railway

Sender "Turned Christian" and Paid for the Rides He Stole in Past.

DENVER, Colo., April 27.—The office of the general passenger agent of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad received a check yesterday from a Seattle man for $17.60 "conscience money." A letter accompanied it saying the sender had stolen several rides on Rio Grande trains years ago and now, having turned Christian, wished to make compensation. The office of the Union Pacific and the Colorado & Southern likewise received communications from the Seattle man, in which he itemized the rides he had stolen on these lines and asked to be sent bills that he might settle.

Mother Chains Her Children Like Dogs

Says She Received Vision From Heaven Directing Their Punishment.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 27.—Chies of children, pleading for help, attracted neighbors to the home of Mrs. Rose Winesgar, where they found a boy of 9 years with a heavy dog collar around his neck, chained to the floor and the mother preparing to secure a second child in a like manner. Mrs. Winesgar told her neighbors that she had just received a revelation telling her to punish her children by chaining them up like dogs, and was proceeding to carry out her spiritual instructions.

OAK LEAF ENTERTAINS GRAND OFFICERS FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY IS CELEBRATED

MRS. MARY E. PARTIDGE (top) AND MRS. ANNA CARL, PROMINENT MEMBERS OF THE EASTERN STAR.

Eastern Star Members Are Guests at Brilliant Function

One of the most brilliant affairs of the year was conducted by Oak Leaf Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, in honor of the fortieth anniversary of the lodge, last Thursday evening in Masonic temple, Twelfth and Washington streets. Officers and members of the chapter were the hosts, while the grand officers and past grand officers were the honored guests. They were greeted by representatives from the fourteen chapters of Alameda county, who filled the hall, which was elaborately decorated for the occasion.

At the close of the program the visitors were escorted to the banquet hall, where the visiting grand officers responded to toasts. About 400 members of the fraternity were seated at the banquet table, which was presided over by Mrs. Henrietta MacGregor, worthy matron of the chapter, who conducted the exercises of the evening.

Among the matrons present were Mrs. Burman of Point Richmond chapter, Mrs. Anna Carl of the Mary E. Partidge chapter, Mrs. Knight, Berkeley chapter, Mrs. Adamson, Unity, Mrs. Georgia Gutches, Athens chapter and Mrs. Hollenbeck, Fruitvale chapter.

GIFTS ARE PRESENTED.
Gifts were presented on behalf of the chapter to the following: Grand Patron John L. McNab, District Deputy Grand Matron Elizabeth Coomb, Mrs. Mary E. Partidge, organizer of the Mary E. Partidge chapter, and the worthy grand matron, Mrs. Lena W. Standard. Herbert D. Dixon, Mrs. Ada Dalton, and Fred L. Burton made the presentations.

State to Investigate Case of Pellagra

Secretary Snow of Health Board
Reports Woman in Hospital Is Afflicted.

SACRAMENTO, April 27.—Secretary W. F. Snow of the state board of health received a report today that a woman patient at the Napa state hospital had developed a case of pellagra, and orders were issued to have the case investigated for the purpose of ascertaining its origin. In all cases heretofore reported in California investigation has proved that the disease originated in other states.

START SUIT TO STOP PHONE MERGER

San Francisco Takes Steps Against Consolidation of 'Phone Companies.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Attorney General Webb, representing the State of California, and City Attorney Percy V. Long, representing the city and county of San Francisco, started active warfare today to have declared illegal and set aside the merger of the Home Telephone and Telephone Company by filing two suits in the local superior court. The merger was consummated on March 15 last.

The attorney general, on behalf of the people of California, asks the courts to declare forfeited all the franchises of the Home Telephone Company and forbid it to make further use of the same.

The city attorney asks the court to set aside the conveyance of the Home company to the Pacific company, to cancel the deed of trust executed by that company to the Anglo-California Trust Company and to issue a permanent injunction to prevent the Pacific Telephone and Telephone Company from making further use of the Home company's system.

It is further prayed that a temporary restraining order be issued to prevent the Pacific Telephone and Telephone Company from using the Home company's plant until the merits of the two suits have been tried. This will be issued Monday.

Young Women's Christian Association Workers Report
Great Success.

Miss Helen Van Slyke's Team
Takes Lead in Subscription Race.

From the announcements made yesterday at the daily luncheon at Ebell Hall of the campaign workers who are raising $225,000 for a new building for the Oakland Young Women's Christian Association, everything points to the success of the great venture.

Miss Wallace Alexander's team yesterday had to surrender the honors to the team captained by Miss Helen Van Slyke. Miss Van Slyke reported $600 for the day's work. In explaining her success she said: "I was given the name of a friend by the committee and was told she would sign a pledge for $15. I sized up my prospect and handed her a blank for $500 to sign. She told me she could not give me a check for that amount then I told her that I did not want her money then, but merely her signature. And she signed. Upon another occasion I was given a blank for $100 for a friend of the movement and gave her instead one for $150. She also signed."

SELENDID SHOWING.
The showing made by the workers yesterday was splendid. The women's committee led with a total of $2434, followed closely by the young women's committee with $2295. The business men's committee reported $1217 and the citizen's committee $1100. It was announced that the Bible class of the First Methodist Church had donated $100. The executive committee announced gifts of $1000 from a friend and $500 each from Miss Susan Fisher and Miss Grace M. Fisher, president of the Oakland Y. W. C. A.

The grand total date is $118,837, more than half of the required amount. The long hand of the big campaign clock is still ahead of the short hand, showing that the campaign is meeting with unusual success. It is believed by the leaders of the campaign that when it is realized what an institution like the Y. W. C. A. means to the city, that purse strings will be loosened and the balance needed will be promptly subscribed.

EXCELLENT WORK DONE.
Excellent work is being done by the executive committee, which is composed of the following: Arthur L. Adams, chairman; C. F. Baker, vice-chairman; Wallace Alexander, Arthur Arlett, Mrs. Wallace Alexander, Miss Grace M. Fisher, George B. M. Gray, Mrs. Walter Henry and Miss Eva Powell.

The general chairman and secretaries are doing equally good work. They are as follows: Citizens' committee—George B. M. Gray and Miss Ida A. Green; business men's committee—Arthur Arlett and Miss Myrtle B. Wilson; young women's committee—Miss Eva Powell and Miss Isabel Smith; women's committee—Mrs. Walter Henry and Miss Carolyn Patch. H. L. Kemp, captain of Company 1, citizens' committee, is doing good work.

Among the needs of the association is space for an employment department. Mrs. Mary Gonzales, head of this bureau and president of the Women's Guild, said yesterday that the department had grown by leaps and bounds until at the present time it was absolutely necessary to have more adequate quarters.

REASONS FOR DONATING.
In discussing reasons why the money should be raised, Mrs. Gonzales said: "The department aims, particularly, to obtain proper employment for young women, and the department aims to obtain positions for many widows and women who are supporting young children. Many young business women also come here for advice. I am glad to be consulted about that sort of position of business that women are in."

"The employment bureau is under the particular charge of the committee at the head of which is Mrs. F. F. Jackson. The secretary of this committee is Mrs. C. Brodt. Besides advising and assisting the employment secretary, this committee has charge of investigating rooms which are listed for rent through the Y. W. C. A. The strangers and young women traveling alone are accommodated in a large city to find a list of rooms where they may feel perfectly safe in going for a short or long time. Oftentimes young women who cannot afford to go to hotels find themselves in houses where they are humiliated and subjected to wrong constructions on their actions in going there."

MOTTOES TO WORKERS.
M. C. Williams, who is in general charge of the campaign, in discussing the mottoes issued to the workers, said: "Every man something every day. 'Something from everybody.' Follow instructions in detail. 'These mottoes taken together may be regarded as the watchword of the workers which will lead to success without any possibility of failure. 'Every Man Something Every Day.'"

"This means that if every member of each team brings in at least one subscription every day, it practically assures the raising of the entire amount needed by the association, namely, $225,000."

FATALLY SHOT BY YOUNG CHUM

Ten-Year-Old Boy Runs From Playmate and Bullet Stops Flight.

Companion Goes Into Hiding
After Using Old Revolver
Found at Home.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—William Turner, a 10-year-old boy living at 7 Imperial avenue, is lying at the Trinity Hospital from the effects of a bullet fired by Robert Puppenehl, a 12-year-old playmate, in the latter's home, 2727 Franklin street. Puppenehl found an old 22-caliber revolver in the basement and showed it to the Turner boy. The little fellow became frightened and started to get out of the way.

"If you run, I'll shoot," said his companion, Turner, too frightened to heed him, turned and fled, and was shot in the abdomen. Young Puppenehl was so frightened at what he had done that he ran away and was not caught by the police for eleven hours.

The report of the shot was heard by an uncle of Puppenehl, who found the injured lad and had him sent to the hospital. The police were notified and, after a vain search, Policemen McFarland and Van lay in wait for Puppenehl and captured him as he returned home tonight. He was taken to the detention home and charged with assault to murder.

The bond and warrant clerk took Turner's dying statement at 10 o'clock tonight.

SCION OF OIL KING BARRED BY CLUB

H. H. Rogers, Jr., Given Cold Shoulder When Directors
Consider His Name.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Clubmen are talking tonight about the withdrawal of the application for membership in the Union League Club of H. H. Rogers Jr. The withdrawal, it is whispered, followed the passing of a gentle hint from the heads of that most exclusive society to the friends of the young millionaire. In fact, it became known that the presentation of Rogers' name by his friends some months ago did not get beyond the preliminary stages in such procedure.

In other words, it was presented, but that was all. The tip was passed, it is understood, to avoid any such thing as a direct rejection or anything approaching unpleasantness.

It is not club etiquette to ask why in a case of this kind, yet it is a fact that the machinery set in motion by Rogers' sponsors has stopped short and the young millionaire, who traces his ancestry back to Puritan days, is not to become a member of New York's most exclusive club.

President Taft Plays Golf in New Jersey

Lays Aside Cares of Politics On the Baltusrol Club Course.

NEWARK, N. J., April 27.—President Taft laid aside his political clothes and on an old gray cap and a sweater, and relished his feelings by knocking the golf ball around the course today at the Baltusrol Golf Club, near Orange. The President played with Ogden Colgate of Newark.

There were many other players on the links, but out of respect for Mr. Taft there was no gallery to watch him play.

Largest Drydock Nearing Completion

The Last Stone Put in Place of
$2,300,000 Structure at Puget Sound.

SEATTLE, April 27.—The largest stone in the largest dry dock ever built in the United States was set in place today at the Puget Sound navy yard. Many months of work will be required to install the pumping plant and clear the entrance to the huge basin. The dock when completed will have cost $2,300,000. It is 363 feet long, 143 feet wide and 47 feet deep.

CLARA BARTON RED CROSS MARTYR

Letters She Wrote to Professor
C. B. Young of Redondo
Are Made Public.

Founder Told How She Was a Victim of Social Ambitions of Women.

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—More light upon the martyrdom suffered by Clara Barton, founder of the Red Cross, as the result of alleged political intrigue as well as the social ambitions of certain Washington women which forced her from the presidency and led to Congressional investigation is shed in letters written by the great war nurse to Professor C. S. Young of Redondo Beach and given out by him today.

One week ago THE TRIBUNE made public a number of Miss Barton's letters given out by Professor Young for the first time. Although he had had these letters from periods ranging from months to years, I never before enjoined him not to give them to the world until after her death.

This posthumous answer of Miss Barton to her detractors and a hint of the heavy load of injustice she had endured for the sake of peace and the good of the Red Cross caused a tremendous impression in the East, and especially in Washington.

PATIENCE WONDERFUL.
The additional letters now made public by Young tell further of the patience she manifested under oppression.

When she had been importuned to speak to a friend about the candidacy of a friend for a certain position she wrote:

"There has never been an occasion nor a time when I have so missed my old-time privilege of speaking a word in behalf of a friend. I never before have so fully realized what a pleasure that privilege had been to me through half a century."

"It is a change for me to know that the only help I must give in the strictest silence, an expressed wish, it known, would be fatal—not, perhaps, with President Taft personally, for I am of small importance to him, if he ever knew me, but from the advice he would be sure to receive from those he does know. So I wait and hope."

Again, concerning her abandoned purpose to seek a refuge in Mexico, she wrote:

ABANDONED PURPOSE.
"I can never understand why I failed to go. A greater power and a wiser mind were guiding, no doubt. 'To God my life was an open page, and I knew what I would be.' He knew how the tyrant passions rage. How wretched was all my anchorage. And why I would drift to sea."

Young furnishes the following account of a meeting with friends of Miss Barton and subsequent conversations with her:

"After a social call in a room upstairs with Miss Barton, Stephen H. Barton of Boston, Dr. J. B. Hubbard, Mrs. General John A. Logan and I in the front room on the lower floor, talked over a plan to vindicate Miss Barton. All agreed that a memorial should be presented to the President asking him to reinstate Miss Barton as president of the Red Cross. Mrs. Logan was to take up the matter with several prominent people and on these lines."

WANTED TO VISIT MEXICO.
"On October 13, 1911, when I visited her in her home at Oxford, Mass., she made use of the following language: 'Referring to that letter I wrote you in which I expressed a desire to go to Mexico, I meant it. For several months I have been gathering together my belongings and adjusting my affairs so that I could go.'"

"There were but two countries where the Red Cross society did not exist. One was China and the other Mexico. I did not want to go to China, but did want to go to Mexico, and fully intended to go."

"My friends finally dissuaded me and perhaps it was for the best, for if I had gone I probably would not have been alive."

TRACKING OF RAILWAY

Opinion of District Attorney Causes Richmond Co. to Tear Up Rails.

Official Declares Improvement Work Is Illegal Under the Franchise Held.

RICHMOND, April 27.—Acting on an opinion rendered yesterday by District Attorney A. B. McKenzie to the effect that the double tracking of the East Shore and Suburban lines, from the county line north on San Pablo avenue, under the franchise held by that company over that street is illegal, orders were issued today by the officials of the company to tear up the track, which had been laid as Mrs. Wall's addition to the city of Richmond.

The task will be commenced early Monday morning of undoing the work that has been so far completed by the company toward improving its service from Oakland to Richmond, unless immediate action is taken by the people of this city to bring pressure to bear to secure a modification of the opinion of the district attorney.

Unless something of this sort can be brought to bear, this city will have to get along with a single track car system for an indefinite time, and all that has been accomplished toward securing better street car facilities will be undone.

WILL ASIDE BY OPINION.
While it believes that it could prove its rights to construct an additional track if it took the matter into the courts, the company does not seem inclined to go to the time, trouble and expense of protesting against the district attorney's opinion.

The point raised against the double tracking of the line is a technical one. The change is made and it was raised by the Stiege incorporation enthusiasts for a double purpose—to place even with Richmond for fighting their incorporation project and to force the railway company to have the streets along which it is double tracking. The company refuses to submit to this treatment, and hence the order to tear up the second track from a point near the city limits of Richmond back to the Alameda county line. Every effort will be made by the people of Richmond to prevent this from being done, as the present single track road is entirely inadequate to handle the new traffic, and people who daily journey back and forth between this city and Oakland.

Funeral of Justin McCarthy Is Held

Remains of Novelist and Statesman Buried at Hempstead Cemetery.

LONDON, April 27.—The funeral of Justin McCarthy, the novelist and historian, and for many years a member of Parliament, who died at Polkington, Wednesday, was held at the St. James' cemetery today. The procession to the grave was a long one.

The American ambassador, William L. Gildersleepe, sent a floral piece.

ACCUSED "CON MEN" ARE JAILED ON SUSPICION

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Detectives Taylor and Macpherson tonight arrested William Scott and James Skinner, who are held in detention at the city prison, suspected of being connected with several shady transactions. The fact that they communicated with William Parsons, who had his watch stolen on April 8 while on a Powell-street car, asking for money, led to their capture. From evidence obtained in their room it is believed that they have been conducting a fake matrimonial bureau.

PRESIDENT BAUM SHOWS HE WANTS CLEAN BALL

Gives No Mercy to Ball Players Who Are Inclined to Rowdiness; Gossip of the Players

By BERT LOWRY.

THE first three weeks of the Coast League season of 1912 were turbulent ones, and then all became quiet. For a time it looked as if the ballplayers were to be the monarchs of all they surveyed and that rowdiness would run riot on the ball field. Several of the players kicked over the traces and gave exhibitions of roughness that stamped them hoodlums of the worst dye and left the impression with the fans that it was going to be a rough-and-ready season with hoodlumism predominating.

Pitcher Gilligan of Portland was the first player to be sent to the hospital and one day over the bay out loose with a string of language that was nasty to say the least.

Shortly after this occurrence the matter was reported to the president, Allan T. Baum, and the punishment he meted out to the player opened his eyes as to the state of the ball field. A little later on he had occasion to reprimand Managers Sharpe, Burrell and Patterson, and he emphatically proved to the rowdy ball player that his notions would not be tolerated on the ball field.

Since that time there has been little or no roughness in the games, in fact the players have been as good as angels. Lots of the pepper and ginger of last season is missing.

WAS HE TOO SEVERE?

From several quarters have come letters criticizing and condemning the action of the president to this extent. Many of the writers stood up for Baum for the lines he laid but thought a suspension was needless for "What is merely a matter of opinion. Many allowed that a suspension of a ball player, especially when the manager was set down, maybe so, but if this is what the manager feels let him behave himself. It is right to be a fighting, aggressive ball player but it is not necessary to go to extremes to win a fight especially with the use of belligerence and cowardly actions. No umpire in the world, or president, will object to the man that makes a clear argument for his rights, but they will object and the president should punish the man who forgets himself."

CORHAN'S HOMER PUTS CRIMP IN HAPPY'S FOND HOPES

Seals' Third Sacker Poles Out Long Drive That Proves Winning Tally.

Two home runs and three two-baggers were features in the exhibition of the great American pastime put up at Recreation Park yesterday afternoon by Vernon and San Francisco when the home team got the best of the argument after nine innings by a score of 3 to 2.

Many thousands of fans took advantage of the half-holiday and occupied seats in the grandstand and bleachers.

Miller was in good form and put up about the same front as he did last Tuesday by striking out nine of the Vernons. Gray did not do quite so well and the Seals took seven good bingles from him. The visitors got six of the same for their part and in addition were credited with a couple of errors, one of them made by Mr. Brown himself when he let in one run that San Francisco should not have had if he had had a little resin on his fingers.

Those who got the glad hand from the multitude by clouting the sphere away over the wire netting that rises above the right field fence were Patterson, ne of the first base spot for the Southerners and Corhan, the lively third-base keeper for the men representing the other side of the bay.

Some of those on the boards thought that Corhan couldn't do it, but he walked right up to the rubber and without much ado swatted Gray's delivery without apparently any trouble at all.

BOTH HOMERS IN SIXTH.

Like his predecessor the stunt was done in the sixth inning and for a while it looked as if the feature would not be a rare treat. Following Patterson, Brashear smote one for a single to right, but then in rapid succession Stinson, Hoop and Burrell were thrown out at first.

The afternoon's session started with Corhan hitting the first one Miller put over the plate to right for a good clean two-bagger. Brashear flew out and Patterson sacrificed, while Corhan got along to the plate. Brashear struck out and that ended the first frame.

Rafferty succeeded in getting a hit in the second frame. In the second inning Miller hit a home run and retired without getting within striking distance of the home plate. Then in the third frame a two-bagger while the home boys went to the benches after their half without having done anything sensational.

SEALS GET TWO.

It was in the fourth that the Seals got for the Senators this year, has caused the northern fans to forget all about "Hale" Danzig. He is a more finished player than the lanky politician drafted by the Browns. With the addition of Miller to its ranks, the Pacific Coast League is well fortified with first sackers.

"Hap" Hogan has released Fletcher Roebuck, who has not shown anything phenomenal which would warrant his keeping him. "Hap" has enough efficient boxes to keep him well up in the race.

Vancouver has signed up "Hap" Meers, having bought him from the Jersey City club. "Hap" has been in the Coast League in 1909, and hit 251 here that year. Hogan is a native of the city and has been in the league for several seasons, with all of the new men he has to try out.

Coast fandom is sure to see Harry Wolcott getting away to such a bad start with the New York Highlanders. Harry is probably figuring that life at Oakland was more pleasant than his present sojourn in Gotham. Perhaps the Oakland fans are having something to do with the plot.

"Who's Who in Baseball" just compiled by the Baseball Magazine Company, is on sale at local news stands and is a valuable book for fans. It contains a complete list of all the players in the league, their positions, height, weight, birthplace, all positions played, all batting averages for the players' entire career, fielding and other facts along which is of interest to baseball enthusiasts.

George Van Halton is umpiring at Seattle this week and he and Amor Rosen are having a session. When Rosen was the kingpin pitcher for the country, doing a season's work for the New York Giants. Van was center fielder and lead off hitter for the club. Van is still fast on his feet, but towards the last of his playing career his batting lamp dimmed. Van lasted a good deal longer in the game than Rosen.

a lead that was not overtaken. Jackson first up and took his time in getting to bat. The visitors got a moment's rest when he threw a little wild one to Brashear and Jackson scored when Brown batted a throw to the plate of Corhan's hit. Berry went out and Miller believed the situation by pointing a double to left, scoring Corhan.

Each side annexed another mark on the fence when Patterson and Corhan put the ball over the boundaries of the fun garden to the chagrin of the respective outfielders and the delight of the audience.

After that it was a tame affair, although the crowd refused to leave until Dolly Gray struck out, ending the contest. This is how the men in the box fixed it up for the wise ones to look at and ponder over:

SENATORS DRIVE THE BALL HARD AND ARE WINNERS

Swains Homer Has Much to do With Downfall of Frank Dillon's Pennant Hopes.

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—The slug-ging Senators administered a 10 to 0 drubbing to the hapless Angels in this afternoon's game. "Dusky" Williams showed no signs of compassion for the pitiable objects of his unmerciful slants, but held the Angels in utterable stupefaction from the opening to the final chapter of the sad tale. He allowed but one sacrifice and these were scattered so evenly along the row that Berry's minions never had a chance to even get in the running. It was a case of too much Hawaiian class.

Two of Dillon's cleverest—Walter Slagle and Jack Halls—attempted to combat the effects of "Too Much Williams." Slagle was bumped so effectively that he was forced to migrate to the clubhouse. Halls started slipping and sliding so fast that the "Silver Egg" did not think it worth while to yank him and waste any more pitching timber.

The visitors hammered out thirteen bingles. They slipped their over the fence and inside the fence—they whined the shoals to all corners of the turf and their swate mostly dropped "where they ain't." All that can be said of the feat is that it is good enough for all parties concerned for the Sacks who scampers over the bases, the scorpions who chased after the heels, the umpires who kept the game on its feet and the cheering and the fans who tried to keep track of what it was all about.

VISITORS SCORE.

Slagle walked through two innings without running into any snags, but in the third the Senators got their scoring legs. Slagle rapped out the first of his four safe walks during the exhibition, was sacrificed to second, stole third and came home when Slinn was retired on Howard's sensational assist.

Two hits, two bases and Brooks' wild throw let two scores in in the fourth inning by walking Slinn, who stole second. Swain lifted probably the longest hit of the season over the left garden barrier, scampering over the left garden barrier and the two Sacramento runners trotted over the circuit.

The Laxmachers rested on their oars till the eighth, when four bingles and a double sent two over the rubber. The Scorpions filled the bases in the third with two bingles and a holdout to hold himself to the pinnacle of fame when he popped to Lewis. Williams hit a home run in the next ones, took third on Core's rip to right and pranced home on Brooks' sacrifice fly. Score: Senators 10, Angels 0.

DURBIN IS CANNONADED AND OAKS AGAIN LOSE

Home Run by Howley and Hits by Temple and Butler Put Oaks in Losers' Column Again

PORTLAND, April 27.—Was there ever such a battle? History says nay. Listen. You never knew from one minute to the other what was going to happen. It was a succession of reciprocal anti-climaxes, as the high-browed, bespectacled guardians of our English would say. Anyhow, the Beavers came out of it right side up with care and 6 to 5 pyrographed in imposing figures on the spot nearest the eye.

When the Oakland make two on errors, Howley kicked in with a homer that tied up the score. When the Beavers binged enough to lead two, the Oaks shattered in ghoulish glee and compelled Gilligan and Steiger to issue enough passes to even the score.

When Temple momentarily rode the ball out of the park, the Oaks came back and tied the count on an out.

But when, eye, when Chabourne lifted his hero this afternoon, no come back and the Beavers won the most nerve-racking game of years. It evened up the series and we are now on an even footing in the series.

Our own little backyard with the league leaders.

BUTLER GAINS HONORS.

If Klawitter, the bridgegroom, can beat whomever Mr. Sharpe sends against the visitors this afternoon, the home guard will have capped their first series and started on their hard spurt to overcome the leaders.

Some honor to Butler, the new shortstop, who fielded nine chances perfectly and added much in the run getting. Klawitter to Phillips, with three hits to Arthur Krueger with one and two to the credit burners, Howley and Temple.

Must Watch Gamblers.
With the closing of poolrooms and the stopping of betting on horse races the sportsman is left with a certain amount of attention to baseball and already he is becoming a menace to the game. While there is no open betting indulged in at the ball parks—where the Beavers and Cal Bings are opposed to it and are watching the fellows that bet with an eye on the prize—there is a large number of them in the quarters to a large extent. It is no trouble at all for a gambler to get his money down in several clear stores and over in San Francisco along Ellis and Powell streets and at the end of the games he can collect just as easily, less the commissions of the pool sellers. The wagering on contests of skill—that is baseball, fighting and other sports—is covered by the California bill and it is a felony. Cal Bings was the only man, though, who really secured a conviction of a better on baseball terms in the better—where the Beavers and Cal Bings are opposed to it and are watching the fellows that bet with an eye on the prize—there is a large number of them in the quarters to a large extent. 3 FLANDERS CARS IN SANTA MONICA

Studebaker Co. Enters Little Machines in Next Saturday's Race.

Two Flanders "20" motor cars have been entered in the Santa Monica road race, to be completed at the famous California course next Saturday, May 4. The cars have been named in the event by the Studebaker corporation's Los Angeles branch. They will be driven by Bob Evans and Jack Tower. The pilots are now at Los Angeles, engaged in tuning their cars for the event. This information has just been received by Harvey Burrell, local Studebaker manager. It is possible that these entries may be followed by a third car driven by Frank Witt. This will enable the Studebaker forces to be represented by the same trio which established a world's record in the Tiedeman trophy race on the grand prize course at Savannah last fall, where their 20-M-P "30" cars finished first, second, and third, making a clean sweep of the trophies and prize money, despite the chancy nature of the large field of rival cars. Witt, however, is at present on important work with the Studebaker sales department and may not be able to get away for the race. Evans and Tower are among the best known pilots of light cars and are both well represented in the table of world's records compiled by the American Automobile association.

Tower's campaign in 1911 was mostly on the eastern tracks, where he won a total of 16 races out of 21 starts, his 20-M-P "30" being often raced out of its class, due to the lack of competition in the 15-20 division. Evans, who will be remembered as the driver of a Flanders "20" in a successful season, won all 11 races he entered in the 15-20 division last fall, is undoubtedly the smallest race driver of all the army registered with the "Three A." In the trim, with knees on "fighting" legs, he weighs in at exactly 126 pounds—some pound more than the legal limit required for the class. Contrary to all the canons of racing, as most of the drivers incline to the burly, broad-shouldered type. At the wheel of his Flanders "20" in the Santa Monica, Evans will look like a high school boy. Despite his apparent lack of beef, however, little "fighting" Bob has shown that he can handle a Studebaker car of either the

ENTRIES COMING IN FOR 500-MILE SPEEDWAY RACE

The entries for the second annual 500-mile sweepstakes race at the Indianapolis motor speedway keep showing up, and there is every indication that this year's race will be even greater than the struggle last Decoration Day. The management has in hand assurances that at least twenty-five cars will start, while not more than thirty starters will be permitted. The public interest in the race is proved by the fact that the demand for seats far exceeds that of last year.

NEGRO IN SHEET FRIGHTENS GIRLS

Young Woman Awakes to Find Man in Room; the Intruder Arrested.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—Miss Emily Burns was sleeping in the same room with her two sisters, Misses Agnes and Theresa, at their home, 1825 North Harrison avenue, Thursday night, when an unusual noise awoke her. She was startled to see a white bedspread, which had been thrown across a chest when she retired, gliding slowly across the floor. As she stared at the thing in amazement, she thought she could see the contour of a human form beneath the spread. Then she screamed. The apparition materialized into a husky young negro.

Simultaneously, Miss Emily's sisters awoke, and although they scarcely realized what was the matter, each sat up in bed and began to scream. Miss Emily ran out of the room at the moment her father, Dennis Burns, 45 years old, ran in. The negro struck Burns over the right eye.

Thomas Walsh, a policeman of the Mounted District, was asleep in the apartment upstairs occupied by himself and his wife when the commotion started. Miss Emily frantically appealed to him for help. Walsh seized his revolver and ran down stairs in his pajamas.

POLICEMAN EMBARRASSED. Burns and the young women had blocked the negro's escape from the room. The negro surrendered when Walsh arrived with the revolver. Walsh made him put up his hands and was preparing to search him when the policeman suddenly began to blush.

Until this moment he had forgotten the scantiness of his apparel. He called to his wife to throw down his trousers.

A new difficulty arose when he got the trousers, as he couldn't get into them and hold the negro at the same time. He was afraid to risk putting the weapon into the hands of the nervous and excited Burns. He decided to put the revolver on a chair for the moment.

He had put one leg into the trousers when the negro grabbed the revolver. Walsh hit him on the jaw so hard that he fell to the floor dazed. Burns threw himself upon the man as he fell, seizing him by the throat. Walsh wrestled the revolver away from him. Then he sent Burns for a clothline. Not until the prisoner was safely tied did Walsh resume his dressing.

At the Dorton Street Police Station the negro gave the name of Elmer Humphrey. He said he was the son of a negro preacher living at 4283 Kennerly avenue. He said he ran into the Burns home and hid under the bedspread to escape some enemies who had been pursuing him through the streets.

Miss Theresa, 20 years old, youngest of the Burns sisters, became hysterical after it was all over and a physician was called to attend her.

RATS UNHARMED BY PIE, OMAN UT OF PRISON

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 27.—Mrs. Hannah Culp, under arrest on a charge of attempting to kill her husband by feeding him with poison and glass filled pie, was vindictive when the grand jury refused to find a bill against her.

At the time of her arrest Mrs. Culp offered to eat the pie to prove that there was no glass or poison in it. Since then rats and mice have carried away the pie, and no dead rodents have been found on the premises.

DIAMOND TIRES ARE ON WINNING REO

The Fresno road race, which took place last Sunday near that city, is reported by all who participated in same to have been one of the hardest ever run in this State. Eight miles of the course of fourteen was in very bad shape, being extremely rough and choppy. There are four difficult turns and a crow-screw road, so naturally this race, a 200-mile event, was a severe strain on both cars and tires.

This race was won by a Reo car, which made extra fine time. Diamond mounted type tires were the equipment, and they came through without a scratch, which speaks extra well for their quality, considering all the severe conditions encountered.

The Reo was the only car equipped with Diamonds, and was the only car that did not lose any time from tire trouble.

Build Monster Nobby Tire

The largest automobile tire ever built for practical use is the 35x3 Nobby tread, being put out by the United Tire Company.

These tires were made for use on heavy trucks and are giving general satisfaction in various parts of the country.

The huge look-and-ladder truck of the Indianapolis fire department uses these tires, and they have been found very serviceable on sight-seeing wagons in the East. These tires were exhibited at all the Eastern shows and attracted considerable attention.

HUDSON SALESMEN REPORT PROSPERITY

That the feeling of optimism which pervades most sections of the United States indicates the sway of a great national wave of prosperity was the gist of the reports made by district sales managers of the Hudson Motor Car Company, who held the annual convention this week at Detroit, Mich.

One of the startling points that was brought out at the convention was the scarcity of Hudson cars which has already been felt, though spring has hardly begun, in many sections of the country. The fact that cars were snapped up as rapidly as dealers could get them was a significant indication.

The district sales managers had just previously toured their territories to accumulate data and statistics on conditions, and they came to Detroit loaded with material that was gathered first hand. Farm conditions, which are the basis of the country's prosperity, are reported excellent, for the plowing is proceeding at a rapid clip in most sections, and it is figured that there is plenty of moisture in the ground to guarantee an excellent crop for the year. Except in a few sections of the country which are in the grip of floods, it was agreed that the spring and summer of this year would be the most prosperous period in several years.

SACRAMENTO IS GOOD MARKET FOR ELECTRICS

Charles H. Graham, the owner of the Sacramento baseball team and the agent for the Baker electric in the capital city, paid the Standard Motor Car Company a visit this week. He claims that Sacramento is the best town for electric in California. The surrounding level country and the good roads make it a delightful place for women to drive. This, coupled with the fact that the climatic conditions permit of women going abroad in light, artistic gowns, does much to popularize the silent electric.

METER INSPECTORS RIDE IN MAXWELL AUTOS

When the gasmen call to inspect and read the meters in residences in San Diego, Cal., they arrive in automobiles. Two new Maxwell cars have been added to the original fleet of five machines.

Record Maxwell Shipment

This is the season of big shipments in the automobile business. A special order for Maxwell cars, placed by the United Motor Boston Company, required thirty-five freight cars to make the shipment, and 105 automobiles were delivered to the Boston firm in one lot. This is claimed to be the largest single shipment ever made to New England.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10" Oversize

Over 11,000,000 Used

Note this fact—you men who buy tires.

The amazing demand for Goodyear tires comes after a million have been used.

It comes after men have tried them on some 200,000 cars.

After those tests—after 13 years—this tire now outsells all others. Half your tire cost will be saved when you find out why.

Our Patent Tire

This new type of tire, as we make it, is controlled by the Goodyear process.

It depends on the fact that bands of 136 braided wires are woven into the tire body.

These bands permit us to make a tire that is not bent to the rim flange.

By your removable rim flanges only be curved outward. And the tire, when wholly or partly deflated, breathes out a soundless flange.

No Other Way

Any other way has not been found to make a safe use of this type. Single wires or twisted wires won't do.

So the wide-spread demand for tires that can't rim-cut is centered on Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

When you change to this type don't adopt an experiment. Get the tire of which one million have been tested out.

No Extra Price

No-Rim-Cut tires are made 10 per cent oversize, to give you an over-tired car.

That means 10 per cent more size—40 per cent added carrying capacity. And that, with the average car, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

This added mileage, plus the saving of rim-cutting, cuts tire bills in two. Yet these patented tires—these oversize tires—now cost no more than other standard tires.

Their sale in two years has increased 800 per cent.

"More!—More!!"

There has never been a season when the demand for Goodrich Tires did not exceed by thousands the utmost capacity of our factories . . . Every year the demand has outstripped even the increases which we anticipated and tried to provide for. This year we have met the issue by a which will enable us to care for dealers and users to the fullest extent.

GOODRICH TIRES

have always supplied a natural, unfettered, intelligent demand—created solely by the service which these tires give to users.

Increasing every year on account of the cheerful testimony of satisfaction which Goodrich Tires were given to other users.

Such a demand concerns itself very little with technical talking points—but it is mightily interested in the answers to straightforward questions like—"Did your tires wear well?" and—"How did the Goodrich Company treat you?"

To have the confidence and support of a vast body of intelligent, experienced consumers is our best asset. And it's your most positive assurance of real tire value.

Goodrich Tires are the original American tire—made in the U.S.A. with the White Tough tread.

All styles to fit all cars, for all purposes.

Supplied by one hundred branches and service stations; the most complete system ever established to care for tire dealers and tire users after sale.

QUAKER TRAINING STILL ADHERED TO

J. W. Moon Lives Up to Policies Laid Down Early in Business Life.

J. W. Moon, president of the Moon Motor Car company of St. Louis, is a Quaker, having been born and raised in a Quaker community in Brown county, Ohio.

Here, in this Quaker community where Mr. Moon attended the typical Quaker schools and churches, he laid down the policy of square dealing that is noticed in the construction of Moon motor cars.

This religious sect is characterized by its absence of outward rites and an ordained ministry, by simplicity of dress and speech and by opposition to war and a desire to live at peace with all men. It was first founded by George Fox of Lestershire, England, about 1650. One of the peculiar features of the Quaker community in which Mr. Moon was raised was the fact that they had no jail—it was unnecessary.

When Mr. Moon commenced his business life he adhered to his early Quaker training. People found his goods O. K. and even today the Quaker policy, crops out in his automobiles. Here everything is done that speaks for quality. Mr. Moon's success came slowly. It was built on a foundation of sound, square business dealing. Today Mr. Moon enjoys a reputation for quality of his products second to none. People who know, realize that such a policy as Mr. Moon's, carried out with such fidelity as he carries it out, must produce a car that is well worth the price asked for it.

MITCHELL FACTORY TAXED FOR SPACE

Additional Buildings Not Big Enough to Care for Large Business.

The tremendous growth of the automobile industry, even to those constantly in touch with the manufacture of cars, is a marvel.

With more than 250 makers already in the field it would seem that the growth in the demand for any particular make would be comparatively small. Yet each year the leading builders find extensions necessary. Buildings are erected with a view to caring for expected normal increases and sometimes to provide for these increases over several years.

But, notwithstanding these precautions, according to E. L. Peacock of Osen & Hunter Co., the Mitchell-Lewis Motor company, have been forced to a most unusual procedure in order to provide space for the final assembling of the cars made necessary by the tremendous influx of orders from both domestic and foreign agencies.

This extension is in the form of one of the largest tents ever built and which has been erected on their property. This huge canvas adds to their already enormous floor space more than 45,000 square feet. The present capacity of the plant is 1,000 cars per month and indications would seem to show the necessity for immediate extensions to provide for double that number.

Manufacturers from various other parts of the country report an unusually large business and 1912 bids far to be the banner year in the automobile business.

STEARNS-KNIGHT TO BE SOLD IN AUSTRALIA

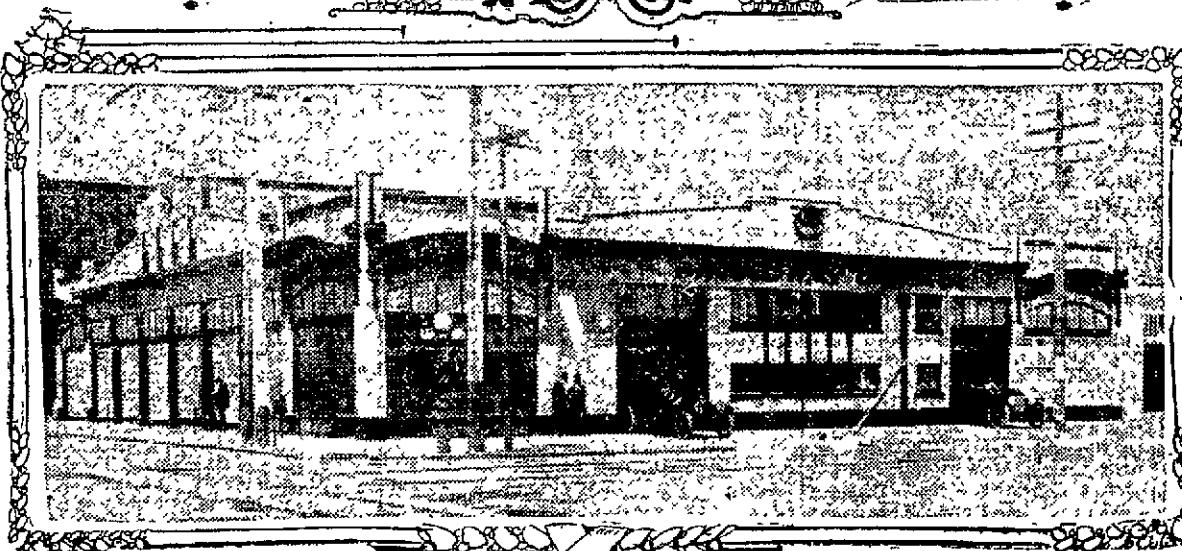

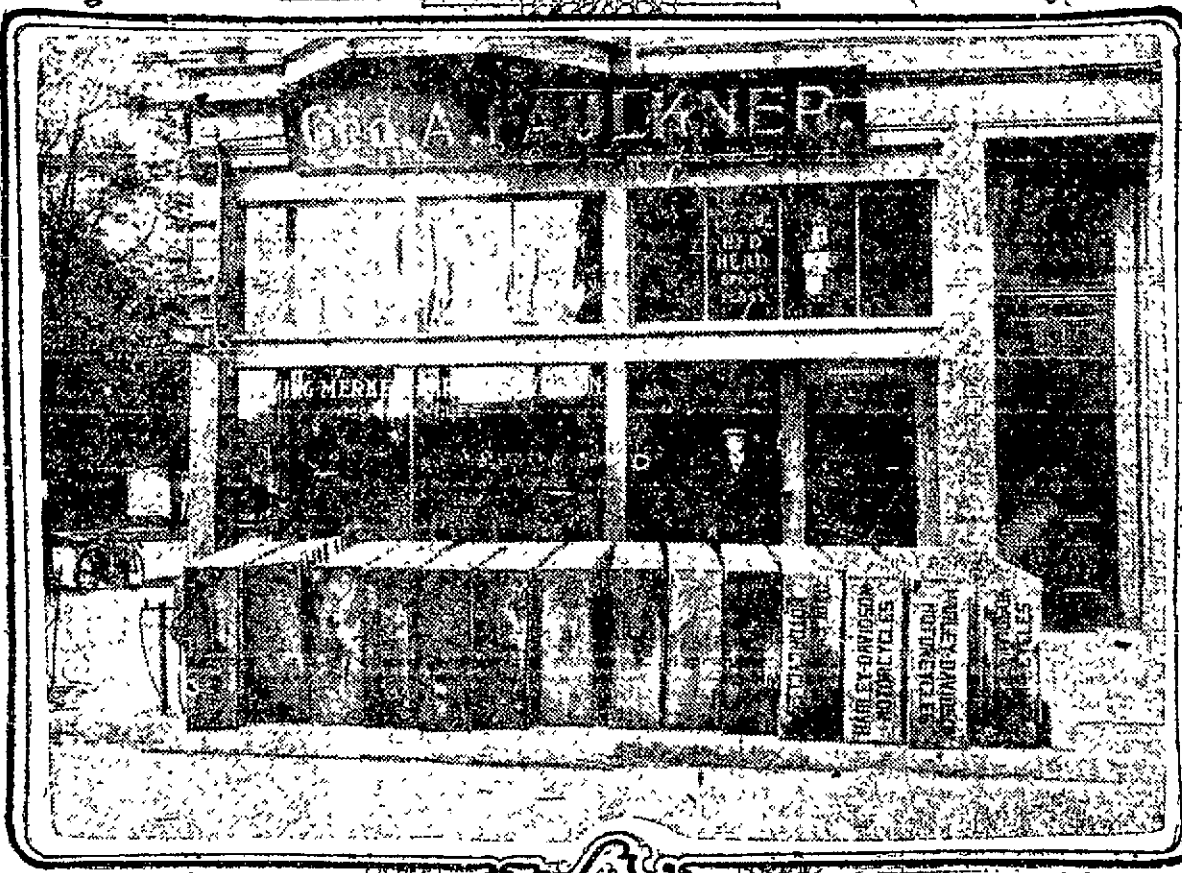

That the splendid reputation of the Stearns-Knight car is rapidly spreading over the entire world, as well as the United States, is proven by the announcement made in New York last week that a deal has been closed for Australia, with one of the largest Australian importing firms.

The firm in question has for some time been exporting American-made cars to Australia. Of late their New York office has been receiving a great many requests for Knight-motored cars, and they naturally turned to the Stearns-Knight.

REV. HORN TO SPEAK

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—"Why Did Jesus Die on the Cross?" will be the subject of Rev. J. W. Horn's sermon tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at Centenary Southern Methodist Church, Bush street, between Gough and Octavia. At 7:45 he will preach on "A Night of Revelry in a King's Palace."

Here's the way George Faulkner gets in his Harley Davidson motorcycles. Last week nearly two dozen of the new models were received.

The Broadway Garage, just opened, managed by the Jordan brothers, a complete and fireproof structure.

NORTH OBSERVES GOOD ROADS DAY

Gov. Hay of Washington Takes Part in Repairing of Roads.

Good roads day in the State of Washington, which was observed April 12, meant much for the Pacific highway.

Governor M. E. Hay toured over the worst sections of this international route in the State and did actual construction in helping repair the same. The territory he covered was in Lewis and Clark counties. In the southern part of Lewis county just south of Toledo 150 men were out celebrating good roads day by repaving their section of the Pacific highway.

Recent motorists who have made the trip between Seattle and Portland have complained bitterly about the present condition of the road. However, with the interest that was stirred up by the observation of good roads day, there is no question but what this international route through the southern part of the Evergreen State will be immediately repaired so that all kinds of travel can pass safely and comfortably over it during the rest of the season.

Another announcement that is welcome is the information that Victoria, B. C. association would make the Pacific highway convention at San Francisco in August the objective point of one of their club tours. With Victoria, Seattle and Portland clubs making the run to San Francisco and back, the trip will be a great deal of interest.

Every community through which the route of three nations passes will be urged to make all possible improvements before the time of this annual gathering at San Francisco. Most of the motorists in the State of Oregon are actively making plans to take one of their share of the work. There is no question but what there will be 10 times as much tourist travel over the Pacific highway route this year as there has been during any previous season.

HORSE OF LAWYER HUNTS MUSHROOMS FOR OWNER

DATON, Ohio, April 27.—A high stepping saddle horse which hunts mushrooms and finds them for its owner is a prized possession of Colonel A. A. Thomas, legal counsel to the National Cash Register Company here. Thomas, who is an accomplished mushroom hunter, on his excursions after the elusive fungi lately has been in the habit of going horseback.

The horse has developed a "nose" for the sprouts, and comes to a dead stop when he sees one, to allow the rider to dismount and uproot the tidbit. The attorney has had offers of handsome prices for the animal on many occasions, which since the secret leaked out, have been almost doubled, but he will not listen to any of them.

WOMAN SINGS HIGH NOTE, EXPIRES 3 HOURS LATER

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., April 27.—While singing a hymn in the church where she had always been a member, Mrs. Anna Self strangled herself in such a manner as to cause a cerebral hemorrhage. She died at her home.

Mrs. Self mounted to the choir loft as soon as the services commenced. She sang a solo, then joined in a song with other members of the choir. Later, when she was midway through another solo, she was seen to collapse into her chair while in the middle of an unusually high note, and died several hours later.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG MEN

Cadillac Co. Claim the Lack of Good Men; to Cope With Situation.

The motor car manufacturing business has grown with such leaps and bounds that makers frequently find themselves handicapped because of lack of men available to take responsible and well paying positions. This condition is due largely to the fact that there has not been sufficient opportunity for young men to acquire the practical and technical knowledge necessary in this young industry.

Some time ago Henry M. Leland, of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., after much consideration and planning, determined to meet the situation and establish a school of applied mechanics to be conducted in connection with the Cadillac plant. The principal object is to train up young men in accordance with the Cadillac ideals in order to have men available when openings are presented.

The time required to complete the course is two years and during that time instruction is given in most branches of automobile manufacturing. Students are paid from 14 to 17 cents per hour and are given a bonus of $100 upon a satisfactory completion of the two years' course. Young men of 18 years, or older, are taken and must abstain from the use of cigarettes and intoxicants. The training is an excellent one for young men who want to pave the way to become draftsmen, tool designers, foremen, or mechanical engineers.

There's hardly anything more expensive than paying to go through courses that teach you how to do things with scientific cheapness.—New York Press.

GIRL HELPS TO TRAP AN ALLEGED THIEF

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—While on his way to keep an appointment with a young woman, Harry J. Gooner was arrested by Detectives Beccard and Blanchfield Thursday night on a charge of stealing $38 and 2 watches from his employer, Gilbert Flegg, a jeweler, at 606 Olive street.

The money and watches were missed after Gooner disappeared from the store Tuesday and the loss was reported to the police. While searching Gooner's room, at 2212 Locust street, the detectives found the address of a young woman employed in the "West End." They saw her and she agreed to make an appointment with Gooner to aid them in capturing him.

She did this, she said, because he had falsely represented to her that he was proprietor of the jewelry store.

CHALMERS CHASES TONG GUN MEN

Helps in Capture of Shooting Warriors With Penfield Playing Hero.

Talk about deeds of daring! There's a story to tell in which one of our well-known automobile salesmen, played "the" big part.

Thursday night the Tong men turned loose on one of the weekly social like shooting affairs which apparently have become with them a custom of no little popularity.

C. A. Penfield, manager of the Pioneer Automobile Company, happened in the neighborhood at the time, en route to the Chalmers showroom in a new Chalmers 88 touring car. Hearing the shots, he headed for the scene of the disturbance, arriving in time to see one of the band of Young China fall to the ground, a victim of the fire of two of his countrymen.

Following the gun play the two Mongolians beat a hasty retreat down Webster street toward the water front, with Penfield and his Chalmers in pursuit. Reaching Third street the two made for the lumber piles. Forming a plan of action on the spur of the moment our motor car friend threw speed limit precautions to the four winds. Reaching Seventh and Broadway he secured police assistance and returned to the scene.

Throwing the light of the Chalmers lamps into the secluded corners of the spot chosen by shooting champs as a hiding place, Penfield soon unearthed one of the two and a speedy capture was effected by the officers. The second one, in the meantime, escaped unnoticed, only to be discovered by Penfield as he was boarding a suburban car. He, too, was soon in the arms of the law, and there ended what otherwise might have been an unsuccessful hunt for the culprits.

"THE CHURCH AND SOCIALISM." SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—In his Sunday evening sermon tomorrow, Rev. Charles N. Lathrop, rector of the Church of the Advent, will discuss "The Church and Socialism," in the second of the series of four Sunday evening sermons on vital social problems. The church is situated on Fall street, between Franklin and Gough.

5 CENTS A WEEK FOR TWO YEARS

NEW YORK, April 27.—It will take Harold Remsen of No. 3 East Sixty-second street, one hundred weeks to collect the bequest left him by his wife, Mrs. Louise Remsen, from the time of the first payment. And the bequest amounts to only $5. The will of Mrs. Remsen was filed in the Surrogate's office. She left real estate valued at $5000 and personal property valued at $2500.

Without comment or explanation the testatrix left to Mr. Remsen $5, which she directed should be paid in installments of five cents a week. If this provision is strictly carried out and the weekly allowance is mailed to the beneficiary, the postage will amount to nearly half of the bequest. Mrs. Remsen died on March 25, and her address was given as No. 405 East 122d street. She gave to her sister, Emma Mollen, $1000; Charles Nelson, a brother, $1000; and Degmar Nielsen, of Copenhagen, Denmark, a friend, $1000. The residue goes to her son, Carl Remsen.

FARMERS OPPOSE COPPER SMELTER

Offer to Deposit Indemnity
Money Does Not Attract Protestants.

ANDERSON, Cal., April 27.—The Shasta county Farmers' Protective Association, in session here today, declined to accept the offer of the Butte-Columbia Copper Company to establish a smelter at Corum, depositing $250,000 indemnity against injury to crops. The fund was to have been administered by a committee consisting of one farmer, one company man and one man appointed by the court, the committee to pay all damages proven to have resulted from smelter smoke. The farmers declared by a rising vote that the smelter of the Mammoth Copper Company at Kennett was injuring crops and a majority of those attending voted in favor of appealing to the smelter company. The president of the association declared no such action would be instituted until there was sufficient money in the reserve fund of the association to pay for the prosecution.

WOMAN TESTIFIES IN BASEBALL SUIT

Says Steinger Did Not Handle
Finances of St. Louis Team.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—Mrs. Helen Hathaway Robinson-Britton testifies before Referee R. P. Spencer today in the suit which she brought against President E. A. Steinger of the St. Louis National League Baseball Club to recover shares of stock in the club, said Steinger had nothing to do with the financial success of the club. "It was the ball players that made the money. It was not the president," she said decisively. After the death of M. Stanley Robinson, owner of the club, the club's shares were placed in the hands of Steinger as executor of the estate. Later Steinger turned the stock over to Mrs. Britton, and now Steinger wants to vote the stock, which, while in Mrs. Britton's possession, is in his name. Mrs. Britton testified she only recently lost confidence in Steinger and that he is unwilling to let her know anything about her business. She was instructed to bring the stock into court Monday.

CORPORATIONS TO BE SUED FOR TAX

Several Hundred Actions to Be Filed by State Before
May 4.

SACRAMENTO, April 27.—Acting on the advice of the attorney-general, the state is preparing several hundred suits which will be filed against corporations which refused or failed to pay their taxes for last year, for the purpose of compelling them to pay. State Controller Nye announced today that all the suits would be filed on or before May 4 and they would be vigorously prosecuted through the courts. Under the new tax law the state has power to bring action for the recovery of delinquent taxes, and thereby heads off the former methods of the corporations allowing them to go by the board and causing the state to sell their property for taxes.

Cracked and Swollen. Could Not

Cure His Eczema. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

905 Lowell Place, Chicago, Ill.—"The trouble began by my hands burning and itching and I rubbed and scratched them till I saw little red sores coming out. My hands were disfigured and swollen, and troubled me so that I could not sleep. They were cracked and when the small sores broke a white matter would come out. I could not do any hard work, if I did the sores would come out worse. "For two years nobody could cure my eczema, until one day I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used warm water with the Cuticura Soap and after that I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands twice a day for about five or six months when I was completely cured." (Signed) Sam Marcus, Nov. 28, 1911.

SCRATCHED UNTIL BLOOD RAN

Camera Soap and Ointment Cured Little Girl.
2046 E. Ann St., Philadelphia, Pa.—"My little girl's trouble commenced with pimples on her face. Finally she got them behind her shoulders, then in her hair. At night they seemed worse. They itched and burned, and she scratched until blood ran from them. She had long light curls and when they got in her hair I was afraid I would have to have her hair cut. She was nearly crazy. The blood ran down her face and back. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and had not used quite two boxes when she was cured. I think Cuticura Soap and Ointment are worth their weight in gold." (Signed) Mrs. E. A. Cado, Sept. 26, 1911. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura Dept.", 7, Boston. Tender-faced men should share with Cuticura Soap shaving sticks.

BRILLIANT YOUNG LAWYER TO HANG OUT SHINGLE HERE

T. L. CHRISTANSON

After years devoted to the study of law in the east T. L. Christanson son of the late Captain H. L. Christanson of this city has returned home and will engage in the practice of law here. He will open offices as soon as he can make arrangements and get settled. For a time after graduating from the American Central Law school he practiced in Indianapolis having been connected with one of the leading law firms of that city. "The east is pleasant and the business is good," said the Oakland man "but I cannot endure the climate. It goes to extremes, first hot and then cold, and I believe that after all I cannot do better than to engage in my profession here." Christanson spent his boyhood in Oakland and received his early education in the public schools here. He made a brilliant record at the eastern law school being adjudged one of the best pupils in the institution.

OFFICIAL REPORT EXPLAINS FLOODS

Presents Facts and Figures.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The present disastrous floods of the Mississippi river and the inundation of the surrounding lowlands through the breaking of the levees suggest the inquiry: Are odds increasing in the United States? Present conditions are admittedly most unusual. Floods of both the Ohio and Missouri rivers swelling the already heavy flow of the Mississippi itself, and this has created what will probably pass down in history as the worst flood of the Mississippi since the settlement of the country. Precipitation—either snow or rain—must ultimately take two courses either along the surface of the ground or down into water-courses or into the ground by percolation, with subsequent discharge into the rivers by seepage. The water which comes out of the ground is not absorbed into the ground and which therefore must flow along the earth's surface. According to M. O. Leighton chief hydrographer of the United States Geological Survey in "Water-supply Paper 211" which contains papers on the Conservation of Water Resources "there are five classes of agencies or conditions affecting the flow of streams. The first is climate, under which are comprised rainfall, evaporation, temperature, wind, and humidity. Although these are exceedingly variable from day to day and from season to season, the observations that have been recorded indicate that a period of years embraces all conditions in the mean of them may be considered fairly constant. There is very little evidence except in special areas that reveals any progressive and permanent change in climatic conditions. The second agency is topography and the third agency is both of which may be considered absolutely stable. The fourth is surface vegetation which includes forest cover and cultivated land. The fifth consists of artificial agencies such as storage reservoirs and dams which produce rapid and marked effects on river discharge. "When the physical conditions on the drainage areas are summed up the one great change that has been produced in the vegetative conditions is the reduction of forest area. On some of these drainage areas it has occurred by slow progression and on others more rapidly. It is certain that in some areas this forest cutting has caused barren conditions because the land was of such a character that after it was relieved of forest protection it eroded easily and its productive portions were quickly swept into watercourses. "Summarily, therefore, it may be stated with confidence that the increase in flood tendency shown so unobtrusively in the past is by far the largest measure to the denudation of forest areas. A complete census of flood damages for any one series of years has never been attempted but a few years ago the United States Geological Survey made inquiry of all the railroads of the United States concerning flood losses during the period January 1, 1900 to August 1, 1908. The railroads were selected for this purpose because it is well known that they are the backbone of our commerce and extent subject to far greater damage than any other single interest and it was believed that from the figures so procured a fairly representative basis of estimate might be obtained. "The following table gives the resulting estimates from 1900 to 1908 inclusive.

Year	Percentage of total mileage re-noted	Estimated total damage
1901	22.0	5,520,100
1902	27.3	9,722,000
1903	31.2	7,884,100
1904	33.3	9,855,000
1905	37.3	7,512,400
1906	29.3	11,821,000
1907	27.4	28,786,000
1908

"From previous studies of this matter it appears that the railroad losses resulting from floods amount to about 10 per cent of the total loss arising therefrom including of course the direct single item of loss which is the destruction of realty values arising from flood menace."

LARGE SALES OF PROPERTY ARE MADE

Corner of Sixteenth Street and San Pablo Avenue Is Sold for $500,000.

The largest downtown property sale of the year was reported last week in the transfer of the southeast corner of San Pablo avenue and Sixteenth street, owned by the Butters estate, to William G. Hoffman, a Vancouver capitalist, the consideration being $500,000. The transaction establishes a value of $2000 a front foot on San Pablo avenue, in the city hall section, and on the edge of the new retail section. The corner, which is now improved with a two-story office and store building, adjoining the site of the Kahn Arcade store under construction, is to be the location of a modern business structure, to be erected by the new owner.

This sale is significant as an evidence that the area of high values in the business district is still expanding and that the tendency is steadily northward. The corner sold will gain in value through the extension of Washington street into San Pablo avenue near that point. Its proximity to the new Kahn store, to the new city hall and to the rapidly growing retail section on and near Clay street, also makes the property an extremely profitable investment.

A continuance of activity in the sale of business property during the last week is reported by Oakland brokers. Next in importance to the shifting of a large part of the shopping district to Clay street, which has been in progress for the last few years, is the extraordinary development of Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets, between Clay and Market.

Work of wrecking a two-story residence on the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Grove streets, preparatory to the erection of a $150,000 five-story modern hotel by H. C. Morris and F. A. Muller, was begun during the week, and the erection of the structure will progress rapidly. Morris and Muller bought 125 feet on Fourteenth by 100 feet on Grove from Wilhem Havens a few weeks ago, and they will build on a 40 foot frontage on Grove street.

A building permit was obtained by R. J. Favert, through the Security Mortgage and Building company, for a six-story concrete hotel and store building at the southeast corner of Fifteenth and Jefferson streets, which is to cost $150,000.

LARGE SALES.

The most important downtown sale of the week was the transfer of the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Clay streets from the Ball estate, composed of Mrs. Chief N. A. Ball, Frances J. and Thomas A. Ball, to M. Friedman of San Francisco, for $150,000. The property, which is occupied by residence improvements, has a frontage of 60 feet on Clay street and 100 on Sixteenth. Friedman has not yet decided what use he will make of his purchase, but on account of the rapid spread of the retail section, which has now reached Clay and Fifteenth streets, a house on the corner will not long be left before being improved by the erection of a large business structure.

Another sale was added to the long list of those made recently on Sixteenth street in the purchase last week by Robert D. Nelson, Jr., of a lot 75x103 feet on the south side of Sixteenth, fifty feet east of Jefferson, from Jacob Frederick, for $50,000. David McLaughlin, of the C. J. Heesman firm, is planning to build a business structure on a lot adjoining.

A third sale within a week of business property on Franklin and Webster streets was reported a few days ago, being the transfer of the Williamette house, on the southeast corner of Tenth and Franklin streets, together with the ground which it occupies, from M. Friedman, buyer of the Clay street property mentioned, to C. R. Lewis, a capitalist, who has been making purchases of property on upper Broadway and in other parts of the city.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY EXTENSIONS ARE INCREASING

The Key Route and S. P. Show Rivalry; Alameda-Oakland Line Planned.

Improvement of suburban electric railway facilities continues, and last week there were further evidences of progress in this line.

The Southern Pacific officials have notified the Alameda city council that the inauguration of the Alameda-Oakland service via the Eighth street cross-town line would have taken place before this date were it not for the delay in the receipt of the special type of cars ordered for this line. The cars have been expected for the last two months. It is now believed that the service will be in operation early in May.

Key Route two-car trains began running on East Twelfth street as far as the junction at High street, where the California railway branches off to Mills College and Leona Heights.

The Southern Pacific is showing a strong spirit of rivalry in this direction, having begun more than a week ago its

BEAUTIFUL BODY OF WATER IS IN CENTER OF GREAT PARK SYSTEM

Lake Merritt is one of the natural possessions which is being combined with man's handiwork to create a city beautiful.

After many years the city is making practical use of this priceless body of water, located almost in the heart of Oakland. It is to be the chief attraction in a mammoth water park, which will be unsurpassed by any other pleasure spot in the country.

Already great progress has been made in the creation of a park system which is to surround the lake. Lakeside Park, on the northern shores, is to be the principal breathing place of the city, and is now being visited by thousands of residents during week days and on Sundays, when band concerts add to its attractiveness.

The Twelfth street dam is being improved, and south of this structure another park is to be created on reclaimed land. The new city auditorium is to be located on this site, according to present plans. The western shores of the lake, where giant willow trees have given the spot a name, have been landscaped, and form an important link in the chain of parks. In the midst of the tract is the municipal museum. Almost completely surrounding the lake are boulevards which connect with the hill roads and other parts of the city, and attract automobilists to the lakeshore.

The view of Oakland's new business structures from the east side of the lake is one of the most fascinating in the city, the natural features of the foreground mingling in the picture with the architectural monuments in the downtown district.

On the eastern and northern sides of the lake new residence districts have grown up within the last few years which are among the most delightful in the city.

new service to Fitchburg. The extension has been completed that far from Melrose and is to be built to San Leandro this summer.

The Key Route, however, will enter competition with a vengeance when its extension to San Jose is built. Lots in numerous tracts in East Oakland and environs are reported to be selling with increased rapidly on account of the improvement in transportation.

The Southern Pacific is preparing to extend its Berkeley loop system into Richmond, having obtained rights of way along the Panhandle boulevard. The construction of this line like that into San Leandro will bring much trade to Oakland.

A feature of the service on the new cross-town line of the Southern Pacific, between its Sixteenth-street and Franklin-street depots, is the system of transfers, enabling passengers on the various Berkeley electric trains traveling from the mole to change the cars at Sixteenth-street station which will carry them to points along the new line as far as Franklin and Fourteenth streets.

INDUSTRIAL ZONE IS PLANNED BY THE MUNICIPALITY

City Council Takes Step to Protect Residence Sections; Spite Fence.

Two movements of interest to real estate dealers and residents during the last week, both of which were taken up by the city council, were the plan to create an industrial zone in the city, and the business objectionable in residence districts, and proposed legislation regulating spite fences.

The city attorney has been instructed by the council to study the rights of the city with a view to introducing an amendment to the state constitution permitting cities to create industrial zones. The intention is to prevent industries, bakeries, breweries and similar concerns from encroaching upon residence sections. The proposal has been taken up in co-operation with San Francisco and Los Angeles.

In the interest of persons who may be aggrieved and of the city in general, it is proposed, in an ordinance just introduced in the council, to restrict fences to a height of six feet when erected for the purpose of annoying the owners or occupants of adjoining property. The law provides that persons injured shall have recourse to court action for the damage sustained and prohibits the intent of annoyance must be proven.

MANUFACTURES ARE CITY'S BOAST

The Industrial Plants Double in Number Every Five Years, According to Census.

Figures of the 1909 census of manufactures in Oakland and other east bay cities, taken by the United States government, have recently been published and show a remarkable increase in the number of plants and wage earners employed, as compared with the previous census taken in 1904. Both had almost doubled.

The Oakland district has more factories than any city in Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia or Wyoming.

In 1899 the number of factories in Oakland proper was 155; in 1904, 248; in 1909, 441. The figures show that the number almost doubled every five years. The wage-earners employed in Oakland in 1909 numbered 2476; in 1904, 3558; in 1909, 6505.

The statistics covering manufacturing development in Alameda and Berkeley show a corresponding increase. The number of factories in the east bay district in 1909 was 676 and the number of wage-earners 8904. These totals have been largely increased by the addition of new industries and more wage earners during the last three years.

The census figures are as follows:

	No. of Factories.	1909.	1904.	1899.
Oakland	441	248	155
Alameda	61	30	21
Berkeley	54	44	24
Total	556	322	200
	No. of Wage-Earners.	1909.	1904.	1899.
Oakland	2476	3558	2477
Alameda	815	279	271
Berkeley	1084	338	211
Total	4375	6565	3959

PROPERTY ON EIGHTEENTH SOLD

Another important sale in the business center has just been made through the real estate office of Geo. W. Austin, whereby J. H. Meyers of San Francisco sold to E. M. Wallace of Oakland lot 15x100 feet with old improvements on the South side of 18th street between Telegraph and San Pablo avenues. At the request of the parties interested, the actual consideration is kept private. All the parties to the deal were represented by John Andrew Jones of the real estate firm of Geo. W. Austin.

In addition to the foregoing, Jones says he has pending a business proposition involving $300,000. Austin's firm reports that it is doing the largest business in town property has done since the memorable excitement in the real estate market in the year 1904. George W. Austin reports having sold 4734 feet, northeast corner of Telegraph avenue and Twenty-fifth street, for H. Bradley, to N. Campbell and J. Spielman. This is another indication of the growth of the downtown business section and is one of many sales being made in that section by Austin and other real estate firms of Oakland.

103 MORTGAGES ARE RECORDED DURING WEEK

The report of County Recorder G. W. Bacon for the week ending last Wednesday is as follows:

	No.	Amount.

A comparison of the number of documents recorded last week, as compared with the corresponding week of 1911 is as follows:
1912-Deeds recorded	314	$71,429.96

CORNER SELLS FOR $500,000

Transactions in Sixteenth St.
Property Total More Than Million Dollars.

The consideration was approximately $500,000.

Lewis sold to Friedman five two-story buildings, containing ten flats, on the south side of Nineteenth street, between West and Market streets, for $300,000.

Both George Hammer and Howard Bray of the firm of Hammer-Bray Company, wholesale dealers in stoves and other hardware at Adams wharf, made purchases of Seventeenth street business property yesterday.

The latter bought a 100x100-foot lot on the north side of Seventeenth north of the postoffice from W. H. L. Hynes and Dr. O. D. Hamlin. The sellers obtained the lot recently from W. F. Jacobs of San Francisco for $20,000 and sold it at a liberal advance, the consideration being withheld. This is the third time the property has been sold within three weeks, Louis Brattin selling it in the first instance to Jacobs for $17,000. The property adjoins the Peter Thompson lot at the corner of Seventeenth street and Broadway, which is to be improved by the erection of a seven-story building to cost $200,000.

WHAT MARKET SHOWS.
A comprehensive review of realty conditions has been prepared for THE TRIBUNE by E. B. Bull, manager of the Frank K. Moti Company.

"The spring market is not the most simple topic in the world to discuss," said Bull. "True, it is easy enough to say that Oakland is stepping into a period of prosperity and that money is being coined on all sides, but I have found that the average reader wants a few facts to go with statements of this character. Facts that may be of some real definite value and have a direct bearing on present conditions, not future possibilities. Oakland has a greater opportunity at this time than her most ardent champion gives her credit for, and to use a well-known phrase, 'there's a reason.'"

"Several months ago the property between Fourteenth and Twenty-fifth along Broadway and over to Jefferson was in no way remarkable. It was in line for development, as was every other portion of the retail section, but instead of moving along at a natural pace it has taken the lead and forged ahead of the rest of the city, and at that the possibilities are scarcely touched upon. Buildings have sprung up quickly and locations above Fourteenth street are now commonly regarded as in the new retail district. Why has this portion of the downtown area been so fortunate? Will the movement grow or decrease? What effect will it have on property on the other side of Fourteenth to the east and west? These questions are very frequently heard and have a good deal to do with the immediate future.

"The answer to the first question is simple and in a way will cover all the others. Owners and investors have built on their property, knowing that tenants are plentiful. The building began at Fourteenth and Clay and crept steadily out, especially along Broadway as far as Twenty-fifth. There are other portions of downtown Oakland at the present time that are reasonable in price and in line for better things that will be heard from this spring. It has to a great extent been a process of education and owners in other sections are getting closer to each other and realize what big things can be done by a little concerted effort toward the development of any one locality. Tenants go where owners build and in this city the supply of tenants is practically unlimited. The past has proven that Oakland has a ready tenant to offer for every new building. The representatives of growing concerns, local and eastern, are constantly looking for floor space in good structures and are anxious to build at once will make no mistake.

"Our experience with homesites indicates that spring buying will be brisk and our pretty Eastlawn tract has surprised us in its appearance and activity. But the feature of the spring market is the change in the business district. Country lands have been a steady seller and most of the larger companies are finding it almost impossible to ignore this branch of the business. Exchanges have been a source of revenue and the trading end of the game is today an important item. Almost any discussion on any point of the realty market will wind up concerning the downtown situation and perhaps it is better to treat this as the backbone of the spring market."

HIGHLANDS TRACT PLACED ON SALE

Smith Bros. & Killingsworth, who are placing on sale this week Oakland Highlands, one of the finest marine view properties in the city, report the sale of a block of 42 lots to S. A. West and Mr. Pragg of Modesto, besides many individual sales to private parties.

Oakland Highlands is a solidly built-up section near the head of Fruitvale avenue.

INTERESTS MANY

William Havens (Incorporated) reports that the price set for suggestions for the beautification of Havenscourt, have not only resulted in numerous valuable ideas from the city, but architects and landscape artists from all over the Los Angeles have submitted suggestions.

One of these, Arthur S. Heinemann, said that the most noted beautification in the world, made a special trip from Los Angeles to inspect Havenscourt, and has laid out for it a comprehensive program of beautification.

W. H. Schmitt, the architect in charge of the planning and development of Havenscourt, has received many suggestions for the beautification of the park. Work on the park's entrance to Havenscourt begins this week, and this artistically planned drive, from the entrance to the park in northern California, will soon be completed.

BROOKSIDE MANOR LOTS TO BE SOLD

Tract to Go on Market Next Saturday After Year's Development.

After a year's work in development and an unlimited expenditure, the Belden Estate Co. announces the opening sale of Brookside Manor lots on next Saturday, May 4. Twelve months ago the tract was the home of Jonathan Hunt, and on account of its natural park features, was considered one of the handsomest places on this side of the bay. It lies just east of Piedmont avenue, north of Linda avenue. All its natural beauty has been taken advantage of and preserved, and further embellished by artistic ornamental features, including a 9-foot semicircular pergola, a 40-foot trellis, monolithic gateways and gasoliers, making it one of the prettiest exclusive private residence parks on the coast.

Two exclusive and pleasing features are the installing of all wires in underground conduits, eliminating unsightly poles from the streets, and the seclusion afforded by having but one entrance, which is a spacious, paved, double roadway, a block long, opening at Piedmont avenue, and called "Entrada Avenue." It is modeled after the world famous "Prado" in the city of Havana. This unique arrangement enables one to enjoy all the privacy and charm of a country home right in the heart of a great city with all the conveniences of the latter, such as stores, post office and schools within two blocks of the doors, and exceptional transportation facilities, two car lines and a Key Route depot two blocks away.

There are but 27 lots to be sold.

FIRM REPORTS $150,000 SALE

The sale of the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Clay streets by Fire Chief Ball, Francis J. Ball and A. Ball to M. Friedman of San Francisco, $150,000, last Thursday, was conducted through the agency of McNairy & Kaiser. The firm reports other sales, as follows:

For the account of Charles L. James of San Francisco to R. G. Harmon, 100 feet frontage on Broadway, near Piedmont avenue; terms private.

For H. A. Mosher to B. J. Saake, north side of Sixteenth street, near Castro, $10,500.

McNairy & Kaiser also report several sales now pending on Eighteenth, Frederick and Williams streets and Telegraph avenue. Their country department reports a good business and the firm has been compelled to open two branch offices. May 15 the agency will place on the market two miles of boulevard frontage between San Leandro and Hayward.

RAILROAD TO RUN ON BOULEVARD

Richmond-Annex tract extends from the County line north for over a mile and right through the center of this new tract is a ninety-foot boulevard. The boulevard has been laid out. Along this boulevard Southern Pacific will extend their line into Richmond.

This new Panhandle Boulevard shortens the distance between Richmond and Oakland about a mile, giving the Southern Pacific a short cut and advantage over the other lines.

The contractors are now grading the Panhandle Boulevard in Richmond-Annex and as soon as the elevations are known it is understood the Southern Pacific's engineers will set the elevation stakes for their double track line along this boulevard.

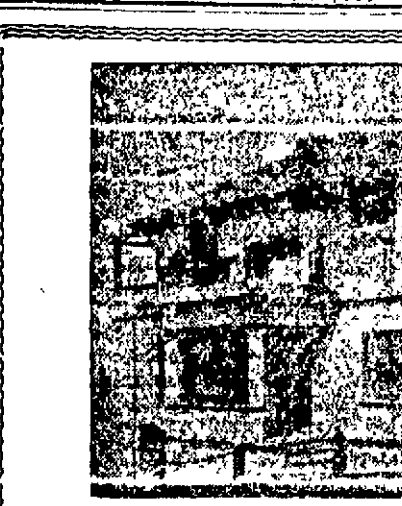

The coming of the Southern Pacific electric trains means a great deal for Richmond and Richmond-Annex. We will soon have the best transportation facilities of any district in California.

NEW PULLMAN TRACT OPENED

A. C. Parsons formerly of Los Angeles, has opened offices in rooms 800-801-802 Syndicate building. He contemplates doing a general real estate business but will specialize in subdivisions and large tracts of acreage.

Parsons for twelve years has been carried on this work exclusively in Los Angeles, and among other tracts he was the promoter of the Venetian City of Naples, located adjoining Long Beach.

Parsons announces that he has consummated a deal whereby he has obtained twenty and one-half acres of land, formerly known as the Leviston property.

Only $4750.00. This fine colonial house. Seven large rooms and basement. Hardwood floors, beam ceilings, large sleeping porch and other attractive features. The lot is large—plenty of room for a garage as well as a garden. House is located on high ground, with splendid marine view. Only two blocks from the S. P. local station—trains now running. Only one block from new car line soon to be constructed. $500.00 will put you in immediate possession of this splendid home. At the price of $4750.00 this place can not be duplicated.

Here Is What Is Being Done at RICHMOND ANNEX

On April 2 I let a contract to Bates, Borland & Ayer, the large Oakland and San Francisco contractors, for improvements on Richmond Annex amounting to $500,000.00.

These improvements will be of the same nature as are found in Piedmont, Claremont or Berkeley's best residence sections, and I am going to give them absolutely FREE to all who buy in Richmond-Annex.

Oiled macadam-paved streets, curbs, concrete gutters, cement sidewalks, water mains, storm sewers with catch basins, a complete sanitary sewer system with outlets, and shade trees along the sidewalks will all be included in the improvements I give free of any cost.

Hundreds of men and teams are now at work—these improvements are not mere promises for the remote future. They are being installed NOW. Come out and see the army of men making the dirt fly.

Richmond Annex will be the first subdivision at Richmond to give these high-class improvements, and in addition a building restriction of $1500.00 has been adopted to protect property owners from having shacks or unattractive, cheap buildings built alongside their homes.

THE MAN WHO BUYS REAL ESTATE IN RICHMOND ANNEX NOW IS SURE OF A RAPID INCREASE IN VALUE.

Richmond is the fastest growing city on San Francisco Bay; in 1900 there were about ten people here; today nearly 15,000. Richmond is the manufacturing center of the Pacific Coast; there are nearly 40 factories here now representing investments of over 35 million dollars—and more are now building.

RICHMOND WORKMEN WHO LIVE IN OAKLAND ARE NOW BUYING HOMESITES IN RICHMOND ANNEX—THEY RECOGNIZE THAT HERE IS THE ONE PLACE TO BUILD THEIR HOMES AND LIVE.

Lots $300 and Up

10% Down and $5 or More a Month With
No Interest or Taxes to Pay for Two Years

Come out and see Richmond Annex with its choice location, unexcelled view and splendid transportation, and you will say "Richmond Annex is the choice of all Richmond and the best around the bay."

How to Reach Richmond Annex

From San Francisco take Key Route boat and Piedmont train and get off at 40th and San Pablo avenue— or Southern Pacific broad gauge and California Loop train to 59th and Pablo avenue; take Richmond-Pullman car going out San Pablo avenue direct to Richmond-Annex. Office at county line.

From Oakland take the Richmond-Pullman car on Broadway, which goes out San Pablo avenue. This car runs alongside Richmond-Annex for nearly a mile.

Number of Bearing Vines in 1910, 244,097,719; Increase of 41,870,064

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27.—A preliminary statement of the general results of the Thirteenth Census relative to the number of farmers reporting grape vines of bearing age and vines not yet of bearing age, together with the number of vines in each class, as of date April 15, 1910, and giving the amount of grapes produced and the value of the crop, in 1909, was issued today by Director E. Dana Durand of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce and Labor. The report was prepared under the direction of L. G. Grand, chief statistician, and John Lee Coulter, expert special agent, for agriculture. Further analysis of the report may result in slight modifications of the totals here presented before final publication, but it is not expected that they will affect materially the figures given herein.

INCREASE IN NUMBER.
At the census of 1900, taken as of June 1, there were reported 182,227,655 grape vines of bearing age, as against 224,097,719 vines in 1910 (census taken as of April 15), an increase of 41,870,064 vines, or 23 per cent. In 1910 there were 233,906 farmers who reported the growing of grape vines or 14.6 per cent. of the total number of farmers in the United States. No report was received in 1900 showing the number of such growers. The average number of vines per farm is given as 243, but this high average is due largely to the fact that in the Pacific Division, which reports considerably more than half of all grape vines in the country, the average per farm amounts to 555.

The returns of the 1900 census, likewise, did not secure the number of vines under bearing age. In 1910, however, 232,144 farmers (or 3.6 per cent. of the total) had 59,927,318 vines not of bearing age, or an average of 256 per farm.

PRODUCTION OF GRAPES.
The last census shows that in 1909 there were produced in the United States, 2,570,956,310 pounds of grapes, having a total value of $22,035,060. The production at that time was almost double what it was ten years previously when a crop of 1,300,761,066 pounds was gathered. The returns of the 1900 census secured no information as to value of grapes.

NUMBER OF VINES.
Of the nine main geographical divisions into which the census divides the country, the Pacific Division in 1910 and 1900 reported the largest number of vines of bearing age, 144,809,579 and 141,441,043, respectively. In 1909 a total of 1,984,597,494 pounds of grapes were gathered against 1,230,172,000 pounds in 1899. The value of the crop in 1909 was $10,937,000.

The division ranking next in all items is the Middle Atlantic. In 1910 this division had 38,676,641 vines of bearing age, against 35,547,114 vines in 1900. At the present census 292,527,780 pounds of grapes were produced by this division, valued at $4,945,342. Ten years ago the yield equaled 239,958,439 pounds, a slight decrease since 1899.

The East North Central Division, with 22,702,431 vines of bearing age, is third in rank. In 1900 the corresponding number of vines was 24,759,483, a slight falling off thus being shown. The vines of bearing age in 1909 produced 1,541,611,776 pounds valued at $3,127,462, but in 1899 there were gathered 1,593,936,481 pounds, the increase during the ten years being 24,725,295 pounds.

These three divisions reported over 95 per cent of the total product for 1909.

PRODUCTION BY STATES.
Over 83 per cent. of all vines of bearing age in the United States is in three states—California, New York and Michigan. California had, in 1910, a total of 144,088,000 vines, an increase over 1900 of 53,413,000 vines. The production in 1909 amounted to 1,979,587,000 pounds, valued at $10,847,000. In 1899 there were produced 72,483,800 pounds.

In New York there were, at the present census, 11,802,000 vines of bearing age. The production reported for 1909 was 253,006,000 pounds, as against 247,836,000 pounds in 1899. The value of the crop in 1909 was $3,932,000.

Michigan had 11,014,000 vines of bearing age in 1910. The product in 1909 amounted to 120,596,000 pounds valued at $1,531,000. In 1899 a production of 41,530,000 pounds was reported.

SCHWAB PLEASED WITH CONDITIONS

Company Has Made no Definite Plans in Regard to Hunter's Point.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—That his company has no definite plans regarding the proposed drydock at Hunter's Point is the statement of Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, which owns the Union Iron Works of this city. Schwab, who arrived from the East yesterday, was met at the train by H. B. Snyder, vice-president of the company, and J. A. McGregor of the local iron works. He declined to discuss the proposed dock, stating that plans were not decided on.

Schwab admits that he is in consultation with his subordinates over the details of the situation, but that in view of the opening of the canal.

WELL SATISFIED.
"You may say this," he added, "we are very well satisfied, indeed, with the investments our company has made in this city, and are ready to make such further investments as the situation may warrant."

"I will say further that I believe conditions are better in this city from an industrial and business standpoint than they have ever been."

"The city has a harbor and a situation in regard to the state and the nation that warrants anyone in the prophesy that it is to become one of the great commercial cities of the nation and of the world."

WILL MAKE IMPROVEMENTS.
"As present drydocks can accommodate any ship flying from or to this port. We are not just now contemplating any definite plans for more or larger docks, but you can say emphatically that, just as soon as we discover a need or a future demand for such accommodations, we will build in accordance with the need."

After a great many general comments regarding the city and financial prospects, Mr. Schwab turned his attention to the local industrial and labor situation.

"I am informed by Mr. McGregor," he said, "that labor conditions are much better here than they have ever been. Therefore, in the future, the supply of labor has never been equal to the demand for it; now I understand that conditions are reversed."

"Don't misunderstand," he continued, "that cheap labor spells prosperity for industry. On the contrary, since the organizations of the big corporations the highest measure of prosperity have been those in which the payment of the highest wages."

BIG FREIGHTER TO HAVE OIL BURNERS

Installation Being Watched With Interest; News From the Waterfront.

The big freighter Eureka of the Pacific Coast Steamship Line put in yesterday afternoon and tied up at a berth alongside the Moore & Scott Company's shipyard. During her stay at the local yard the vessel will have a complete oil-burning system installed. This will be the second of its kind installed at the local yard and is the first American vessel on this coast to have the new system put in. The Norwegian steamer Jason of the Jepsen line was the first vessel of foreign flag to have the new system installed. The job being done several months ago in the local yards of the Moore & Scott Company. The installation of the oil-burning system into the Eureka will be watched with considerable interest by shipping concerns along the entire coast and the great success of the Jason project has induced the local coast people in fitting out the Eureka with the new system. As was the case with the Jason, the installation of the oil-burning system in the Eureka will be closely watched by the large shipping concerns on the coast and will undoubtedly lead to the converting of the present coal burners into oil-burning craft.

According to the Jepsen officials, the oil-burning system in the Jason is a success. Not only is the oil fuel considerably cheaper than the former coal-burning system, but the space taken up by the coal storage is greatly reduced, making it possible to utilize the cargo-carrying capacity of the vessel.

The installation of the oil-burning system into the Eureka will, according to report, be followed by the converting of all of the vessels of the Pacific Coast fleet.

The regular to the freight and passenger steamer City of Panama of the Pacific Mail Steamship Line were completed yesterday and late in the afternoon the big vessel left off the ways and was shifted over to the San Francisco side by the tug Arab, also owned by the Pacific Mail Company. A noteworthy incident of the big ocean craft's departure was the great interest taken by the spectators on shore as to the number of lifeboats she carried. The vessel carried four life rafts and seven lifeboats, which, according to her officers, are capable of handling both passengers and crew in case of need. The Panama will begin loading freight for the south on the San Francisco side. She is in charge of Captain Altman and arrived here several days ago from Balboa, via way ports.

CRASHES INTO WHARF.
Crashing head on into the city wharf at the foot of Webster street, the Callifornia Transportation Company's river steamer Constancia, in charge of Captain Beringer, tore a six-foot hole in the wharf before she could be brought to a stop. The accident occurred yesterday shortly before noon. The steamer, which plies between here and points on the river as far as Stockton had just made her run up the stream and was standing about to lay alongside her owner's warehouses when the vessel's stern wheel began to churn and she sped forward and crashed into the wharf.

The reverse order was given before the vessel could do any great damage and was standing about to lay alongside her owner's warehouses when the vessel's stern wheel began to churn and she sped forward and crashed into the wharf.

DREDGE TO WORK.
The American Dredging Company's suction dredge Yankee, in charge of Captain William Osmond, which at present engaged in deepening the local harbor, will leave in several days for Petaluma to deepen the entrance to Petaluma creek. A large number of ship carpenters are at present busy in East Oakland at work on the dredge and will be used in the work. The dredge will deepen the creek entrance so that it will be possible for vessels drawing a dozen feet or less to enter. The work will take about a month to complete.

The steamer City of Puebla, Captain Hannah of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, is scheduled to arrive here this morning from Victoria. She will pick up the 500 tons of merchandise and will discharge a 1000-ton freight cargo.

Another launch will be added to the already large fleet of this class running about the bay when a new Crowley launch and tugboat vessel leaves the wharf of the William Gray wharfed in East Oakland, where it is at present in the building. The new craft will be similar to other towboats owned and operated by the big San Francisco concern.

She will be 40 feet long and will have an 11-foot beam. She will be operated by a 30-horsepower Standard gas engine.

BEING OVERHAULED.
The pleasure launch Katie V, owned by George Vesper, which was recently built at the yards of Gray, is at the yards of her builder undergoing a general overhauling.

Because of the cramped condition of his present quarters at the foot of Eleventh avenue, William Gray, the well-known and popular boat builder of East Oakland, has made arrangements to remove from his present location to one at the foot of Danforth street. The new location is not only more commodious, but it is also so situated that it is in the center of "Gas Engine Row," making it possible to have an engine installed in a boat without much trouble. The concern's master of "Gas Engine Row" are the Atlas Gas Engine Works, Standard Gas Engine Works, Union Gas Engine Works, with the Gorham Engineering Works several blocks further east. Gray is making arrangements to have his new quarters as commodious as possible and for the past few months has been visiting the various shipbuilding concerns on the coast getting ideas for his new yards.

The tug Glencove is at the Standard Gas Engine Works having her shafting repaired.

The river steamer Elita B. of Flint, Hatch & Co.'s fleet arrived yesterday from Sacramento river points, after her initial trip this season on the asparagus run. She will keep up a two-day run from now on until the close of the season.

The Native Sons of Rest have chartered the Oakland Launch and Tugboat Company's tug Dido to take them to Glencove tomorrow. Captain William Osmond will pilot the tug and will also attend to chartering the party. "Twenty-five couples will make the trip which promises to be a real 'swell' time."
